U.S., SOVIET SPLIT ON CONFERENCE

Gen. Bradley Lashes Out At Ike's Program Of Defense Economizing

Ex-Head Of JCS Fears Cuts May "Become Habit"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)— Retired Gen. Omar N. Bradley today publicly joined the critics of President Eisenhower's economy defense program.

Bradley said the administration's five billion dollar cut in defense spending looks "at first glance . . . like coasting before you reach the top of the hill." He voiced concern the cuts may become a habit "more dangerous than the habit of dollar extravagance."

He used the term "extremely dangerous" in referring to Secretary of Defense Wilson's plan to narrow the nation's military production base in the interest of economy and efficiency.

Defense Of Planning

Bradley spoke out in a Saturday Evening Post article titled "A Soldier's Farewell," released only three days after his retirement as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In the main, the article is a report, and a defense, of the military planning during the past four years.

The 60-year-old general said it wasn't the military's job to say how much money could be spent for defense without danger to the U. S. economy—although he conceded he did make this mistake in 1950 prior to the Korean War. Then he added:

"My main concern is not with the current cuts, but with the tendency of defense cuts to become a habit as tempting as, and more dangerous than, the habit of dollar extravagance."

Set Goal In 1951

Bradley said the old Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1951 had worked out a buildup program which they felt would achieve a "plateau of relative safety" by the end of 1954. He added that economic advisors had assured them the program was feasible.

He went on to say President Truman in 1952 decided to stretch out the goal to 1955. And then he said:

"Now the new secretary of defense, Charles E. Wilson, backed by President Eisenhower, has decided to cut next year's defense budget by something over five billion dollars. It would appear that this will further delay the date at which we will reach the force goals recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff or result in a reduction of these goals."

GPO Suspends Employe Named As Communist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Edward Rothschild, Government Printing Office bookbinder, refused to say today whether he was a Communist, stole a secret code, or engaged in espionage. The GPO suspended him within an hour.

Rothschild was summoned before the Senate investigations subcommittee to face what Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) said were "some of the most serious charges ever made against a government official."

"Mr. Rothschild," the senator said sternly, "very, very serious charges have been made concerning you, that you have been a long time member of the Communist party, you have stolen secret documents, your wife has been a member and officer of the Communist party."

Declines Chance To Comment

He offered the slender pipe-smoking witness a chance to comment at any length. Rothschild shook his head in refusal.

Confronted with a long list of specific questions about communism, spying, stealing secret papers sent to the government's big printing plant for printing, Rothschild took cover behind the Constitution's Fifth Amendment. He said replies might tend to incriminate him.

"Your refusal," McCarthy declared, "is telling the world that you have been stealing documents, that you are a member of the party, that you have been engaged in espionage. You can do that if you want to."

McCarthy's Instructions

Turning to Roy Cohn, the subcommittee attorney sitting by his side, McCarthy issued these instructions;

"Mr. Counsel, will you call the head of the Government Printing Office and tell him of this testimony? I assume he will be suspended. I can't conceive of his being allowed to go back to the Government Printing Office and allowed to handle secret material."

The subcommittee is trying to find out whether Reds or Red sympathizers at the government printing plant have slipped secret documents, possibly some involving the atom and hydrogen bombs, to Communist confederates.

Happy Sanders Reunited With Wife, Daughters

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 18 (AP) — Newly freed from a Red Hungarian prison, Edgar Sanders had a joyful reunion here tonight with his wife, Winifred, and three teen-age daughters.

The British businessman whom the Hungarians called a spy embraced his wife, who was instrumental in effecting his release, and their children after a separation of years complicated by delays today in Vienna.

Though Sanders, white-haired at 46, looked thin after almost four years' imprisonment, it was a happy family.

Jailed With Vogeler

"It is only natural for him to look happy," Mrs. Sanders had told reporters. "There is no better place than home."

Hungary announced last night it was freeing Sanders, who was jailed along with Robert A. Vogeler of New York in 1949, following an appeal for clemency sent to President Istvan Dobi by Mrs. Sanders. The Briton crossed the border today at the Austrian village of Nickelsdorf.

Sanders, a cousin of movie actor George Sanders, was brought on to Vienna by a British legation car and installed at the British-run Park Hotel for food and rest.

Family Flown To Vienna

Mrs. Sanders and the girls were flown from London to Vienna in a small plane chartered by a London newspaper. She and her daughters, Barbara, 18, Yvonne, 17, and Denise, 12, were accompanied by three reporters. But nobody from the British Embassy was at the airport to welcome them or take them to Sanders. It was almost two hours before they finally reached him.

Sanders told a news conference he had been mentally pressured into confessing spy charges, but was not physically tortured before his trial in 1950.

He told of long grillings that wrung confessions of espionage and sabotage from him. The British said at the time they were false.

Gunman-Burglar Hunted In Slaying

HOLYOKE, Mass., Aug. 18 (AP)— Police checked meagre clues tonight in their hunt for the housebreaker who shot down Alderman Henry H. Noel, 72, early today on the staircase of his hilltop home.

Noel, prominent in Republican party affairs in the western part of the state, was killed by a single shot through the chest as he went down the stairs to investigate a noise he had heard.

Noel carried only an unloaded .22 calibre rifle as he confronted the masked gunman-burglar.

The gunman escaped by crashing through the front screen door, smashing the screen from its fastenings in his haste. Police said they found some bloody fingerprints on the door.

Radio Station Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Engineering personnel of radio station WOR, key station of the Mutual network, went on strike today but the management said only local radio and television programs were affected.

Byrd Says Debt Lid Boost Could Lead To Disaster

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said today that hope for balancing the budget rests almost entirely on keeping the present 275 billion dollar debt limit.

"If we can retain this present debt ceiling, there is some hope of balancing the budget," he said in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report. "But if we keep on borrowing the money, there's no hope at all."

Byrd successfully opposed the Eisenhower administration's effort to have Congress boost the limit from 275 to 190 billion dollars. He was one of the 11-4 majority of the Senate Finance Committee which blocked action on the proposed increase during the closing days of Congress. The debt now is 272½ billions.

Byrd said he regards that controversy as "one of the milestones in the preservation of the solvency of our government." If the debt continues to rise, he said, it will go "over the precipice of financial disaster."

The fact that five of the eight Republicans on the committee voted against the increase, he said, makes it clear "there was no politics or partisanship involved." Congress may have to be called to raise the ceiling this year. Byrd expressed confidence the present limit can be held.

"I contend that there are only four months in the next 11 when, by Treasury figures, the debt limit will be exceeded," he said, "and in those big months you could reduce the balance on hand from six billions to four and avoid increasing the debt ceiling."

He referred to a six billion dollar cash balance which the Treasury normally maintains in banks throughout the country as a working balance.

Reds Release Biggest Batch Of Prisoners

U. N. Ready To Serve "Very Hot" Demand For All POWs' Return

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Communists today sent back the largest group of Allied prisoners yet, and the Allies returned the smallest batch, but the Reds still got more men than they gave.

There was little shouting or excitement as the day's exchange of 456 Allied prisoners—including 75 Americans, 75 British and 306 South Koreans—for 602 North Koreans began at 9 a.m. (7 p.m. Tuesday, EST).

The first groups of 25 Americans and a like number of British were quiet but happy. The second group included one British litter patient, who was evacuated by helicopter.

Reds Chant, Wave Flags

As usual the northbound Korean Reds, stripped to their khaki shorts, waved little Red flags and chanted songs as they approached the Red demarcation line.

The Allied delivery of 602 Reds during the day was only one-fourth the usual 2,400 handed over. Stormy conditions at Koje Island the past few days had interfered with the loading process.

Another type of storm was brewing at Panmunjom where the Committee for Repatriation of War Prisoners was to meet at 3 p.m. (1 a.m. Wednesday, EST).

Allied members of the repatriation committee were reported preparing to serve firm demands on the Reds that all captive U. N. troops be handed over—including those given last minute prison terms as so-called "instigators against peace."

"Hot" Meeting Expected

An official Allied spokesman said the repatriation committee meeting would be "very hot." He declined to divulge just when the U. N. officers would:

1. Demand Red assurances that all prisoners will be freed.
2. Answer Red charges of atrocities in U. N. prison camps.

Quick to make a counter-charge, the Red Peiping radio, heard in Tokyo, charged the U. N. Command was "forcibly" detaining 540 North Koreans and between 200 and 300 Chinese Communists due for direct repatriation.

Troops Alerted In Strike Crisis

PARIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—The French government moved extra troops into the Paris region today for anti-riot duty in case the Communists stir up violence over the stalemated strike situation.

Between 500 and 600 soldiers were assigned to back up the Paris security forces, government sources said. There were unconfirmed reports that the reinforcements included some tanks.

With the unions and premier Joseph Laniel's Cabinet at loggerheads for the second week over proposed governmental economies, Parliament probably will be called next Tuesday to consider the situation. The strike crisis developed as the members of Parliament were on a vacation that was supposed to last until October.

Widespread strikes gripped vital public services. Losses in the railroads, postal services, coal mines and Paris transport systems alone were estimated today at more than 15 billion francs (40 million dollars).

Extra Notes In Piano Is Barroom Mystery

LEICESTER, England, Aug. 18 (AP)—Who put the extra notes in the barroom piano at the Fifle Vounteer Inn?

Police and customers today sought a key to the mystery.

But for a 78-year-old woman customer the discovery of 157 pounds ($439.60) amid the piano strings was the best music she had ever heard from the battered old instrument.

The money was her life's savings which she had entrusted to the innkeeper for safekeeping several weeks ago. The money was reported stolen soon afterwards and didn't emerge until the inn-keeper's daughter opened the piano to dust.

Babies' Skeletons Found

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Two infant skeletons wrapped in 1947 newspapers were discovered today in a war housing project being razed for slum clearance.

"Lightning Arrester"

Pretty 17-year-old Mrs. Joseph Russell, Orlando, Fla., smiles from her hospital bed while recovering from effects of a lightning bolt which struck her in the stomach, causing temporary unconsciousness and paralysis and head injuries. While combing her hair in the kitchen, lightning struck the wiring, jumped to the sink and struck Mrs. Russell. "Glad it didn't damage my new refrigerator," she said.

Teamwork Will Feature Power Policy, GOP Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today announced its power policy in a declaration emphasizing that "local interests, either public or private" must fill the key role in supplying electricity to the nation.

At the same time, Interior Department officials said the federal government would continue to build big multi-purpose dams that are beyond the capacity of local enterprise.

"Tremendous" Job

These dams, administered by the department, are basically for reclamation and irrigation of arid lands largely in the West. But power is a by-product that often overshadows the original purpose.

The policy declaration said the job of meeting the nation's power needs is "tremendous."

It will require "a partnership of the states and local communities. Private citizens, and the federal government, all working together," the statement continued. "It is not a policy of monopoly by any one of these parties."

Eisenhower Cited TVA

Interior Secretary McKay has expressed the view the new Republican administration inherited a power policy from the Democrats conceived with the idea of a government power monopoly in large areas of the nation.

President Eisenhower, at a news conference in June, cited the Tennessee Valley Authority, with its great power production, as an example of "creeping socialism." He emphasized he was not out to destroy TVA.

Ike To Help Dedicate N. Y. Housing Project

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower will speak tomorrow at the dedication of Baruch Houses, Lower East Side housing project named for the father of Bernard Baruch.

The president will speak briefly at the dedication ceremonies at the end of a busy few hours in the city, then will fly back to Denver to resume his vacation.

Baruch Houses are a 32 million dollar federal slum clearance project named for Dr. Simon Baruch, a Confederate Army surgeon who later became a leading New York doctor.

Reds Release Two More Marylanders

By The Associated Press

Two more Marylanders were reported among the group of prisoners of war turned over to the Allies by the Communists at Freedom Village today.

The official list of freed prisoners issued by the United Nations Command contained the names of Cpl. Michael Verinakis, of Sparrows Point near Baltimore, and Corporal Vernon S. Rea, of Glen Burnie in Anne Arundel County.

Wolves Critically Injure Boy At Zoo

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—A pair of timber wolves attacked and critically injured an orphan boy who stuck his arm between cage bars in the Utica zoo today.

Ten-year-old Donald McCray was visiting the zoo with a group from the home where he lived. Authorities said he apparently reached over the screen mesh and tried to feed or pet the wolves.

After the animals attacked, an unidentified man drove them away from the boy with a pole. Donald's hands and left arm were slashed and hospital attendants said his arm might be broken. His loss of blood made his condition critical, doctors said.

Berber Leader Assails France

RABAT, Morocco, Aug. 18 (AP)—The pasha of Marrakech, leader of Berber tribesmen challenging the rule of pro-nationalist Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, lashed out against France in a statement today

Pasha Thami El Glaoui, said to have armed tribesmen poised ready to strike, declared that unless France kicks out the Sultan immediately "her friends can tomorrow become the enemies of France."

El Glaoui has been France's best friend in Morocco for 40 years, but in his statement issued in Marrakesh he said:

"I wish to believe that they understand in France the limits of my friendship."

The Berber tribesmen who support El Glaoui were reported ready to ride out of the hills against the Sultan at command. Observers said it appeared that only French Union forces stood in the way of a civil war. French sources called El Glaoui's threat "grave and alarming."

Nearly $200,000 Netted By Bandit In Bank Robbery

FLORAL PARK, N. Y., Aug. 18 A chatty young gunman, using as a shield a bank manager kidnaped from his own front lawn, today staged a bank robbery netting nearly $200,000—possibly the greatest amount of cash ever taken in a bank holdup in the United States.

The manager was taken along in his own car to cover the escape, too, but was dumped out a few miles from the bank, a branch of the Franklin National Bank. His car was found abandoned later.

First estimates gave the amount scooped into bags by bank employes under the bandit's gun at about $160,000, but a final tally raised it to $191,280.

$2,268,700 Holdup In 1930

As far as could be ascertained immediately, the only bank robbery exceeding it occurred in September, 1930, when seven men with machine guns took $2,268,700 in loot from the Lincoln National Bank at Lincoln, Neb. However, less than $25,000 of this was cash.

The Floral Park bank manager, Eric Gronwall, 44, told police and FBI agents that an accomplice had followed him and his abductor right from his house in another car, presumably used later for both to make their getaway.

Arriving at the bank, the gunman marched Gronwall inside where three employes, one of them a woman, were preparing for the day's business.

Ordered Out Of Car

Holding the manager at gunpoint, the robber forced the other employes to scoop money from the vault and teller's cages into bank bags.

Then, warning the others not to follow, the robber made Gronwall pick up the bags, carry them to the car, and then drove off with him toward New York City.

Gronwall was ordered out of his car in a residential area of Queens, Borough of New York City. He tried vainly to get into a house to telephone police but residents were suspicious of their early morning caller. He finally convinced one man and, after reporting the crime, made his way to a police station house nearby.

Russians Want Five 'Neutrals' At Korea Talks

Lodge Denounces Moscow's Plan As 'Sleazy Maneuver'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today the United Nations set up a Korean peace conference made up of 11 countries, including five "neutrals." The proposal ran directly counter to United States desires to limit the conference to actual combatants.

Soviet Chief Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky recommended the following conference list in a resolution put before the U. N. General Assembly's 60-national Political Committee:

The United States, Britain, France, Red China, North Korea and South Korea, the Soviet Union, India, Poland, Sweden and Burma —the latter five being the "neutrals."

He also proposed that decisions of the conference will be considered adopted if they have the consent of the parties which signed the armistice agreement. This would exclude the South Korean government of Syngman Rhee, which did not sign the armistice.

Could Outvote U. N. Minority

Western delegates pointed out Vishinsky's list included only four of the 17 countries which fought for the U. N. and that a combination of the Communist bloc plus the neutrals conceivably could outvote the U. N. minority.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, quickly denounced the Russian resolution as a "sleazy maneuver" and said it was designed to let the Communists dominate the conference.

Swedish delegation sources said that Sweden would not take part in the conference, since Sweden already is serving on the Prisoner of War Repatriation Commission.

Vishinsky tossed in his resolution without fanfare as the United States, Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand outlined their ideas for the conference. The committee began work on the Korea peace conference after administering the grey-haired Russian delegate two sound thrashings via the ballot.

Bid To Red China Defeated

Vishinsky demanded that the Political Committee invite Red China and North Korea to take part in the debate on creation of the political conference. Lodge insisted they had no place in this discussion since they would be in the political conference anyway.

Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil, the chairman, ruled that the committee refused to invite North Korea here last year. The committee voted 34-18 against reconsidering that action, with seven abstaining, including Mexico, Chile, Bolivia, Guatemala, and Israel.

Muniz then called for a vote on inviting Red China and the proposal was defeated, 34-14, with nine abstaining.

Ed 'Boss' Flynn Dies In Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 18 (AP) — Edward J. Flynn—the "Boss" Flynn of Democratic national and New York City politics—died here last night while on a vacation trip. He was 61.

Flynn succeeded James A. Farley as Democratic national chairman in 1940 and directed President Franklin D. Roosevelt's precedent-breaking third term campaign.

The cause of Flynn's death in St. Vincent's Hospital was not announced. He had been suffering for years from a heart ailment.

He was confined to a wheelchair when he sailed from New York aboard the liner Mauretania July 25, accompanied by his wife and a daughter, Sheila. They had been staying at the home of Chief Justice Connor Maguire, a friend of long standing.

Flynn's body will be flown home Thursday for funeral services in the Bronx, where he was born.

Flynn was a politician whose career was checked with successes and failures.

Recognizing that he was known as "Boss," he wrote a book called "You're the Boss." In it he said that political machines were necessary and that the people could have good or bad machines as they preferred.

He attained national political prominence in 1932 when he allied with Farley to play a major part in obtaining Roosevelt's first presidential nomination.

Flynn and Farley later split—Flynn championing the New Deal wing of the party, and Farley the so-called conservative wing.

16 Railroad Cars Run Wild Through 10 Pennsy Towns

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)— A string of 16 coal cars ran wild early today for 27½ miles through the city of Scranton and nine other towns, passing 25 grade crossings.

The train rolled to a stop on an up grade. No one was hurt.

There wasn't even any property damage—no trains were moving on the southbound tracks. A northbound freight train passed the runaway between Scranton and Carbondale.

The 16 cars, minus a locomotive, broke loose from a train being switched to a siding in the Carbondale yards of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad at 2:30 a.m. Thirteen were loaded with coal. Quietly and slowly at first they rolled out of the yards before railroaders saw what was happening.

Yardmen at Carbondale telephoned state police who sent all available patrol cars to grade crossings along the route. Police in a dozen towns were alerted.

An officer estimated the runaway was rolling 75 miles an hour as it hurtled through the central district of Scranton. Most of the city's 124,000 residents were asleep a the time.

At Yatesville the runaways met a steep upgrade, slowed to a stop and then rolled backward stopping again in the Avoca yards. There the wild journey ended as railroaders clamped on the brakes.

GPO Suspends Employe Named As Communist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Edward Rothschild, Government Printing Office bookbinder, refused to say today whether he was a Communist, stole a secret code, or engaged in espionage. The GPO suspended him within an hour.

Rothschild was summoned before the Senate investigations subcommittee to face what Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) said were "some of the most serious charges ever made against a government official."

Confronted with a long list of specific questions about communism, spying, stealing secret papers sent to the government's big printing plant for printing, Rothschild took cover behind the Constitution's Fifth Amendment. He said replies might tend to incriminate him.

"Your refusal," McCarthy declared, "is telling the world that you have been stealing documents, that you are a member of the party, that you have been engaged in espionage. You can do that if you want to."

McCarthy's Instructions

Turning to Roy Cohn, the subcommittee attorney sitting by his side, McCarthy issued these instructions;

"Mr. Counsel, will you call the head of the Government Printing Office and tell him of this testimony? I assume he will be suspended. I can't conceive of his being allowed to go back to the Government Printing Office and allowed to handle secret material."

The subcommittee is trying to find out whether Reds or Red sympathizers at the government printing plant have slipped secret documents, possibly some involving the atom and hydrogen bombs, to Communist confederates.

Happy Sanders Reunited With Wife, Daughters

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 18 (AP) — Newly freed from a Red Hungarian prison, Edgar Sanders had a joyful reunion here tonight with his wife, Winifred, and three teen-age daughters.

The British businessman whom the Hungarians called a spy embraced his wife, who was instrumental in effecting his release, and their children after a separation of years complicated by delays today in Vienna.

Though Sanders, white-haired at 46, looked thin after almost four years' imprisonment, it was a happy family.

Jailed With Vogeler

"It is only natural for him to look happy," Mrs. Sanders had told reporters. "There is no better place than home."

Hungary announced last night it was freeing Sanders, who was jailed along with Robert A. Vogeler of New York in 1949, following an appeal for clemency sent to President Istvan Dobi by Mrs. Sanders. The Briton crossed the border today at the Austrian village of Nickelsdorf.

Sanders, a cousin of movie actor George Sanders, was brought on to Vienna by a British legation car and installed at the British-run Park Hotel for food and rest.

Family Flown To Vienna

Mrs. Sanders and the girls were flown from London to Vienna in a small plane chartered by a London newspaper. She and her daughters, Barbara, 18, Yvonne, 17, and Denise, 12, were accompanied by three reporters. But nobody from the British Embassy was at the airport to welcome them or take them to Sanders. It was almost two hours before they finally reached him.

Sanders told a news conference he had been mentally pressured into confessing spy charges, but was not physically tortured before his trial in 1950.

He told of long grillings that wrung confessions of espionage and sabotage from him. The British said at the time they were false.

Byrd Says Debt Lid Boost Could Lead To Disaster

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said today that hope for balancing the budget rests almost entirely on keeping the present 275 billion dollar debt limit.

"If we can retain this present debt ceiling, there is some hope of balancing the budget," he said in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report. "But if we keep on borrowing the money, there's no hope at all."

Byrd successfully opposed the Eisenhower administration's effort to have Congress boost the limit from 275 to 190 billion dollars. He was one of the 11-4 majority of the Senate Finance Committee which blocked action on the proposed increase during the closing days of Congress. The debt now is 272½ billions.

Byrd said he regards that controversy as "one of the milestones in the preservation of the solvency of our government." If the debt continues to rise, he said, it will go "over the precipice of financial disaster."

The fact that five of the eight Republicans on the committee voted against the increase, he said, makes it clear "there was no politics or partisanship involved." Congress may have to be called to raise the ceiling this year. Byrd expressed confidence the present limit can be held.

"I contend that there are only four months in the next 11 when, by Treasury figures, the debt limit will be exceeded," he said, "and in those big months you could reduce the balance on hand from six billions to four and avoid increasing the debt ceiling."

He referred to a six billion dollar cash balance which the Treasury normally maintains in banks throughout the country as a working balance.

Reds Release Biggest Batch Of Prisoners

U. N. Ready To Serve "Very Hot" Demand For All POWs' Return

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Communists today sent back the largest group of Allied prisoners yet, and the Allies returned the smallest batch, but the Reds still got more men than they gave.

There was little shouting or excitement as the day's exchange of 456 Allied prisoners—including 75 Americans, 75 British and 306 South Koreans—for 602 North Koreans began at 9 a.m. (7 p.m. Tuesday, EST).

The first groups of 25 Americans and a like number of British were quiet but happy. The second group included one British litter patient, who was evacuated by helicopter.

Reds Chant, Wave Flags

As usual the northbound Korean Reds, stripped to their khaki shorts, waved little Red flags and chanted songs as they approached the Red demarcation line.

The Allied delivery of 602 Reds during the day was only one-fourth the usual 2,400 handed over. Stormy conditions at Koje Island the past few days had interfered with the loading process.

Another type of storm was brewing at Panmunjom where the Committee for Repatriation of War Prisoners was to meet at 3 p.m. (1 a.m. Wednesday, EST).

Allied members of the repatriation committee were reported preparing to serve firm demands on the Reds that all captive U. N. troops be handed over—including those given last minute prison terms as so-called "instigators against peace."

"Hot" Meeting Expected

An official Allied spokesman said the repatriation committee meeting would be "very hot." He declined to divulge just when the U. N. officers would:

1. Demand Red assurances that all prisoners will be freed.
2. Answer Red charges of atrocities in U. N. prison camps.

Quick to make a counter-charge, the Red Peiping radio, heard in Tokyo, charged the U. N. Command was "forcibly" detaining 540 North Koreans and between 200 and 300 Chinese Communists due for direct repatriation.

Troops Alerted In Strike Crisis

PARIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—The French government moved extra troops into the Paris region today for anti-riot duty in case the Communists stir up violence over the stalemated strike situation.

Between 500 and 600 soldiers were assigned to back up the Paris security forces, government sources said. There were unconfirmed reports that the reinforcements included some tanks.

With the unions and premier Joseph Laniel's Cabinet at loggerheads for the second week over proposed governmental economies, Parliament probably will be called next Tuesday to consider the situation. The strike crisis developed as the members of Parliament were on a vacation that was supposed to last until October.

Widespread strikes gripped vital public services. Losses in the railroads, postal services, coal mines and Paris transport systems alone were estimated today at more than 15 billion francs (40 million dollars).

Extra Notes In Piano Is Barroom Mystery

LEICESTER, England, Aug. 18 (AP)—Who put the extra notes in the barroom piano at the Fifle Vounteer Inn?

Police and customers today sought a key to the mystery.

But for a 78-year-old woman customer the discovery of 157 pounds ($439.60) amid the piano strings was the best music she had ever heard from the battered old instrument.

The money was her life's savings which she had entrusted to the innkeeper for safekeeping several weeks ago. The money was reported stolen soon afterwards and didn't emerge until the inn-keeper's daughter opened the piano to dust.

Babies' Skeletons Found

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Two infant skeletons wrapped in 1947 newspapers were discovered today in a war housing project being razed for slum clearance.

"Lightning Arrester"

Pretty 17-year-old Mrs. Joseph Russell, Orlando, Fla., smiles from her hospital bed while recovering from effects of a lightning bolt which struck her in the stomach, causing temporary unconsciousness and paralysis and head injuries. While combing her hair in the kitchen, lightning struck the wiring, jumped to the sink and struck Mrs. Russell. "Glad it didn't damage my new refrigerator," she said.

Teamwork Will Feature Power Policy, GOP Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today announced its power policy in a declaration emphasizing that "local interests, either public or private" must fill the key role in supplying electricity to the nation.

At the same time, Interior Department officials said the federal government would continue to build big multi-purpose dams that are beyond the capacity of local enterprise.

"Tremendous" Job

These dams, administered by the department, are basically for reclamation and irrigation of arid lands largely in the West. But power is a by-product that often overshadows the original purpose.

The policy declaration said the job of meeting the nation's power needs is "tremendous."

It will require "a partnership of the states and local communities. Private citizens, and the federal government, all working together," the statement continued. "It is not a policy of monopoly by any one of these parties."

Eisenhower Cited TVA

Interior Secretary McKay has expressed the view the new Republican administration inherited a power policy from the Democrats conceived with the idea of a government power monopoly in large areas of the nation.

President Eisenhower, at a news conference in June, cited the Tennessee Valley Authority, with its great power production, as an example of "creeping socialism." He emphasized he was not out to destroy TVA.

Ike To Help Dedicate N. Y. Housing Project

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower will speak tomorrow at the dedication of Baruch Houses, Lower East Side housing project named for the father of Bernard Baruch.

The president will speak briefly at the dedication ceremonies at the end of a busy few hours in the city, then will fly back to Denver to resume his vacation.

Baruch Houses are a 32 million dollar federal slum clearance project named for Dr. Simon Baruch, a Confederate Army surgeon who later became a leading New York doctor.

Reds Release Two More Marylanders

By The Associated Press

Two more Marylanders were reported among the group of prisoners of war turned over to the Allies by the Communists at Freedom Village today.

The official list of freed prisoners issued by the United Nations Command contained the names of Cpl. Michael Verinakis, of Sparrows Point near Baltimore, and Corporal Vernon S. Rea, of Glen Burnie in Anne Arundel County.

Wolves Critically Injure Boy At Zoo

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—A pair of timber wolves attacked and critically injured an orphan boy who stuck his arm between cage bars in the Utica zoo today.

Ten-year-old Donald McCray was visiting the zoo with a group from the home where he lived. Authorities said he apparently reached over the screen mesh and tried to feed or pet the wolves.

After the animals attacked, an unidentified man drove them away from the boy with a pole. Donald's hands and left arm were slashed and hospital attendants said his arm might be broken. His loss of blood made his condition critical, doctors said.

Berber Leader Assails France

RABAT, Morocco, Aug. 18 (AP)—The pasha of Marrakech, leader of Berber tribesmen challenging the rule of pro-nationalist Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, lashed out against France in a statement today

Pasha Thami El Glaoui, said to have armed tribesmen poised ready to strike, declared that unless France kicks out the Sultan immediately "her friends can tomorrow become the enemies of France."

El Glaoui has been France's best friend in Morocco for 40 years, but in his statement issued in Marrakesh he said:

"I wish to believe that they understand in France the limits of my friendship."

The Berber tribesmen who support El Glaoui were reported ready to ride out of the hills against the Sultan at command. Observers said it appeared that only French Union forces stood in the way of a civil war. French sources called El Glaoui's threat "grave and alarming."

Nearly $200,000 Netted By Bandit In Bank Robbery

FLORAL PARK, N. Y., Aug. 18 A chatty young gunman, using as a shield a bank manager kidnaped from his own front lawn, today staged a bank robbery netting nearly $200,000—possibly the greatest amount of cash ever taken in a bank holdup in the United States.

The manager was taken along in his own car to cover the escape, too, but was dumped out a few miles from the bank, a branch of the Franklin National Bank. His car was found abandoned later.

First estimates gave the amount scooped into bags by bank employes under the bandit's gun at about $160,000, but a final tally raised it to $191,280.

$2,268,700 Holdup In 1930

As far as could be ascertained immediately, the only bank robbery exceeding it occurred in September, 1930, when seven men with machine guns took $2,268,700 in loot from the Lincoln National Bank at Lincoln, Neb. However, less than $25,000 of this was cash.

The Floral Park bank manager, Eric Gronwall, 44, told police and FBI agents that an accomplice had followed him and his abductor right from his house in another car, presumably used later for both to make their getaway.

Ordered Out Of Car

Holding the manager at gunpoint, the robber forced the other employes to scoop money from the vault and teller's cages into bank bags.

Then, warning the others not to follow, the robber made Gronwall pick up the bags, carry them to the car, and then drove off with him toward New York City.

Gronwall was ordered out of his car in a residential area of Queens, Borough of New York City. He tried vainly to get into a house to telephone police but residents were suspicious of their early morning caller. He finally convinced one man and, after reporting the crime, made his way to a police station house nearby.

16 Railroad Cars Run Wild Through 10 Pennsy Towns

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—A string of 16 coal cars ran wild early today for 27½ miles through the city of Scranton and nine other towns, passing 25 grade crossings.

The train rolled to a stop on an up grade. No one was hurt.

There wasn't even any property damage—no trains were moving on the southbound tracks. A northbound freight train passed the runaway between Scranton and Carbondale.

The 16 cars, minus a locomotive, broke loose from a train being switched to a siding in the Carbondale yards of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad at 2:30 a.m. Thirteen were loaded with coal. Quietly and slowly at first they rolled out of the yards before railroaders saw what was happening.

Yardmen at Carbondale telephoned state police who sent all available patrol cars to grade crossings along the route. Police in a dozen towns were alerted.

An officer estimated the runaway was rolling 75 miles an hour as it hurtled through the central district of Scranton. Most of the city's 124,000 residents were asleep at the time.

At Yatesville the runaways met a steep upgrade, slowed to a stop and then rolled backward stopping again in the Avoca yards. There the wild journey ended as railroaders clamped on the brakes.

Russians Want Five 'Neutrals' At Korea Talks

Lodge Denounces Moscow's Plan As 'Sleazy Maneuver'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today the United Nations set up a Korean peace conference made up of 11 countries, including five "neutrals." The proposal ran directly counter to United States desires to limit the conference to actual combatants.

Soviet Chief Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky recommended the following conference list in a resolution put before the U. N. General Assembly's 60-national Political Committee:

The United States, Britain, France, Red China, North Korea and South Korea, the Soviet Union, India, Poland, Sweden and Burma —the latter five being the "neutrals."

He also proposed that decisions of the conference will be considered adopted if they have the consent of the parties which signed the armistice agreement. This would exclude the South Korean government of Syngman Rhee, which did not sign the armistice.

Could Outvote U. N. Minority

Western delegates pointed out Vishinsky's list included only four of the 17 countries which fought for the U. N. and that a combination of the Communist bloc plus the neutrals conceivably could outvote the U. N. minority.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, quickly denounced the Russian resolution as a "sleazy maneuver" and said it was designed to let the Communists dominate the conference.

Swedish delegation sources said that Sweden would not take part in the conference, since Sweden already is serving on the Prisoner of War Repatriation Commission.

Vishinsky tossed in his resolution without fanfare as the United States, Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand outlined their ideas for the conference. The committee began work on the Korea peace conference after administering the grey-haired Russian delegate two sound thrashings via the ballot.

Bid To Red China Defeated

Vishinsky demanded that the Political Committee invite Red China and North Korea to take part in the debate on creation of the political conference. Lodge insisted they had no place in this discussion since they would be in the political conference anyway.

Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil, the chairman, ruled that the committee refused to invite North Korea here last year. The committee voted 34-18 against reconsidering that action, with seven abstaining, including Mexico, Chile, Bolivia, Guatemala, and Israel.

Muniz then called for a vote on inviting Red China and the proposal was defeated, 34-14, with nine abstaining.

Ed 'Boss' Flynn Dies In Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 18 (AP) — Edward J. Flynn—the "Boss" Flynn of Democratic national and New York City politics—died here last night while on a vacation trip. He was 61.

Flynn succeeded James A. Farley as Democratic national chairman in 1940 and directed President Franklin D. Roosevelt's precedent-breaking third term campaign.

The cause of Flynn's death in St. Vincent's Hospital was not announced. He had been suffering for years from a heart ailment.

He was confined to a wheelchair when he sailed from New York aboard the liner Mauretania July 25, accompanied by his wife and a daughter, Sheila. They had been staying at the home of Chief Justice Connor Maguire, a friend of long standing.

Flynn's body will be flown home Thursday for funeral services in the Bronx, where he was born.

Flynn was a politician whose career was checked with successes and failures.

Recognizing that he was known as "Boss," he wrote a book called "You're the Boss." In it he said that political machines were necessary and that the people could have good or bad machines as they preferred.

He attained national political prominence in 1932 when he allied with Farley to play a major part in obtaining Roosevelt's first presidential nomination.

Flynn and Farley later split—Flynn championing the New Deal wing of the party, and Farley the so-called conservative wing.

Iran Shah Says He Won't Abdicate Now But Is Dubious About Return

Handsome Ruler Says Stay In Italy Merely Vacation

ROME, Aug. 18 (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi of Iran's tottering peacock throne said today "I am not going to abdicate now," but was dubious about when or whether he might return.

The 33-year-old monarch, who flew from his Caspian Sea vacation palace while Tehran, the capital, flared into disorder last Sunday, arrived here unheralded by a British air liner from Baghdad with his green-eyed Queen Soraya, 20.

"I have not fled my country," he said in an interview.

Asked if he plans to go back, he answered: "Probably—but not in the immediate future." He implied he would not remain here long.

"My stay in Italy," he said, "is nothing but a vacation."

That, and uncertainty when he might return to Iran, prompted speculation that the Shah and his girl-queen may plan to go on, perhaps to Britain or the United States. He visited Washington in 1949 as the guest of President Truman and then toured many other cities, including New York, Detroit, Ft. Knox and Hollywood.

The handsome ruler said he was closely watching developments in his country, but declined "at this time" to make any comment on the moves of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, who announced his government forces smashed an attempted coup d'etat Sunday by the Shah's imperial guard.

None of Italy's colony of banished royalty was on hand to welcome the Shah or the girl he married after divorcing ex-King Farouk's sister, Princess Fawzia.

Farouk is the most prominent of the colony. He is basking in the sun at Capri. His 19-months-old son, Fuad, who slept through the night of June 18 when Egypt abolished the monarchy, is at Farouk's country villa at Grottaferrata. Mitai of Romania and his mother, ex-queen Elena, live at Florence. Aman Ullah, the king whom Afghanistan banised 30 years ago, lives quietly in Rome.

The Iranian Embassy learned the Shah was coming here, but planned to do nothing until it received instructions from Tehran. The Italian government said that, as a "vacationist," the Shah's visit is not official.

Police Battle Communists And Nationalists In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 18 (AP)—Sharp skirmishes broke out in the streets here tonight with police battling Communists and nationalists.

Scores of demonstrators, most of them bloodied, were thrown into trucks and hauled off to jail.

The riots followed a call by Iran's illegal Communist party for Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to set up "a democratic republic" during the Shah's absence abroad.

The demand was made in a proclamation published in the party's newspaper Shojaat. The party, whose members have been supporting Mossadegh as long as he sought to set aside the 17th Majlis (lower house of Parliament) and curb its powers, indirectly served notice on him that he might have a difficult time operating without Communist support.

"The Tudeh (Communist) party of Iran is the biggest organized power in our society and no anti-imperialist campaign can be carried out without the party's efficient participation," the declaration said.

Mossadegh continued police and army efforts to hunt down Maj. Gen. Fazlollah Zahedi, who holds that he is Iran's real premier, by appointment of the Shah just before the monarch left Iran Sunday.

Md. Air Guard May Get New Jet Airstrip

BALTIMORE, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, said today it's highly possible a new airstrip may be built for the state's Air National Guard jet planes.

In any event, he said, renewed efforts will be made to find a suitable base for the 104th Fighter Squadron within 30 miles or so of the city of Baltimore.

Gen. Reckord said he would confer in Washington tomorrow on the matter with Frank C. Nash, assistant secretary of defense for air.

Korea Truce Has Had Little Effect On U. S. Business

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The truce in Korea has had "little immediate effect" on the nation's booming business, the Department of Commerce said today.

The department's monthly report on economic activity said business this summer is the best for any summer on record, with private and governmental spending continuing strong through July.

The report, dealing mostly with conditions in July, included these details:

1. Industrial activity—Production in the steel and automobile industries were at near record rates in July. New construction spending in July totalled almost $3,300,000,000. That was higher than expenditures for new construction in any month during the past year. In general, industrial activity continued high into the third quarter of the year after allowance for the usual slackening in the vacation period.

2. Manufacturers' sales—For the third consecutive month manufacturers' sales in June were above the 26 billion dollar level. This put together the biggest three months on record for manufacturers' sales.

However, new orders continued to fall off and in June were half a billion dollars less than in May and five billions below the new order peak reached last September. Inventories continued to increase in June in both manufacturing and trade industries.

3. Personal income—Continues to rise at a moderate rate and consumers are continuing to spend their increased income. Higher wages and salaries in non-agricultural employment have more than offset declines in farm income.

4. Employment—Civilian employment continued in July at about the June rate, with latest estimates placing July employment at 63,100,000. Unemployment was the lowest for any July since World War II, with 1,500,000 persons seeking work.

U. S. Reserving Veto Right Over Any Moves By Chiang

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—United States officials said tonight that this government would have a powerful voice in any decision by the Chinese Nationalist leadership on Formosa to undertake major military operations against Communist China.

The United States is supplying modern military equipment to Chiang Kai-shek's forces and this aid is steadily building up their offensive capabalities. But at the same time the United States is reserving what might in some instances amount to a right of veto over any large-scale projects planned by Chiang.

Officials said that the United States and Chinese Nationalist governments had come to a full agreement on the question of a voice for the United States in such matters several months ago—about the time that a substantial buildup of armaments on Formosa began.

Such armaments presumably include the kind of equipment that might eventually be used in a major operation against the mainland. They also presumably include aircraft suitable for attack on Red Chinese military installations.

As explained by authorities here, the United States interest arises primarily from the fact that the United States 7th fleet still has the task of protecting Formosa against Communist attack although its earlier duties of preventing the Nationalists from attacking the Communist mainland was ended by President Eisenhower in February.

In his state-of-the-union message of Feb. 2 the President announced he was "issuing instructions that the 7th Fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China." He added that "This order implies no aggressive intent on our part."

The original order to the 7th Fleet was to prevent all military operations between Formosa and the Chinese Reds was issued by President Truman in 1950 after the outbreak of the war in Korea. Its purpose at that time was stated to be to prevent Formosa from becoming an active area of conflict and thereby jeoparding the southern flank of the forces fighting in Korea.

Dome Of Statehouse Will Be Illuminated

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin will throw a switch Saturday night on a lighting system, developed to illuminate the dome of Maryland's historic Statehouse.

The ceremony at 9 p.m. will climax a program the governor instituted shortly after taking office.

In a statement issued today, the governor said the 7,000 watt system will be "a symbol to people everywhere of Maryland's religious freedom and tolerance."

Four floodlights have been mounted on the original Statehouse which was built in 1772 and four on the new section built in 1902.

The announcement said that the cost of operating the system will be only 60 cents a night.

McKeldin instituted a series of lighting tests early this spring. Favorable letters were received, many of them from residents on the Eastern Shore who could see the dome. McKeldin pointed out that the lights will serve as an aid to both air and sea navigation.

Government Upheld In Land Controversy

LEWISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—A federal court ruled today the U. S. government need not tell a Baltimore man what it found in the way of minerals on land used for the "underground Pentagon" near the Maryland - Pennsylvania border.

Judge Frederick W. Follmer, sustaining government objections, refused to issue an order requested by Alfred Holt in connection with Holt's rejection of a $28,000 government offer for land taken for the installation.

Holt argued that 67 million dollars would be nearer the figure for the 280 acres of property where the government installation in the Blue Ridge Mountains now is being built.

Iran Shah Says He Won't Abdicate Now But Is Dubious About Return

Handsome Ruler Says Stay In Italy Merely Vacation

ROME, Aug. 18 (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi of Iran's tottering peacock throne said today "I am not going to abdicate now," but was dubious about when or whether he might return.

Police Battle Communists And Nationalists In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 18 (AP)—Sharp skirmishes broke out in the streets here tonight with police battling Communists and nationalists.

Scores of demonstrators, most of them bloodied, were thrown into trucks and hauled off to jail.

The riots followed a call by Iran's illegal Communist party for Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to set up "a democratic republic" during the Shah's absence abroad.

The demand was made in a proclamation published in the party's newspaper Shojaat. The party, whose members have been supporting Mossadegh as long as he sought to set aside the 17th Majlis (lower house of Parliament) and curb its powers, indirectly served notice on him that he might have a difficult time operating without Communist support.

"The Tudeh (Communist) party of Iran is the biggest organized power in our society and no anti-imperialist campaign can be carried out without the party's efficient participation," the declaration said.

Mossadegh continued police and army efforts to hunt down Maj. Gen. Fazlollah Zahedi, who holds that he is Iran's real premier, by appointment of the Shah just before the monarch left Iran Sunday.

Md. Air Guard May Get New Jet Airstrip

BALTIMORE, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, said today it's highly possible a new airstrip may be built for the state's Air National Guard jet planes.

In any event, he said, renewed efforts will be made to find a suitable base for the 104th Fighter Squadron within 30 miles or so of the city of Baltimore.

Gen. Reckord said he would confer in Washington tomorrow on the matter with Frank C. Nash, assistant secretary of defense for air.

Korea Truce Has Had Little Effect On U. S. Business

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The truce in Korea has had "little immediate effect" on the nation's booming business, the Department of Commerce said today.

The department's monthly report on economic activity said business this summer is the best for any summer on record, with private and governmental spending continuing strong through July.

The report, dealing mostly with conditions in July, included these details:

1. Industrial activity—Production in the steel and automobile industries were at near record rates in July. New construction spending in July totalled almost $3,300,000,000. That was higher than expenditures for new construction in any month during the past year. In general, industrial activity continued high into the third quarter of the year after allowance for the usual slackening in the vacation period.

2. Manufacturers' sales—For the third consecutive month manufacturers' sales in June were above the 26 billion dollar level. This put together the biggest three months on record for manufacturers' sales.

However, new orders continued to fall off and in June were half a billion dollars less than in May and five billions below the new order peak reached last September. Inventories continued to increase in June in both manufacturing and trade industries.

3. Personal income—Continues to rise at a moderate rate and consumers are continuing to spend their increased income. Higher wages and salaries in non-agricultural employment have more than offset declines in farm income.

4. Employment—Civilian employment continued in July at about the June rate, with latest estimates placing July employment at 63,100,000. Unemployment was the lowest for any July since World War II, with 1,500,000 persons seeking work.

U. S. Reserving Veto Right Over Any Moves By Chiang

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—United States officials said tonight that this government would have a powerful voice in any decision by the Chinese Nationalist leadership on Formosa to undertake major military operations against Communist China.

The United States is supplying modern military equipment to Chiang Kai-shek's forces and this aid is steadily building up their offensive capabalities. But at the same time the United States is reserving what might in some instances amount to a right of veto over any large-scale projects planned by Chiang.

Officials said that the United States and Chinese Nationalist governments had come to a full agreement on the question of a voice for the United States in such matters several months ago—about the time that a substantial buildup of armaments on Formosa began.

Such armaments presumably include the kind of equipment that might eventually be used in a major operation against the mainland. They also presumably include aircraft suitable for attack on Red Chinese military installations.

As explained by authorities here, the United States interest arises primarily from the fact that the United States 7th fleet still has the task of protecting Formosa against Communist attack although its earlier duties of preventing the Nationalists from attacking the Communist mainland was ended by President Eisenhower in February.

In his state-of-the-union message of Feb. 2 the President announced he was "issuing instructions that the 7th Fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China." He added that "This order implies no aggressive intent on our part."

The original order to the 7th Fleet was to prevent all military operations between Formosa and the Chinese Reds was issued by President Truman in 1950 after the outbreak of the war in Korea. Its purpose at that time was stated to be to prevent Formosa from becoming an active area of conflict and thereby jeopardizing the southern flank of the forces fighting in Korea.

Dome Of Statehouse Will Be Illuminated

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin will throw a switch Saturday night on a lighting system, developed to illuminate the dome of Maryland's historic Statehouse.

The ceremony at 9 p.m. will climax a program the governor instituted shortly after taking office.

In a statement issued today, the governor said the 7,000 watt system will be "a symbol to people everywhere of Maryland's religious freedom and tolerance."

Four floodlights have been mounted on the original Statehouse which was built in 1772 and four on the new section built in 1902.

The announcement said that the cost of operating the system will be only 60 cents a night.

McKeldin instituted a series of lighting tests early this spring. Favorable letters were received, many of them from residents on the Eastern Shore who could see the dome. McKeldin pointed out that the lights will serve as an aid to both air and sea navigation.

Government Upheld In Land Controversy

LEWISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—A federal court ruled today the U. S. government need not tell a Baltimore man what it found in the way of minerals on land used for the "underground Pentagon" near the Maryland-Pennsylvania border.

Judge Frederick W. Follmer, sustaining government objections, refused to issue an order requested by Alfred Holt in connection with Holt's rejection of a $28,000 government offer for land taken for the installation.

Holt argued that 67 million dollars would be nearer the figure for the 280 acres of property where the government installation in the Blue Ridge Mountains now is being built.

Manion To Head Federal-State Study Committee

DENVER, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower today picked Clarence E. Manion, former Dean of Notre Dame University Law School, to head a new study commission on federal-state problems, including duplication of taxes.

Eisenhower made the appointment as he prepared to leave by plane tonight (midnight, EST) for New York, where he has a busy schedule tomorrow.

In Manhattan, he will meet with Vice President Nixon and other newly appointed members of a government committee set up to help prevent hiring and firing discrimination in plants with federal contracts; take part in dedication of a 32 million dollar federal housing project, and register for the New York City elections to be held this fall.

The President also will confer there with Secretary of Labor Durkin; Harold Reigelman, the Republican candidate for mayor of New York, and several other individuals. He will fly back to his Denver vacation headquarters tomorrow night.

Eisenhower conferred with Manion at his summer White House office here before announcing the appointment of the former educator, now a practicing attorney in South Bend, Ind.

The 25-member commission on federal-state relations to which Manion was named as chairman, was created by Congress during the recent session at Eisenhower's request.

Five Senators and five House members already have been named to the unit. The President will appoint 14 other members soon.

Manion told a news conference the commission will study every phase of federal-state relations and report by next march.

He said Eisenhower is "extremely anxious to preserve the constitutional integrity of the states."

Manion added that the President "feels the situation is critical, and that local self government must be preserved as an essential part of the American system."

Manion specifically mentioned taxation and the duplication of levies, road construction, and the school lunch program as matters which the commission will study.

In reply to questions, he also said he thought a proper field of investigation for the commission would be whether the FBI has encroached on state and local police functions.

He said, too—also in response to a question—that a study might be made to determine whether there is any conflict in the operation of federal and local civil right programs.

The President's vacation headquarters announced that he will meet in Denver Thursday with representatives from eight drought stricken states—Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri and Nevada.

Under Secretary True D. Morse and other Agriculture Department officials also will sit in at the conference for a review of drought relief steps taken so far, and the planning of a program for the future.

Churchill Takes Over Reins Again

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill smiling broadly and smoking a big cigar, took the reins of government firmly back in his hands today. He presided at a surprise meeting of his cabinet for the first time since his doctors, almost two months ago, ordered him to rest.

No announcement was issued after the meeting, which lasted just 10 minutes short of two hours. But, Churchill undoubtedly got the latest news about the international situation.

Among matters presumably up for discussion were the form of the draft reply which Britain—in cooperation with the United States and France—will make to Russia's proposal for a Big Four meeting and the recent Soviet note on German unity.

Ministers attending included Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler—who has been heading the government during Churchill's absence—and Acting Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was not there. He is still on vacation in Europe, convalescing after a series of gall bladder operations.

Churchill has had daily telephone conversations for the last week or so with Butler and Salisbury, and last week paid a sudden visit to his official residence, No. 10 Downing Street, for a talk with Salisbury.

He turned up unexpectedly at Downing Street at lunchtime today from Chartwell, his country home.

Split On Red China?

Senator Knowland (Calif.), the new Senate majority leader, threatens to revive his resolution calling for withdrawal by the United States from the United Nations if Red China should be admitted. At a meeting of the California Republican Central Committee on August 14, Knowland declared, "I defy any member of the U.N. to read the U.N. Charter and then say with a straight face that there is any provision for admitting Red China."

The Knowland resolution at the 1953 session of Congress was held in abeyance after the Senate Appropriations Committee went on record for withholding U. S. contributions to the United Nations in the event the Peking regime were admitted. In the end the Senate and in turn the House adopted unanimously a resolution declaring "the sense of Congress that the Communist Chinese Government should not be admitted."

Prior to the passage of the resolution President Eisenhower, at an emergency White House conference on June 2, had given assurance that the United States would take active leadership in opposing Red China's admission—under existing conditions and so long as the Peking government remained subservient to Moscow. The congressional action, thus tempered, was substantially identical with resolutions to the same effect adopted by Congress more than two years ago—by the Senate in January 1951 and by the House four months later.

In his warning, Knowland described the U. S. position as opposed to letting Red China "shoot its way into the U. N." This was an echo of a remark first made by Warren Austin, former U. S. representative to the U. N. on January 24, 1951, in debate on a resolution, later adopted by the General Assembly, branding Red China an aggressor in Korea.

But the "realistic" British position, as stated by the London Economist on June 13, is that: "Far from 'shooting its way into the U. N.,' Communist China effectively delayed its appearance there by invading Korea. It has failed to buy its way in at the price of a Korean cease-fire; its application will now be considered on its merits, not under duress."

Salwyn Lloyd, minister of State for Foreign Affairs, told the British House of Commons on July 27: "We shall certainly see that it (U. N. admission for Red China) is discussed even before open (peace) negotiations take place."

The day after Lloyd spoke, Secretary of State Dulles told a press conference that the Eisenhower administration was unwilling to buy Korean unification at the price of admitting Red China to the U. N. Security Council. Dulles made it clear that he believed the U. S. could use its Security Council veto to keep the Red Chinese out.

In December 1950, when Chinese Communist forces had made their farthest penetration into South Korea, Peking authorities made it clear that one of their three major conditions for a truce in Korea was the seating of Chinese Communists in the U. N.

In proposing a four-power conference on Germany, the Soviet Union said the establishment of Red China's "legal rights in all international affairs" was essential to general peace talks. And in his speech to the Supreme Soviet on August 8 Malenkov called for a peace pact "between the five great powers," with full acceptance of Red China as a great power.

Any And Every Weapon

General Mark W. Clark, on his way to retirement, may now be speaking "with disciplined military restraint," as one reporter noted, but he seems to be getting ready to speak without restraint later on. In Washington the U. S. commander of Far East forces said he had information that the Reds were going to hold back 2,000 to 3,000 Americans who had not figured in their original agreement for repatriations.

If this is the case, the worst fears about Communist trickery will be realized. In rage and frustration many Americans cannot be expected to use General Clark's brevity when he said, "If the truce is broken, I would favor using any and every weapon at the disposal of my country."

That sounds very much like General MacArthur, General Van Fleet and others who seem to believe the Korean War (if not the cold war) can be settled exclusively and summarily by military force, and that those who think otherwise are either weak toward communism or engaging in pear-shaped thoughts.

In this repatriation of prisoners the question is not so much whether the Reds will break the truce agreement. They may be doing so right now. No Communist ever kept any agreement if it suited his purpose to doublecross the other signatory to it.

But until the long conference scheduled has been tried out, the chances are that the tighter the American people hold on to their tempers, the more American POWs will be returned. If later it develops that other prisoners are being held for ransom in the Russian manner, or for further political bargaining, other means of enforcing a settlement will be called for.

Study Of Nature

Nature opens to man a wonderful book in the form of the life of the planet on which he lives. To study its pages carefully is a rewarding activity. Many persons are assiduous students of natural life and find it a most interesting pursuit.

Study of nature helps people to become observant, and to see meaning and purpose in plants and trees and animals and insects, and all the infinite variety of life that exists on this planet. Nature students gain a keener appreciation of the world in which they live, how it is regulated and developed.

Bees, for instance, are marvelous little creatures. The wonderful spirit of industry with which they roam the country and suck honey out of flowers, and which prompts them to lay up their store of sweets, is a fascinating subject of study. The important work they do in pollinating flowers and blossoms is not generally appreciated.

The story of the intelligence and industry of ants is also an amazing one, as one reads how ants have labor-saving devices, how they build roads by the removal of obstacles. When one of their number is injured, the news is passed along and a rush is made to the rescue.

Time spent in study of nature is well employed.

Jumbled Sex

A new skin test to determine sex was reported recently by a group of Canadian physicians in the June issue of Surgery, Gynecology, and Obstetrics. Studies made on skin specimens of 50 men and 50 women of normal sex development showed a marked difference in the two groups. The test will be used on complex problems dealing with hermaphroditism to determine the true sex of a particular individual.

At birth the sex of the baby is easily determined. But in one out of every 1,000 births the physician hesitates before saying, "It's a boy," or, "It's a girl." Such an infant may be a pseudo-hermaphrodite, with jumbled reproductive organs. There may be certain external manifestations of both sexes and it is a question as to which predominates. Such features usually are rudimentary and now and then the physician concludes that the child is male only to be proved mistaken alter. The decision is difficult to make because in the final analysis the nature of the glands on the inside of the body must be known and this would require operation. It is here that the skin test may help by eliminating the necessity for surgery. Furthermore, when the test is performed early in life it avoids an embarrassing situation months or years later.

True hermaphroditism is rare and to date less than 50 proved cases are recorded in medical writings. These persons have both ovarian and testicular tissue which cannot be determined in any way except by removing a small portion of these organs and sending it to the laboratory for microscopic study. The pseudo-hermaphrodite also is a double sexed individual but has the characteristics of one sex on the outside and of the other sex on the inside. In the majority of instances, the internal organs are female, whereas the outward manifestations are those of a male except that they are rudimentary or poorly developed. It is little wonder that we hear now and then of individuals, reared as girls, who switched sexes at age 20 or 30 and lived their remaining years as men, and vice versa.

How do these abnormalities occur? Early in fetal life there is no distinction in the reproductive organs. The change takes place at the end of the third month, when the male or female cells become predominant so that one grows at the expense of another. Regardless of the winner, most of us have slight vestiges of the other sex which manifest themselves in ways other than along sexual lines. The exception is the hermaphrodite who has a little more than the normal amount; it is looked upon as a trick of nature.

The latest sexual deviation to receive popular attention is transvestism, in which the individual has the sex of one but the personality of the other. These people feel they are the victims of a cruel mistake and as a result are unhappy in diving according to the usual codes. The males prefer to act and dress as women and have no desire to marry. It is debatable at this time whether our social code would permit us to go to extremes as in countries like Denmark where these individuals are allowed by law to switch and physicians are not restricted legally from using hormones to encourage the transformation.

THYROID MEDICATION

Mrs. A. writes: Can taking thyroid tablets do any harm?

REPLY

Yes, because thyroid extract is a powerful hormone with a far-reaching influence on the human body. When used by an individual who is not deficient in thyroid secretion, the effects produced may be the same as those of a toxic goiter, with an increase in the rate an dcomplete irregularity of the beat. If prescribed properly, however, the substance will help, not harm, the body.

BRAIN WAVE DEVICE

O. M. writes: What is the name of the intricate machine used to determine whether boxers have any brain injury? Does this device record any type of brain injury?

REPLY

I presume you refer to the e-lectro-en-ceph-a-lo-graf, which records brain waves. In some instances of brain damage, an abnormal tracing will be obtained.

CONTACT DERMATITIS

G. W. writes: Whenever I wear costume jewelry on my ears or neck, even for an hour, I develop skin irritation that lasts for days. What can I do?

REPLY

You are allergic to metal, and the easiest remedy is not to wear costume jewelry. A new protective skin cream recently placed on the market may prevent your contact dermatitis when you wear jewelry. Ask your druggist about this product.

OBESITY PATTERN

Mrs. R. K. writes: Could the fact that a woman has a pituitary figure, according to a physician, account for low metabolism, anemia, and chronic arthritis?

REPLY

The pituitary figure describes a condition in which excess poundage accumulates over the hips and abdomen and has nothing to do with the conditions mentioned.

Doctors Warn Poisonous Fruit Sprays Menace Public Health; Beg Congress For Stricter Control Of Insecticides

WASHINGTON — One of the many things vitally affecting the public which didn't leak out during the late lamented Congress, was a hassle over fruit sprays, which one prominent doctor warned may be slowly poisoning the American people. These poisons, inhaled while spraying or eaten as residue on fruits and vegetables, accumulate in the system and may take as much as 10 years off a person's life, it was testified.

The warning was given by Dr. Robert Mobbs of Aberdeen, N. C., who told how he had spent five years intensely studying the problem after a child in his home town had died of what he was convinced was pesticide poisoning. He cited one chemical spray, benzene hexachloride, which was found in tests to produce abnormal, cancer-like cell growth. Yet it is used to spray on crops, to dust troops in Korea, and in vaporizing devices, to air out homes and restaurants.

He declared that doctors and chemists have prepared reports on "insecticide toxicity," but added ominously: "I think that these reports have been largely ignored, minimized, and suppressed."

Testifying before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, Dr. Mobbs appealed to the congressmen to put teeth in the laws regulating pesticides and insecticides.

Instead of doing so, the committee boosted a bill, introduced by GOP Congressman A. L. Miller of Nebraska and endorsed by the insecticide companies, that would leave it up to the manufacturers to test their own pest killers and submit their findings to the government. Following this, the Food and Drug Administration would be given 60 days to decide, on the basis of the manufacturers' own report, how strong a dose could be sold to the public.

Food And Drug Objection

This bill brought this warning from Food and Drug Commissioner Charles Crawford: "Irresponsible operators might submit the sketchiest and most inadequate toxicological data." Yet the government would be forced to fix the dosage, Crawford said, and issue it "within the rather brief time limit prescribed."

"We believe it essential to public health and highly advantageous to the industry, that tests, deemed adequate by a competent and unbiased scientific body, be required of all new pesticides," the Food and Drug chief urged.

The real danger, he pointed out, was that "you might find yourself with a meal that contained 20 different poisons, none of which by itself would hurt you, but all of which put together might be getting into the critical zone."

Most startling testimony, however, came from Dr. Mobbs.

Perforated Stomachs

"We now know," he declared, "that many foods are contaminated by these insecticides and that human tissue itself now contains DDT and probably other insecticides and yet no one knows what the ultimate effect will be . . .

"One baby food company has tried to get away from having insecticides in those foods they are preparing for babies," he added, "yet today they are about ready to abandon that search. They just can't find foods in sufficient quantity that do not contain some insecticides, yet they do not know what the result, the ultimate result, will be."

Dr. Mobbs told how he began his investigation five years ago after an insecticide plant in his community started mixing a dust for boll weevil spraying.

"The air was constantly permeated with insecticides. Many people became ill, and virus-like illness was rampant throughout the town . . ." He related. "There was a child living in a home adjacent to this insecticide mixing plant, who died suddenly of a virus-like infection, died in convulsions. This substance was released for widespread use where it contaminated the air we had to breathe, and yet it had been untested in that medium.

"I found," he continued, "that if you fed it to an animal, it would kill the animal in convulsions. This child that died had also suffered a perforation of the stomach. Later it was found in experiments that animals suffered perforation of the stomach. So I felt that this child's death was probably due to this chemical."

The Abderdeen, N. C., physician told of another patient who "tried to use himself as a guinea pig to see what the effects of the insecticide would be. He had a coronary heart disease that seemed to be definitely aggravated by exposure to the dust, and on his death, we found DDT in his tissues."

May Produce Cancer

Dr. Mobbs was probably most "shocked," however, by the fact that "the American Cancer Society not too long ago gave a grant to the professor of biochemistry at Columbia, in which he used benzene hexachloride to produce abnormal cell formation or cancer-like changes. Yet at the same time," Dr. Mobbs warned, "we are using benzene hexachloride or lindane in a fashion in which it contaminates crops, gets into the milk supply. It is now used in many restaurants and in home vaporizing devices. It is used to dust troops and prisoners in Korea.

"I feel," Dr. Mobbs added, "that attempts have been made to minimize the toxicity of these things."

NOTE—In fairness to the insecticide manufacturers, it should be pointed out that most of them scrupulously test and label their products to safeguard the public. Without these poisonous sprays, insects and rodents would literally spoil most of the country's food supply. For example, apples alone must be protected from over 200 insects. Yet insects develop an immunity to sprays, and it constantly takes more poison to kill them. Insects which once died at a whiff of DDT now are immune to it.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Insiders insist that the death of Senator Robert A. Taft had nothing to do with the administration's last-minute switch in its plans to submit its recommendations for amending the Taft-Hartley labor law in the last few days of the first session of Congress.

Informed sources say that the move was abandoned because the proposed revisions stirred up such a wail of congressional protest that the entire set of recommendations must be reworked.

The President's proposals were viewed on Capitol Hill as little less than capitulation to organized labor. GOP Senate and House lieutenants warned the President he would run into a stone wall of opposition unless he toughened up the new bill.

They grumbled that it would look like the administration was giving in to the union bosses in a bid to woo labor-support in the future and they bluntly asserted it would not work.

The Hill leaders argued that the loss of favor among the white collar and business voters would far offset any gains the Republicans might make in the ranks of labor.

A revised edition of the abandoned bill is expected to be sent to Congress from the White House next January. Even so, it is felt it will make concessions to organized labor on a moderate scale, largely because the President sincerely believes that many provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act work to the disadvantage of an enlightened labor movement.

Bread, Not Bullets

The strangest cold-war battle the United States and Russia ever have fought already is in progress—and millions of people are benefitting from it.

As soon as the guns ceased their booming in Korea, the United States began providing food and shelter for hungry and homeless victims of war desolation.

In an attempt to match this humanitarian move, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov ordered similar aid to the civilian population of Communist North Korea.

A somewhat analogous situation prevails in East Germany. American food is filtering through to the rebellious captives of the Reds there, and the Soviets are dipping into their own larder to back their boast that United States aid is not needed.

Thus, for the moment, at least, bread has become a prime weapon in the massive East-West struggle between the free and Communist worlds.

Japan's Interests

Top Western diplomats believe that Japan will receive at least semi-official representation in the Korean political conference.

The official participants on the United Nations side may be limited to those powers which actually contributed troops to the war effort.

But there is general agreement in the West that Japan has a vital stake in the outcome of the parley, and Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki's bid for representation is being sympathetically received.

P. O. Reduction Hits Snag

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield probably was the happiest man in Washintgon when Congress adjourned.

For weeks the PG had been on the receiving end of plaints from legislators who wanted to save the fourth class postoffices in their districts from extinction.

Elimination of many of these small offices was planned by Summerfield to reduce the huge postal deficit and make a more efficient postal system.

But special pleaders have been making it hard for him. The most virulent of these have been congressmen from the rural South.

Without the patronage rights they enjoyed under Democratic rule, these congressman can do little but make noise. This they have proceeded to do. Now with Congress in recess, however, Summerfield will have less interference in his plans to continue reducing these postoffices. Except, of course, that congressmen can continue to write him.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Who is on which "side" in the United Nations Assembly as it prepares to select the member countries of the so-called "political conference" that is supposed to settle the Korean problem?

India says she is "neutral" and is willing to be helpful to "both sides."

What does "neutral" mean in the U.N. when the American people have just been told that 140,000 American casualties were suffered in behalf of "the U.N. command"?

The United States says it is willing to have Russia participate if the "other side" is agreeable to the proposal. In this sense, the "other side" is Red China and the puppet government of North Korea, which is in turn a creature of Soviet Russia.

British diplomats at the same time tell American reporters that the U.N. must be careful not to offend the Russians by implying that maybe the Soviet Union belongs on the "other side," which means that somebody may possibly suspect the Moscow regime was really a "belligerent" in the Korean War or aided a belligerent.

One wonders why all this rigamarole is necessary when Vishinsky frankly told the United Nations Assembly a few months ago that, of course, the Soviet Union right along had been sending munitions to the Red Chinese and the North Koreans.

U. N. Condones Treason

The plain fact of the matter is that the United Nations—an institution with an aura of respectability far from deserved if it is judged by its recent conduct—condones treason within its own ranks and is afraid to call treason by its right name lest it offend the "other side," the Soviet government.

To the average American who isn't encumbered by too much knowledge of the intrigues and double talk of diplomacy, the fact remains that war broke out in June 1950, and it was formally, officially, publicly, and specifically described by the U. N. as an aggression by the Communists of North Korea. Then in February 1951, after the Red Chinese had intervened in the war, the same U. N. declared the government of Red China an aggressor. The U. N. also had publicly by resolution called on all member nations to lend assistance to the U. N. action and to refrain from aiding the aggressors. Who, therefore, could be "neutral" and still be faithful to the U. N. objectives—to repel aggression?

So the first order of business in the U. N. is not to avoid or evade the issue about letting Soviet Russia participate but to try the Soviet regime on charges of treason and to expel such a regime from the U. N. as a menace to the future peace of the world.

The U. N., however, today is dominated by some pussy-foot diplomats from Europe who still think that the way to get peace is to appease and bootlick the Russians. In due time the fallacy of that course will become evident, but only after a lot of time has been wasted which might have been spent in ostracizing the Soviet regime and applying the moral force of the world toward the ultimate goal of liberating the Russian people from their gangster government. The Russian people could be told that a free government would be a welcome member of the U. N.

Double talk, however, will be the order of the day for some time to come as so-called diplomacy twists and turns and tries to keep from offending the present Soviet government.

Double talk still persists also in other phases of the Far Eastern situation. The other day, for instance, it became known that a unit of the British navy—an aircraft carrier—interfered with the blockade, imposed by the Chinese Nationalist government against Red China, by rescuing some merchant ships from the hands of the Nationalist navy. Since Nationalist China is still a member of the U. N. and trying to carry out its obligations, why should the British navy interfere with military operations undertaken by a U. N. member against a non-member which has been declared an aggressor?

U. S. Will Get Out

The American government is about to lend or lease 25 destroyers to the Nationalist navy. Congress authorized it by law just signed by the President. Does this mean the British navy will seize those destroyers if they attempt to keep strategic goods from reaching Red China? Recently in the British Parliament assurances were given that the British navy would be used to protect Ceylon, which has made a barter deal to supply rubber—a strategic commodity—to Red China. On which side is Great Britain herself?

The British diplomats often boast about their exeprience in world affairs, but they never have made a bigger misaclculation than in the assumption conveyed in their present policies that it is more important to have Red China in the U. N. than the United States. Republican Leader Knowland has announced that the day that Red China goes in, a resolution will be sought in Congress to have the United States step out of the U. N. Judging by the temper of Congress in both political parties, such a resolution will pass overwhelmingly. Then the Communist Chinese, the Communist Russians and the British appeasers, if the British people keep them in office, can run the U. N. to their hearts' content.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The "How" Of It

Newspapermen are trained to ask when, where, why, how. That was what we were taught when I was young and editors insisted upon it. Today, too many reporters have become genteel and ask their questions politely.

When it is discovered that a fellow such as Alger Hiss is way up in the State Department, it seems suddenly to have become boorish to ask how he got there; who appointed him; who promoted him. When our atom bomb is stolen, petitions circulate among the cultured folks of our day to get clemency for the Rosenbergs and if one is so bold as to ask who screened the various spies in that particular apparatus, the cry of McCarthyism is heard in the land.

If one asks how a person like Marzani got into the OSS, which is now the CIA, it is lese majeste even to inquire as to who appointed Marzani and why. If a professor refuses to answer whether he was or is now a spy, the questioner is attacked as an enemy of intellectuals and of academic freedom.

Only recently I was told that one should not be so persistently one-sided, that it is unpopular to go after the Communists, fellow-travelers and dupes (dopes is a better word). One should be broadminded, I am told. Yet, the atom bomb was stolen and the hydrogen bomb was stolen and only Malenkov knows what else his agents stole in this country. We need to know how it was done.

The Jenner Committee of the Senate has been working on the pattern of infiltration, and while they have shown how spies and Communists, once inside the government, promote each other, there is as yet no evidence to show how these people got into the government, who opened the doors for them, who protected their records against unfavorable screening. Those who are studying the problem most closely admit that the surface has barely been scratched.

This, however, is clear: every senator and every representative who has moved into the battle against spies and Communists has been smeared, attacked and often destroyed. This goes back as far as Martin Dies. It is a curious phenomenon in American life that those who fight communism and espionage are attacked, while the Communists and spies are retained, promoted and secreted until they are brought before a congressional committee.

The "Richmond (Virginia) News-Leader" makes the interesting point of this smearing:

". . . public attention has been diverted down a thousand irrelevant and largely insignificant alleyways; and in the process, our perspective has become badly distorted. You hear it said, in all solemn seriousness, that 'McCarthyism is a greater danger than communism.' You hear it said that academic freedom is being wiped out, that press freedom is critically endangered. You hear that 'innocent people have been smeared' by a 'bunch of character assassins.' To listen to the babble of the bleeding-hearts, you would think we never had it so bad."

Then it says:

". . . the babble is obscuring the very purpose of these investigations, which is to determine the how of Communist infiltration into our government, so that having found its source we can root it out . . ."

This is the whole story. Unless we discover the how, we must be defeated, not only in our work for security but in our efforts toward peace. Our own espionage agency, the CIA, is so new that it is immature in its approach to its tasks. This can be said without adverse criticism of the agency or its personnel. Too often Americans believe that if an agency is created, it ought to be able to work effectively with mature judgment the very next morning. Actually, such an agency as the CIA could take a generation to develop. It took the FBI that long. Scotland Yard has been developing since 1829.

Spies are easy to hire; the understanding of the product of their espionage is hard to come by. The Russian MVD, successor to the NKVD and the Cheka, is also the successor to the Okhrana which has been in existence for centuries. When to this is added the propaganda genius and the capacity for infiltration of the Communists, who have been at it since 1848, we face a veritable menace. It is a tough fight that can only be won by tough methods.

Split On Red China?

Senator Knowland (Calif.), the new Senate majority leader, threatens to revive his resolution calling for withdrawal by the United States from the United Nations if Red China should be admitted. At a meeting of the California Republican Central Committee on August 14, Knowland declared, "I defy any member of the U.N. to read the U.N. Charter and then say with a straight face that there is any provision for admitting Red China."

The Knowland resolution at the 1953 session of Congress was held in abeyance after the Senate Appropriations Committee went on record for withholding U. S. contributions to the United Nations in the event the Peking regime were admitted. In the end the Senate and in turn the House adopted unanimously a resolution declaring "the sense of Congress that the Communist Chinese Government should not be admitted."

Prior to the passage of the resolution President Eisenhower, at an emergency White House conference on June 2, had given assurance that the United States would take active leadership in opposing Red China's admission—under existing conditions and so long as the Peking government remained subservient to Moscow. The congressional action, thus tempered, was substantially identical with resolutions to the same effect adopted by Congress more than two years ago—by the Senate in January 1951 and by the House four months later.

In his warning, Knowland described the U. S. position as opposed to letting Red China "shoot its way into the U. N." This was an echo of a remark first made by Warren Austin, former U. S. representative to the U. N. on January 24, 1951, in debate on a resolution, later adopted by the General Assembly, branding Red China an aggressor in Korea.

But the "realistic" British position, as stated by the London Economist on June 13, is that: "Far from 'shooting its way into the U. N.,' Communist China effectively delayed its appearance there by invading Korea. It has failed to buy its way in at the price of a Korean cease-fire; its application will now be considered on its merits, not under duress."

Salwyn Lloyd, minister of State for Foreign Affairs, told the British House of Commons on July 27: "We shall certainly see that it (U. N. admission for Red China) is discussed even before open (peace) negotiations take place."

The day after Lloyd spoke, Secretary of State Dulles told a press conference that the Eisenhower administration was unwilling to buy Korean unification at the price of admitting Red China to the U. N. Security Council. Dulles made it clear that he believed the U. S. could use its Security Council veto to keep the Red Chinese out.

In December 1950, when Chinese Communist forces had made their farthest penetration into South Korea, Peking authorities made it clear that one of their three major conditions for a truce in Korea was the seating of Chinese Communists in the U. N.

In proposing a four-power conference on Germany, the Soviet Union said the establishment of Red China's "legal rights in all international affairs" was essential to general peace talks. And in his speech to the Supreme Soviet on August 8 Malenkov called for a peace pact "between the five great powers," with full acceptance of Red China as a great power.

Any And Every Weapon

General Mark W. Clark, on his way to retirement, may now be speaking "with disciplined military restraint," as one reporter noted, but he seems to be getting ready to speak without restraint later on. In Washington the U. If this is the case, the worst fears about Communist trickery will be realized. In rage and frustration many Americans cannot be expected to use General Clark's brevity when he said, "If the truce is broken, I would favor using any and every weapon at the disposal of my country."

That sounds very much like General MacArthur, General Van Fleet and others who seem to believe the Korean War (if not the cold war) can be settled exclusively and summarily by military force, and that those who think otherwise are either weak toward communism or engaging in pear-shaped thoughts.

In this repatriation of prisoners the question is not so much whether the Reds will break the truce agreement. They may be doing so right now. No Communist ever kept any agreement if it suited his purpose to doublecross the other signatory to it.

But until the long conference scheduled has been tried out, the chances are that the tighter the American people hold on to their tempers, the more American POWs will be returned. If later it develops that other prisoners are being held for ransom in the Russian manner, or for further political bargaining, other means of enforcing a settlement will be called for.

Jumbled Sex

A new skin test to determine sex was reported recently by a group of Canadian physicians in the June issue of Surgery, Gynecology, and Obstetrics. Studies made on skin specimens of 50 men and 50 women of normal sex development showed a marked difference in the two groups. The test will be used on complex problems dealing with hermaphroditism to determine the true sex of a particular individual.

At birth the sex of the baby is easily determined. But in one out of every 1,000 births the physician hesitates before saying, "It's a boy," or, "It's a girl." Such an infant may be a pseudo-hermaphrodite, with jumbled reproductive organs. There may be certain external manifestations of both sexes and it is a question as to which predominates. Such features usually are rudimentary and now and then the physician concludes that the child is male only to be proved mistaken alter. The decision is difficult to make because in the final analysis the nature of the glands on the inside of the body must be known and this would require operation. It is here that the skin test may help by eliminating the necessity for surgery. Furthermore, when the test is performed early in life it avoids an embarrassing situation months or years later.

True hermaphroditism is rare and to date less than 50 proved cases are recorded in medical writings. These persons have both ovarian and testicular tissue which cannot be determined in any way except by removing a small portion of these organs and sending it to the laboratory for microscopic study. The pseudo-hermaphrodite also is a double sexed individual but has the characteristics of one sex on the outside and of the other sex on the inside. In the majority of instances, the internal organs are female, whereas the outward manifestations are those of a male except that they are rudimentary or poorly developed. It is little wonder that we hear now and then of individuals, reared as girls, who switched sexes at age 20 or 30 and lived their remaining years as men, and vice versa.

How do these abnormalities occur? Early in fetal life there is no distinction in the reproductive organs. The change takes place at the end of the third month, when the male or female cells become predominant so that one grows at the expense of another. Regardless of the winner, most of us have slight vestiges of the other sex which manifest themselves in ways other than along sexual lines. The exception is the hermaphrodite who has a little more than the normal amount; it is looked upon as a trick of nature.

The latest sexual deviation to receive popular attention is transvestism, in which the individual has the sex of one but the personality of the other. These people feel they are the victims of a cruel mistake and as a result are unhappy in diving according to the usual codes. The males prefer to act and dress as women and have no desire to marry. It is debatable at this time whether our social code would permit us to go to extremes as in countries like Denmark where these individuals are allowed by law to switch and physicians are not restricted legally from using hormones to encourage the transformation.

THYROID MEDICATION

Mrs. A. writes: Can taking thyroid tablets do any harm?

REPLY

Yes, because thyroid extract is a powerful hormone with a far-reaching influence on the human body. When used by an individual who is not deficient in thyroid secretion, the effects produced may be the same as those of a toxic goiter, with an increase in the rate an dcomplete irregularity of the beat. If prescribed properly, however, the substance will help, not harm, the body.

BRAIN WAVE DEVICE

O. M. writes: What is the name of the intricate machine used to determine whether boxers have any brain injury? Does this device record any type of brain injury?

REPLY

I presume you refer to the e-lectro-en-ceph-a-lo-graf, which records brain waves. In some instances of brain damage, an abnormal tracing will be obtained.

CONTACT DERMATITIS

G. W. writes: Whenever I wear costume jewelry on my ears or neck, even for an hour, I develop skin irritation that lasts for days. What can I do?

REPLY

You are allergic to metal, and the easiest remedy is not to wear costume jewelry. A new protective skin cream recently placed on the market may prevent your contact dermatitis when you wear jewelry. Ask your druggist about this product.

OBESITY PATTERN

Mrs. R. K. writes: Could the fact that a woman has a pituitary figure, according to a physician, account for low metabolism, anemia, and chronic arthritis?

REPLY

The pituitary figure describes a condition in which excess poundage accumulates over the hips and abdomen and has nothing to do with the conditions mentioned.

Doctors Warn Poisonous Fruit Sprays Menace Public Health; Beg Congress For Stricter Control Of Insecticides

WASHINGTON — One of the many things vitally affecting the public which didn't leak out during the late lamented Congress, was a hassle over fruit sprays, which one prominent doctor warned may be slowly poisoning the American people. These poisons, inhaled while spraying or eaten as residue on fruits and vegetables, accumulate in the system and may take as much as 10 years off a person's life, it was testified.

The warning was given by Dr. Robert Mobbs of Aberdeen, N. C., who told how he had spent five years intensely studying the problem after a child in his home town had died of what he was convinced was pesticide poisoning. He cited one chemical spray, benzene hexachloride, which was found in tests to produce abnormal, cancer-like cell growth. Yet it is used to spray on crops, to dust troops in Korea, and in vaporizing devices, to air out homes and restaurants.

He declared that doctors and chemists have prepared reports on "insecticide toxicity," but added ominously: "I think that these reports have been largely ignored, minimized, and suppressed."

Testifying before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, Dr. Mobbs appealed to the congressmen to put teeth in the laws regulating pesticides and insecticides.

Instead of doing so, the committee boosted a bill, introduced by GOP Congressman A. L. Miller of Nebraska and endorsed by the insecticide companies, that would leave it up to the manufacturers to test their own pest killers and submit their findings to the government. Following this, the Food and Drug Administration would be given 60 days to decide, on the basis of the manufacturers' own report, how strong a dose could be sold to the public.

Food And Drug Objection

This bill brought this warning from Food and Drug Commissioner Charles Crawford: "Irresponsible operators might submit the sketchiest and most inadequate toxicological data." Yet the government would be forced to fix the dosage, Crawford said, and issue it "within the rather brief time limit prescribed."

"We believe it essential to public health and highly advantageous to the industry, that tests, deemed adequate by a competent and unbiased scientific body, be required of all new pesticides," the Food and Drug chief urged.

The real danger, he pointed out, was that "you might find yourself with a meal that contained 20 different poisons, none of which by itself would hurt you, but all of which put together might be getting into the critical zone."

Most startling testimony, however, came from Dr. Mobbs.

Perforated Stomachs

"We now know," he declared, "that many foods are contaminated by these insecticides and that human tissue itself now contains DDT and probably other insecticides and yet no one knows what the ultimate effect will be . . .

"One baby food company has tried to get away from having insecticides in those foods they are preparing for babies," he added, "yet today they are about ready to abandon that search. They just can't find foods in sufficient quantity that do not contain some insecticides, yet they do not know what the result, the ultimate result, will be."

Dr. Mobbs told how he began his investigation five years ago after an insecticide plant in his community started mixing a dust for boll weevil spraying.

"The air was constantly permeated with insecticides. Many people became ill, and virus-like illness was rampant throughout the town . . ." He related. "There was a child living in a home adjacent to this insecticide mixing plant, who died suddenly of a virus-like infection, died in convulsions. This substance was released for widespread use where it contaminated the air we had to breathe, and yet it had been untested in that medium.

"I found," he continued, "that if you fed it to an animal, it would kill the animal in convulsions. This child that died had also suffered a perforation of the stomach. Later it was found in experiments that animals suffered perforation of the stomach. So I felt that this child's death was probably due to this chemical."

The Abderdeen, N. C., physician told of another patient who "tried to use himself as a guinea pig to see what the effects of the insecticide would be. He had a coronary heart disease that seemed to be definitely aggravated by exposure to the dust, and on his death, we found DDT in his tissues."

May Produce Cancer

Dr. Mobbs was probably most "shocked," however, by the fact that "the American Cancer Society not too long ago gave a grant to the professor of biochemistry at Columbia, in which he used benzene hexachloride to produce abnormal cell formation or cancer-like changes. Yet at the same time," Dr. Mobbs warned, "we are using benzene hexachloride or lindane in a fashion in which it contaminates crops, gets into the milk supply. It is now used in many restaurants and in home vaporizing devices. It is used to dust troops and prisoners in Korea.

"I feel," Dr. Mobbs added, "that attempts have been made to minimize the toxicity of these things."

NOTE—In fairness to the insecticide manufacturers, it should be pointed out that most of them scrupulously test and label their products to safeguard the public. Without these poisonous sprays, insects and rodents would literally spoil most of the country's food supply. For example, apples alone must be protected from over 200 insects. Yet insects develop an immunity to sprays, and it constantly takes more poison to kill them. Insects which once died at a whiff of DDT now are immune to it.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Insiders insist that the death of Senator Robert A. Taft had nothing to do with the administration's last-minute switch in its plans to submit its recommendations for amending the Taft-Hartley labor law in the last few days of the first session of Congress.

Informed sources say that the move was abandoned because the proposed revisions stirred up such a wail of congressional protest that the entire set of recommendations must be reworked.

The President's proposals were viewed on Capitol Hill as little less than capitulation to organized labor. GOP Senate and House lieutenants warned the President he would run into a stone wall of opposition unless he toughened up the new bill.

They grumbled that it would look like the administration was giving in to the union bosses in a bid to woo labor-support in the future and they bluntly asserted it would not work.

The Hill leaders argued that the loss of favor among the white collar and business voters would far offset any gains the Republicans might make in the ranks of labor.

A revised edition of the abandoned bill is expected to be sent to Congress from the White House next January. Even so, it is felt it will make concessions to organized labor on a moderate scale, largely because the President sincerely believes that many provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act work to the disadvantage of an enlightened labor movement.

Bread, Not Bullets

The strangest cold-war battle the United States and Russia ever have fought already is in progress—and millions of people are benefitting from it.

As soon as the guns ceased their booming in Korea, the United States began providing food and shelter for hungry and homeless victims of war desolation.

In an attempt to match this humanitarian move, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov ordered similar aid to the civilian population of Communist North Korea.

A somewhat analogous situation prevails in East Germany. American food is filtering through to the rebellious captives of the Reds there, and the Soviets are dipping into their own larder to back their boast that United States aid is not needed.

Thus, for the moment, at least, bread has become a prime weapon in the massive East-West struggle between the free and Communist worlds.

Japan's Interests

Top Western diplomats believe that Japan will receive at least semi-official representation in the Korean political conference.

The official participants on the United Nations side may be limited to those powers which actually contributed troops to the war effort.

But there is general agreement in the West that Japan has a vital stake in the outcome of the parley, and Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki's bid for representation is being sympathetically received.

P. O. Reduction Hits Snag

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield probably was the happiest man in Washintgon when Congress adjourned.

For weeks the PG had been on the receiving end of plaints from legislators who wanted to save the fourth class postoffices in their districts from extinction.

Elimination of many of these small offices was planned by Summerfield to reduce the huge postal deficit and make a more efficient postal system.

But special pleaders have been making it hard for him. The most virulent of these have been congressmen from the rural South.

Without the patronage rights they enjoyed under Democratic rule, these congressman can do little but make noise. This they have proceeded to do. Now with Congress in recess, however, Summerfield will have less interference in his plans to continue reducing these postoffices. Except, of course, that congressmen can continue to write him.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Who is on which "side" in the United Nations Assembly as it prepares to select the member countries of the so-called "political conference" that is supposed to settle the Korean problem?

India says she is "neutral" and is willing to be helpful to "both sides."

What does "neutral" mean in the U.N. when the American people have just been told that 140,000 American casualties were suffered in behalf of "the U.N. command"?

The United States says it is willing to have Russia participate if the "other side" is agreeable to the proposal. In this sense, the "other side" is Red China and the puppet government of North Korea, which is in turn a creature of Soviet Russia.

British diplomats at the same time tell American reporters that the U.N. must be careful not to offend the Russians by implying that maybe the Soviet Union belongs on the "other side," which means that somebody may possibly suspect the Moscow regime was really a "belligerent" in the Korean War or aided a belligerent.

One wonders why all this rigamarole is necessary when Vishinsky frankly told the United Nations Assembly a few months ago that, of course, the Soviet Union right along had been sending munitions to the Red Chinese and the North Koreans.

U. N. Condones Treason

The plain fact of the matter is that the United Nations—an institution with an aura of respectability far from deserved if it is judged by its recent conduct—condones treason within its own ranks and is afraid to call treason by its right name lest it offend the "other side," the Soviet government.

To the average American who isn't encumbered by too much knowledge of the intrigues and double talk of diplomacy, the fact remains that war broke out in June 1950, and it was formally, officially, publicly, and specifically described by the U. N. as an aggression by the Communists of North Korea. Then in February 1951, after the Red Chinese had intervened in the war, the same U. N. declared the government of Red China an aggressor. The U. N. also had publicly by resolution called on all member nations to lend assistance to the U. N. action and to refrain from aiding the aggressors. Who, therefore, could be "neutral" and still be faithful to the U. N. objectives—to repel aggression?

So the first order of business in the U. N. is not to avoid or evade the issue about letting Soviet Russia participate but to try the Soviet regime on charges of treason and to expel such a regime from the U. N. as a menace to the future peace of the world.

The U. N., however, today is dominated by some pussy-foot diplomats from Europe who still think that the way to get peace is to appease and bootlick the Russians. In due time the fallacy of that course will become evident, but only after a lot of time has been wasted which might have been spent in ostracizing the Soviet regime and applying the moral force of the world toward the ultimate goal of liberating the Russian people from their gangster government. The Russian people could be told that a free government would be a welcome member of the U. N.

Double talk, however, will be the order of the day for some time to come as so-called diplomacy twists and turns and tries to keep from offending the present Soviet government.

Double talk still persists also in other phases of the Far Eastern situation. The other day, for instance, it became known that a unit of the British navy—an aircraft carrier—interfered with the blockade, imposed by the Chinese Nationalist government against Red China, by rescuing some merchant ships from the hands of the Nationalist navy. Since Nationalist China is still a member of the U. N. and trying to carry out its obligations, why should the British navy interfere with military operations undertaken by a U. N. member against a non-member which has been declared an aggressor?

U. S. Will Get Out

The American government is about to lend or lease 25 destroyers to the Nationalist navy. Congress authorized it by law just signed by the President. Does this mean the British navy will seize those destroyers if they attempt to keep strategic goods from reaching Red China? Recently in the British Parliament assurances were given that the British navy would be used to protect Ceylon, which has made a barter deal to supply rubber—a strategic commodity—to Red China. On which side is Great Britain herself?

The British diplomats often boast about their exeprience in world affairs, but they never have made a bigger misaclculation than in the assumption conveyed in their present policies that it is more important to have Red China in the U. N. than the United States. Republican Leader Knowland has announced that the day that Red China goes in, a resolution will be sought in Congress to have the United States step out of the U. N. Judging by the temper of Congress in both political parties, such a resolution will pass overwhelmingly. Then the Communist Chinese, the Communist Russians and the British appeasers, if the British people keep them in office, can run the U. N. to their hearts' content.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The "How" Of It

Newspapermen are trained to ask when, where, why, how. That was what we were taught when I was young and editors insisted upon it. Today, too many reporters have become genteel and ask their questions politely.

When it is discovered that a fellow such as Alger Hiss is way up in the State Department, it seems suddenly to have become boorish to ask how he got there; who appointed him; who promoted him. When our atom bomb is stolen, petitions circulate among the cultured folks of our day to get clemency for the Rosenbergs and if one is so bold as to ask who screened the various spies in that particular apparatus, the cry of McCarthyism is heard in the land.

If one asks how a person like Marzani got into the OSS, which is now the CIA, it is lese majeste even to inquire as to who appointed Marzani and why. If a professor refuses to answer whether he was or is now a spy, the questioner is attacked as an enemy of intellectuals and of academic freedom.

Only recently I was told that one should not be so persistently one-sided, that it is unpopular to go after the Communists, fellow-travelers and dupes (dopes is a better word). One should be broadminded, I am told. Yet, the atom bomb was stolen and the hydrogen bomb was stolen and only Malenkov knows what else his agents stole in this country. We need to know how it was done.

The Jenner Committee of the Senate has been working on the pattern of infiltration, and while they have shown how spies and Communists, once inside the government, promote each other, there is as yet no evidence to show how these people got into the government, who opened the doors for them, who protected their records against unfavorable screening. Those who are studying the problem most closely admit that the surface has barely been scratched.

This, however, is clear: every senator and every representative who has moved into the battle against spies and Communists has been smeared, attacked and often destroyed. This goes back as far as Martin Dies. It is a curious phenomenon in American life that those who fight communism and espionage are attacked, while the Communists and spies are retained, promoted and secreted until they are brought before a congressional committee.

The "Richmond (Virginia) News-Leader" makes the interesting point of this smearing:

". . . public attention has been diverted down a thousand irrelevant and largely insignificant alleyways; and in the process, our perspective has become badly distorted. You hear it said, in all solemn seriousness, that 'McCarthyism is a greater danger than communism.' You hear it said that academic freedom is being wiped out, that press freedom is critically endangered. You hear that 'innocent people have been smeared' by a 'bunch of character assassins.' To listen to the babble of the bleeding-hearts, you would think we never had it so bad."

Then it says:

". . . the babble is obscuring the very purpose of these investigations, which is to determine the how of Communist infiltration into our government, so that having found its source we can root it out . . ."

This is the whole story. Unless we discover the how, we must be defeated, not only in our work for security but in our efforts toward peace. Our own espionage agency, the CIA, is so new that it is immature in its approach to its tasks. This can be said without adverse criticism of the agency or its personnel. Too often Americans believe that if an agency is created, it ought to be able to work effectively with mature judgment the very next morning. Actually, such an agency as the CIA could take a generation to develop. It took the FBI that long. Scotland Yard has been developing since 1829.

Spies are easy to hire; the understanding of the product of their espionage is hard to come by. The Russian MVD, successor to the NKVD and the Cheka, is also the successor to the Okhrana which has been in existence for centuries. When to this is added the propaganda genius and the capacity for infiltration of the Communists, who have been at it since 1848, we face a veritable menace. It is a tough fight that can only be won by tough methods.

Cave Explorer, Back On Surface, Claims Record

ST. MARTIN, France, Aug. 18 (AP) — A winch-operated wire cable pulled a French scientific cave explorer back to the surface tonight after the deepest claimed descent inside the earth.

The first man hauled up through the dangerously jagged aperture is Dr. Andre Mairey. His team of three men claimed they plumbed to 2,395 feet (730 meters).

The other two in the record-breaking exploration, Robert Levi and Norbert Casteret, still were deep in the cave and will not be brought up before tomorrow morning.

The trio went down to prospect the depths of the Saint Martin cave, reputed to be the earth's greaest fissure, as part of an expedition to determine the possibility of an underground hydro-electric production plant.

French and Spanish speleologists (cave explorers) also are taking part. One man was killed in a similar exploit last year when the cable snapped as he was being brought to the surface.

Because the opening into the cave—almost on the Spanish-French border—offers a jagged descent, two other members of the expedition had to station themselves at intermediate points to guide the cable down to the men at the bottom. These two men had to remain at the dark and damp posts on narrow ledges overnight, to be ready for the ascent of the other two men tomorrow.

Falling rocks along the narrow opening into the cave present a constant obstacle and danger for the operations. An ascent or descent by the cable, which is controlled by a winch at the surface, takes several hours.

The three men who were in the depths of the cave first looked around an area which had previously been explored and then went on down to the record depth, they reported. Their base camp was at 317 meters below the surface and their further descent took 15 hours.

The previous record of 658 meters also was held by a Frenchman, Pierre Chevalier.

FOOD POISONING VICTIMS—When 257 Mexican farm laborers were stricken with food poisoning at Merced, Calif., hospital facilities were so taxed officials were forced to set up a temporary aid station on the lawn outside Mercy Hospital. A priest passes among the stricken men. Meat loaf packed in the lunches the workers carried into the fields was suspected of causing the mass attacks. Many of the workers are still confined in the hospital and the National Guard armory which was pressed into service.

Godfrey's Switch Still Unanswered

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — The big switch on Arthur Godfrey's show last night left a lot of puzzled listeners today.

Godfrey abandoned his usual "talent" format with the explanation that the acts were not up to standard. Instead members of Godfrey's own staff appeared on the half-hour television show.

CBS said Godfrey auditioned the three acts late in the afternoon and made the decision. Normally, the network added, he doesn't see the acts until show time. Why the switch yesterday? No one seemed to know.

CBS stood on this explanation: "Mr. Godfrey was not satisfied with the entertainment appeal of the talent scheduled and rather than present a program he did not consider up to the standard of Talent Scouts, he decided to alter the show's usual format."

Decorative Murals Painter Thinks More Walls Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)— If Texana has her way, there won't be a blank wall left in a public place in America. Every last one will be covered with a mural.

Texana—that's her full legal name—is a painter. Nineteen of her murals are being pasted on the walls of the Statler Hotel banquet rooms, and the Statler people asked the press around to watch the job.

When the reporters arrived, Texana was perched on a stepladder, posing before one of her murals for early bird photographers.

She turned out to be a vivacious girl in a striped red and white blouse and a flare skirt, and even more decorative than her murals.

"How old is she?" asked a lady reporter. "About 32." someone answered.

Texana came down from the stepladder to say that she has had that name legally for six months. Before that she was Texana Burger. Named after a grandmother who had been born on the Louisiana-Texas border.

A late arriving reporter asked. "How old is she?" "About 32," someone said.

The murals are scenes from various states. The New York job is a whopper, 54 feet by 8. It is filled with such scenes as the George Washington Bridge, Rockefeller Center and subway entrances.

Texana came down the ladder again to say she lives in Los Angeles, paints the murals on canvas and then has them taken to their destination to be pasted on the walls. She thinks this is better than painting directly on the walls themselves.

"This way," she said, "you don't have people standing around craning their necks at you while you work. That's bound to bother you."

Someone asked what other work she had done.

"Maybe I shouldn't say it, but I have done some work for"—a pause here—"the Hiltons." The Statler people looked stoically off into space until Texana hurried on.

Texana says her only ambition is to keep on painting. She's particularly eager for painters to get started on public places, such as airline terminals, which she feels not only will pep up the places but give painters needed practice.

"What we need," she said, "is more walls."

Pistol-Packin' Pants Presser Is Arrested

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — A Chicago pants presser, carrying a gun and mumbling that the government owed him $76,000, was arrested outside the Senate Office Building today and later held for mental observation.

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott ordered the man, identified as Robert W. Martin, 5726 Wentworth Ave., Chicago, taken to District of Columbia General Hospital for observation.

Capitol police arrested him after he arrived in a taxi and they noted a suspicious bulge in one of his trouser pockets. The bulge, they discovered, was caused by a German pistol.

Attlee Backs China For U. N. Membership

BLED, Yugoslavia, Aug. 18 (AP)— Clement Attlee, chief of the British Labor party, today urged admission of Red China to the United Nations.

He is the guest of the Yugoslav government which shares his views on this point.

Attlee said in response to a question at a news conference that admission of the Peiping government is "not a matter of conferring a favor but of recognition of a fact."

1,200 Indian Troops Set Sail For Korea

MADRAS, India, Aug. 18 (AP) — About 1,200 Indian soldiers sailed today for Korea where they will help supervise the armistice.

It was the first contingent. On Wednesday about 2,800 will sail for Korea. The last batch will embark Aug. 20.

The Indian force is made up of Hindus, Moslems, Christians, and Sikh officers.

Cave Explorer, Back On Surface, Claims Record

ST. MARTIN, France, Aug. 18 (AP) — A winch-operated wire cable pulled a French scientific cave explorer back to the surface tonight after the deepest claimed descent inside the earth.

The first man hauled up through the dangerously jagged aperture is Dr. Andre Mairey. His team of three men claimed they plumbed to 2,395 feet (730 meters).

The other two in the record-breaking exploration, Robert Levi and Norbert Casteret, still were deep in the cave and will not be brought up before tomorrow morning.

The trio went down to prospect the depths of the Saint Martin cave, reputed to be the earth's greaest fissure, as part of an expedition to determine the possibility of an underground hydro-electric production plant.

French and Spanish speleologists (cave explorers) also are taking part. One man was killed in a similar exploit last year when the cable snapped as he was being brought to the surface.

Because the opening into the cave—almost on the Spanish-French border—offers a jagged descent, two other members of the expedition had to station themselves at intermediate points to guide the cable down to the men at the bottom. These two men had to remain at the dark and damp posts on narrow ledges overnight, to be ready for the ascent of the other two men tomorrow.

Falling rocks along the narrow opening into the cave present a constant obstacle and danger for the operations. An ascent or descent by the cable, which is controlled by a winch at the surface, takes several hours.

The three men who were in the depths of the cave first looked around an area which had previously been explored and then went on down to the record depth, they reported. Their base camp was at 317 meters below the surface and their further descent took 15 hours.

The previous record of 658 meters also was held by a Frenchman, Pierre Chevalier.

He is the guest of the Yugoslav government which shares his views on this point.

Attlee said in response to a question at a news conference that admission of the Peiping government is "not a matter of conferring a favor but of recognition of a fact."

FOOD POISONING VICTIMS—When 257 Mexican farm laborers were stricken with food poisoning at Merced, Calif., hospital facilities were so taxed officials were forced to set up a temporary aid station on the lawn outside Mercy Hospital. A priest passes among the stricken men. Meat loaf packed in the lunches the workers carried into the fields was suspected of causing the mass attacks. Many of the workers are still confined in the hospital and the National Guard armory which was pressed into service.

Decorative Murals Painter Thinks More Walls Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)— If Texana has her way, there won't be a blank wall left in a public place in America. Every last one will be covered with a mural.

Texana—that's her full legal name—is a painter. Nineteen of her murals are being pasted on the walls of the Statler Hotel banquet rooms, and the Statler people asked the press around to watch the job.

When the reporters arrived, Texana was perched on a stepladder, posing before one of her murals for early bird photographers.

She turned out to be a vivacious girl in a striped red and white blouse and a flare skirt, and even more decorative than her murals.

"How old is she?" asked a lady reporter. "About 32." someone answered.

Texana came down from the stepladder to say that she has had that name legally for six months. Before that she was Texana Burger. Named after a grandmother who had been born on the Louisiana-Texas border.

A late arriving reporter asked. "How old is she?" "About 32," someone said.

The murals are scenes from various states. The New York job is a whopper, 54 feet by 8. It is filled with such scenes as the George Washington Bridge, Rockefeller Center and subway entrances.

Texana came down the ladder again to say she lives in Los Angeles, paints the murals on canvas and then has them taken to their destination to be pasted on the walls. She thinks this is better than painting directly on the walls themselves.

"This way," she said, "you don't have people standing around craning their necks at you while you work. That's bound to bother you."

Someone asked what other work she had done.

"Maybe I shouldn't say it, but I have done some work for"—a pause here—"the Hiltons." The Statler people looked stoically off into space until Texana hurried on.

Texana says her only ambition is to keep on painting. She's particularly eager for painters to get started on public places, such as airline terminals, which she feels not only will pep up the places but give painters needed practice.

"What we need," she said, "is more walls."

Pistol-Packin' Pants Presser Is Arrested

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — A Chicago pants presser, carrying a gun and mumbling that the government owed him $76,000, was arrested outside the Senate Office Building today and later held for mental observation.

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott ordered the man, identified as Robert W. Martin, 5726 Wentworth Ave., Chicago, taken to District of Columbia General Hospital for observation.

Capitol police arrested him after he arrived in a taxi and they noted a suspicious bulge in one of his trouser pockets. The bulge, they discovered, was caused by a German pistol.

Tiny cannibalistic spiders that live on each other have been found at elevations of 23,000 feet on Mt. Everest, 4,000 feet above the limit for plant life.

Godfrey's Switch Still Unanswered

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — The big switch on Arthur Godfrey's show last night left a lot of puzzled listeners today.

Godfrey abandoned his usual "talent" format with the explanation that the acts were not up to standard. Instead members of Godfrey's own staff appeared on the half-hour television show.

CBS said Godfrey auditioned the three acts late in the afternoon and made the decision. Normally, the network added, he doesn't see the acts until show time. Why the switch yesterday? No one seemed to know.

CBS stood on this explanation: "Mr. Godfrey was not satisfied with the entertainment appeal of the talent scheduled and rather than present a program he did not consider up to the standard of Talent Scouts, he decided to alter the show's usual format."

1953-1954 Fashion Forecast

The fashion woman of fall 1953 will be slim, shapely, elegant—if the designers have their way. She will have a choice of figure-forming narrow-line coats, suits and dresses that will demand a careful corset job, best of all a one-piece foundation garment that will outline the bust, minimize the waist, and flatten the hips. And the new fabrics of these narrow costumes will set the mood of elegance—in luxury fiber content for coats, in lustrous broadcloth sheen for suits, in regal colors for dresses. But in this pursuit of elegance, there will also be a new prestige for black in every phase of fashion from ready-to-wear to accessories. The other big new color range for costume selection is the brown one—this offering a choice from beige and camel tones down through the deeper browns.

When it comes to late day fashions, however, you can bring out your full skirts again, and your petticoats, and still be right. While the sheath is the big new fashion, according to the fashion experts, skirt fulness is there for those who want it and especially after dark. Yet, the last word for evening is a slim, hard-to-walk-in siren gown—glittering with embroidery.

The big preoccupation with elegance will be expressed in more fur-trimmed fashions, plenty of glitter touches, velvet, broadcloth, softer-surfaced silks like peau de soie and barathea.

1953-1954 Fashion Forecast

The fashion woman of fall 1953 will be slim, shapely, elegant—if the designers have their way. She will have a choice of figure-forming narrow-line coats, suits and dresses that will demand a careful corset job, best of all a one-piece foundation garment that will outline the bust, minimize the waist, and flatten the hips. And the new fabrics of these narrow costumes will set the mood of elegance—in luxury fiber content for coats, in lustrous broadcloth sheen for suits, in regal colors for dresses. But in this pursuit of elegance, there will also be a new prestige for black in every phase of fashion from ready-to-wear to accessories. The other big new color range for costume selection is the brown one—this offering a choice from beige and camel tones down through the deeper browns.

When it comes to late day fashions, however, you can bring out your full skirts again, and your petticoats, and still be right. While the sheath is the big new fashion, according to the fashion experts, skirt fulness is there for those who want it and especially after dark. Yet, the last word for evening is a slim, hard-to-walk-in siren gown—glittering with embroidery.

The big preoccupation with elegance will be expressed in more fur-trimmed fashions, plenty of glitter touches, velvet, broadcloth, softer-surfaced silks like peau de soie and barathea.

Loyal Daughters Class of Kingsley Methodist Church meet at the home of Mrs. Raymond Curry, 704 Montgomery Avenue, tomorrow evening.

The retreat is for all women of the area. Mrs. McCleary and Mrs. Margaret Miller are cochairmen for the retreat.

Red Summons Aroused Fear In Frank Noel

Editor's Note—This is the last of a series of stories by AP photographer Frank Noel telling his experiences while captive of the Communists in North Korea for 33 months. Noel was repatriated Aug. 9 at Panmunjom and was flown to Tokyo the following day for medical treatment.

By FRANK NOEL
As told to Olen Clements

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 19 (AP) — A Chinese big shot came down to the schoolhouse where they kept our "reactionary" group and said to me:

"Bring all and come with."

That frightened me because they had been putting so many men in the hole at that time, Jan. 12, 1952, and that was usually the way they came to get them.

The "reactionary" group was made up prisoners who had refused to go for the Communist propaganda line.

I thought I was headed for the hole for sure and tried to think what I had done to deserve it. I'd been keeping my skirts pretty clean after I spent 42 days in the hole the past summer for escaping with Capt. Zachary Dean of Kansas. It was a miserable place.

But to my surprise they put me in a jeep and drove me to headquarters at Pyoktong. There the Chinese were very friendly and said they had some mail for me. I hadn't had any mail in a long time and I was eager to get it.

First they handed me a letter from the British Communist correspondent, Alan Winnington, who is a VIP (very important person) with the Chinese Reds. Then there were letters from my wife, whom I had not heard from in four months, and from Bob Tuckman and Bob Schutz of the Associated Press staff in Korea.

The Winnington, Tuckman and Schutz letters said they were sending me a camera and some film and on a voluntary basis I could make pictures of the prisoners.

Then the Chinese handed me the camera. I was delighted for it would give me something to do. Right then and there, though, I resolved not to make any propaganda pictures for the Chinese.

They took me over to the hospital and treated my infected eye with penicillin. The eye had been in bad shape for a long time and it cleared up right away. They also treated my right hand where a persistent ulcer had developed. That was the first and only hospital treatment I got from the Chinese in the 33 months they held me a prisoner after I was captured with the Marines on Nov. 29, 1950, near Koto, North Korea.

After the hospital treatment they took me in and fed me with the Chinese headmen. They had scrambled eggs, a piece of steak, bread and butter, jam, coffee, sugar, beef stew and apples. It was a feast. My usual fare at prison camp 2 consisted of rice, three pieces of steamed bread, turnips and maybe a few beans. We got that twice a day.

I gorged and they let me eat all I could hold. If you've ever been starving for two years you realize how I ate.

The next day the headman took me up to a hospital to start making pictures. I wanted to photograph the men in my camp who had not received any mail but the Chinese insisted I take hospital patients first. The first man I photographed was Ted Pallas of San Francisco. I photographed four or five others at the hospital and they made me take a picture of one group of GIs playing cards with a Chinese guard. I made it because I didn't want to get in an argument with them the first day.

But from then on I refused to have anything to do with anything that had the slightest propaganda tinge.

SCENE OF BIG ROBBERY—This is the Floral Park, N. Y., branch of the Franklin National Bank from which a daring gunman stole nearly $200,000 yesterday. The gunman grabbed the bank manager, Eric Gronwall, 44, on the lawn of his nearby Bellmore home, forced him into his own car at gunpoint and then used him as a shield to get into the bank. The young gunman then took the bank manager as a hostage in the car and released him a few miles away in a residential section of Queens section of New York City.

Federal Housing Rules Tightened

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Budget Bureau announced today "strict new policies" designed to limit and regulate future construction of government housing for federal employes, including military personnel.

It must be limited to what is necessary, Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge said in an order, and must follow "uniform design standards" which he said the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) has assembled at his direction.

Dodge said the standards were meant to insure "that government housing will be economical to build and maintain, and at the same time be adequate to meet the needs of the occupants."

The HHFA booklet will set up standards for structural design of government housing, and for such matters as floor space, heating, electric supply, light and ventilation, Dodge's order said.

Leipzig Battles Polio Epidemic

BERLIN, Aug 18 (AP)—A polio epidemic in East Germany threatens to delay opening of the Leipzig Fair, the annual display of Communist industrial products, Soviet zone sources reported here today.

Travelers from Leipzig said the city was stricken with hundreds of cases and that emergency isolation hospitals have been set up. The West Berlin newspaper Der Kurier reported 800 cases.

Public swimming and dancing have been prohibited and children's playgrounds are closed.

Other areas in Saxony and Thuringia, as well as the cities of Dresden, Halle, Chemnitz and Magdeburg were reported affected.

The Leipzig fair, the Soviet zone's industrial show window, is scheduled to open Aug. 30. Many foreign buyers normally attend.

Thought there is hunger in East Germany, the Communist organizers said the city is being especially stocked with fine foods.

The Communist news agency reported the arrival from Poland of 41,900 cans of fish, 13,000 cans of meat and 2,800 cases of "the finest liquors." These goods will be on free sale in Leipzig during the fair.

Underlining the real food shortage in East Germany, about 18,000 persons came into West Berlin today to collect American food parcels. After distributing more than 2,700,000 packages, the relief stations are running on reduced scale to allow reorganization. The second phase begins Aug. 27.

State Police Will Honor Teacher Who Helped Capture Bandit Gang

Frederick County Man's Tip Led To Robbers' Seizure

PIKESVILLE, Md., Aug. 18 (AP)—State police plan to honor Thursday the Frederick County school teacher who enabled them to capture a gang of bank robbers in less than 30 minutes last month.

The teacher is James E. Rexrode, an instructor at Liberty Junior High at Libertytown.

State troopers credit him with giving them a tip on the robbery before the bank was robbed.

Rexrode will receive a "certificate of appreciation" in the ceremonies at state police headquarters here at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Also to be honored are several state troopers from the Frederick barracks who quickly pounced on the three stickup men after they robbed the Peoples Bank at Libertytown just before it closed July 10.

Only a few minutes later, Trooper Donald Tucker intercepted them racing down Maryland Route 26 and chased them into Frederick.

The fleeing car ran afoul of Frederick's one-way street system and sideswiped another after rocketing through the main intersection. Two Negroes from Harrisburg, Pa. were captured in the car and a white accomplice from Niagara Falls, N. Y. was picked up a few moments later three blocks away.

Rexrode lives two doors from the bank in Libertytown and during the morning of July 10 he saw three strange men—two Negroes and a white man—driving around town in a car with New Jersey license plates. He was in the bank when one of the men came in for $2 in change. Rexrode later noticed the car again but this time bearing Pennsylvania plates.

The teacher called state police at Frederick.

The word about the suspicious car had just been spread by radio and patrol cars were heading toward Libertytown when the bank robbery alarm came in.

Other officers to be honored along with Tucker are his brother, Trooper Clyde B. Tucker, and Trooper H. L. Basore, who joined the chase through Frederick and helped arrest the trio, and Lt. W. K. May, barracks commander at Frederick who directed the dragnet operation by radio.

After the ceremonies, Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of state police, and Rexrode will review a parade made up of the Frederick officers under Capt. C. W. Magaha and the faculty and students of the department's training school here.

Rexrode, his family, and the honored troopers will be guests at a luncheon given by Col. Munshower after the parade.

Storm Damage To Crops Light

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 18 (AP)—Maryland crop reporters, looking over Eastern Shore farmlands in the wake of last week's hurricane winds, turned in this verdict today: Some damage but no heavy crop losses.

In their weekly report of crop and weather conditions, the federal and state observers said the high winds bowled over some corn fields on the Shore, but most of it probably will straighten up before harvest time.

The storm last Friday and frequent thundershowers during the week greatly improved moisture conditions in soil all over the state, the reporters said.

Tomatoes are being harvested on the upper Shore and on the Western Shore, but yields are disappointing because of dry weather during the summer and trouble with plant diseases.

Also coming to market are cantaloupes and watermelons from the Eastern Shore. The yield and average size of watermelons especially are reported very good.

Early varieties of peaches and apples are being harvested in Western Maryland.

Hay has improved considerably, with alfalfa about ready for third cutting. And pastures began to improve by the end of last week due to increased moisture.

Police Put Brakes On Cabbie's Plan To Drive "Blind"

CATONSVILLE, Md., Aug. 18 (AP)—Baltimore County police today put the brakes on Johnny Marco's plan to drive blindfolded through the streets of this Baltimore suburb.

Johnny is a cab driver. He practices a little hypnotism on the side.

His plan was to climb into a car tomorrow morning, his eyes swathed in heavy bandages, and drive through the busy streets by what he calls "psychic remote control."

A car driven by a confederate, without blindfold, was to lead the way. Johnny boasted he could follow the pilot car turn for turn and stop for stop.

Capt. Joseph Sarsitis heard about the stunt and ruled it illegal.

It took Charles Lindbergh 33½ hours to fly across the Atlantic in 1927, while jet planes now fly it in about five hours.

Equitable was the lowest of four bidders. It offered to take the bonds at an overall interest rate of 2.5 per cent in addition to a premium of $1,210.

Conference Set In Row Between Cops, Magistrate

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 18 (AP) — A simmering controversy between the Cambridge Police Department and the local trial magistrate boiled over today after Mayor Russell P. Smith Jr., charged the magistrate is incompetent.

Magistrate Charles H. Gibson fired back with explanations of several complaints voiced against him.

The result was a decision the mayor, the magistrate and Chief of Police Grason W. Price will have a conference Thursday afternoon to discuss the differences and see if they can be ironed out.

The flurry of charges and counter-charges was touched off yesterday when Patrolman Randolph Jews brought a Negro before Gibson on a drunk charge.

Gibson directed Jews to testify.

Jews said it wasn't any use to testify because he had brought the same man into court three or four times previously "and nothing was done about it."

"You cannot make remarks like that in this court," Gibson told him. "Stay out of this court."

Jews testified and headed for police headquarters to submit his resignation.

The three members of the city police board held a meeting. When it broke up, the commissioners found all but two or three members of the police force waiting for them. They went back into session again to hear the policemen's grievances against the magistrate.

After this session, Mayor Smith appeared before the City Council.

He declared the "incompetence in Magistrate Gibson's court is making law enforcement difficult."

In some cases, he said, the magistrate himself paid fines levied on defendants. In some instances, the mayor said, prisoners were released from jail before they came to trial and without notice to the arresting officer. The mayor said policemen also objected to the magistrate keeping in his desk the guns taken off defendants charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Gibson conceded today he sometimes advances money to defendants for payment of their fines. He said he has "never lost a cent" on these loans.

The magistrate said he also releases defendants from jail when arresting officers fail to appear to testify against them at the appointed time. He accused policemen of setting the times for such hearings and said this is the function of the magistrate.

The potato was found in North America as early as the 16th Century.

Bad Forest Fire Week

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today the week ended Monday was one of the worst on record for forest fires in the Far West. More than 1,500 fires were reported during the week in Montana, Idaho, California, Washington and Oregon.

Grandma's War With Firm Ends

BALTIMORE, Aug. 18 (AP) — The Battle of Bear Creek ended abruptly today. A construction firm began removing its equipment from the property of a scrappy, 57-year-old grandmother who had impounded it.

The battle started six months ago when the Leo Butler Company of College Park, working on a three million dollar sewer project nearby, parked $35,000 worth of equipment and supplies in Mrs. Wanda Sienkielewski's front yard.

It developed into a full-fledged war last week when Mrs. Sienkielewski, wearying over fruitless dickering about terms, fenced the equipment in with chicken wire and stood guard over it with a .22 rifle.

At one point, she repelled a landing party of workers who came up Bear Creek to retrieve the equipment. At another she threatened legal action.

But after a peace parley between Mrs. Sienkielewski's attorney and company representatives today, Mrs. S.'s lawyer issued a statement saying she has "granted permission to the Butler Company to enter her property and remove all equipment..."

"She concedes none of her legal privileges," the statement added.

The company side was less formal but to the point.

"We didn't pay her anything," said Richard Searles, vice president of the Butler firm.

State Police Will Honor Teacher Who Helped Capture Bandit Gang

Frederick County Man's Tip Led To Robbers' Seizure

PIKESVILLE, Md., Aug. 18 (AP)—State police plan to honor Thursday the Frederick County school teacher who enabled them to capture a gang of bank robbers in less than 30 minutes last month.

The teacher is James E. Rexrode, an instructor at Liberty Junior High at Libertytown.

State troopers credit him with giving them a tip on the robbery before the bank was robbed.

Rexrode will receive a "certificate of appreciation" in the ceremonies at state police headquarters here at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Also to be honored are several state troopers from the Frederick barracks who quickly pounced on the three stickup men after they robbed the Peoples Bank at Libertytown just before it closed July 10.

Prize Palomino Is Entry In Lions Club Horse Show

A beautiful Palomino which has defeated last year's interstate champion three times will be among entries in the Western Parade and Palomino Parade classes at the Lions Club-sponsored seventh annual Horse Show at Fairgo next month.

The Palomino, "Pal of Gold" is ridden by Harry J. Baier, of the Gateway Realty Company Stable, Pittsburgh. The horse has a completely-matched silver outfit valued at $15,000 according to William R. Carscaden, show secretary and steward.

Carscaden said the horse has been a consistent winner, numbering among his triumphs those at Waynesburg, Uniontown, Butler, Johnstown and Washington in Pennsylvania.

Dates of the show are September 4, 5, 6 and 7 with six sessions scheduled beginning Friday evening at 7 p. m. (DST) and continuing afternoon and evening each day through Monday afternoon.

Proceeds will be for the benefit of the Cumberland Lions Club underprivileged blind and crippled children's program.

Ribbons will be awarded in all classes. Cash awards are also offered in most classes.

Among trophies to be presented is the Senator J. Glenn Beall Challenge Trophy for hunters which an owner may retain permanently if won three times, not necessarily in succession. Another is the Western Pennsylvania Professional Horseman's Challenge Trophy.

Two Counties' Assessments To Be Checked This Week

The assessing procedures of Allegany and Garrett counties are being checked by a team of three chief assessors from other counties to determine if Allegany and Garrett follow the uniformity required by the state.

Somerville Nicholson, chief assessor for Allegany County, left for Garrett County yesterday with Steve Kahoe, chief assessor of Harford County, and Wilton T. Allen, chief assessor of Montgomery County, to check the assessing department of that area.

Tomorrow, Louis Kutsch, chief assessor of Prince Georges County, will come here to assist Kahoe and Allen in checking Allegany County's assessment program.

Make Recommendations

Nicholson has been busy for the past few weeks checking the assessments in various Maryland counties for the State Tax Commission. The assessment officials make recommendations following these inspection trips.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will open bids Friday at 10:30 a. m. on hardsurfacing of the road into the County Infirmary, County Home and Sylvan Retreat.

Several hundred yards of roadway will be surfaced and improved from Furnace Street to the section which was paved around the infirmary last year.

It was also announced by the commissioners that next week they will meet Thursday, August 27 because of their trip to Ocean City for the meeting of the County Commissioners Association of Maryland.

A letter was received from U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall relative to the request of the Bureau of Public Roads to the county to return a Bailey bridge which was "loaned" to the county in 1949 for use across Wills Creek near Corriganville.

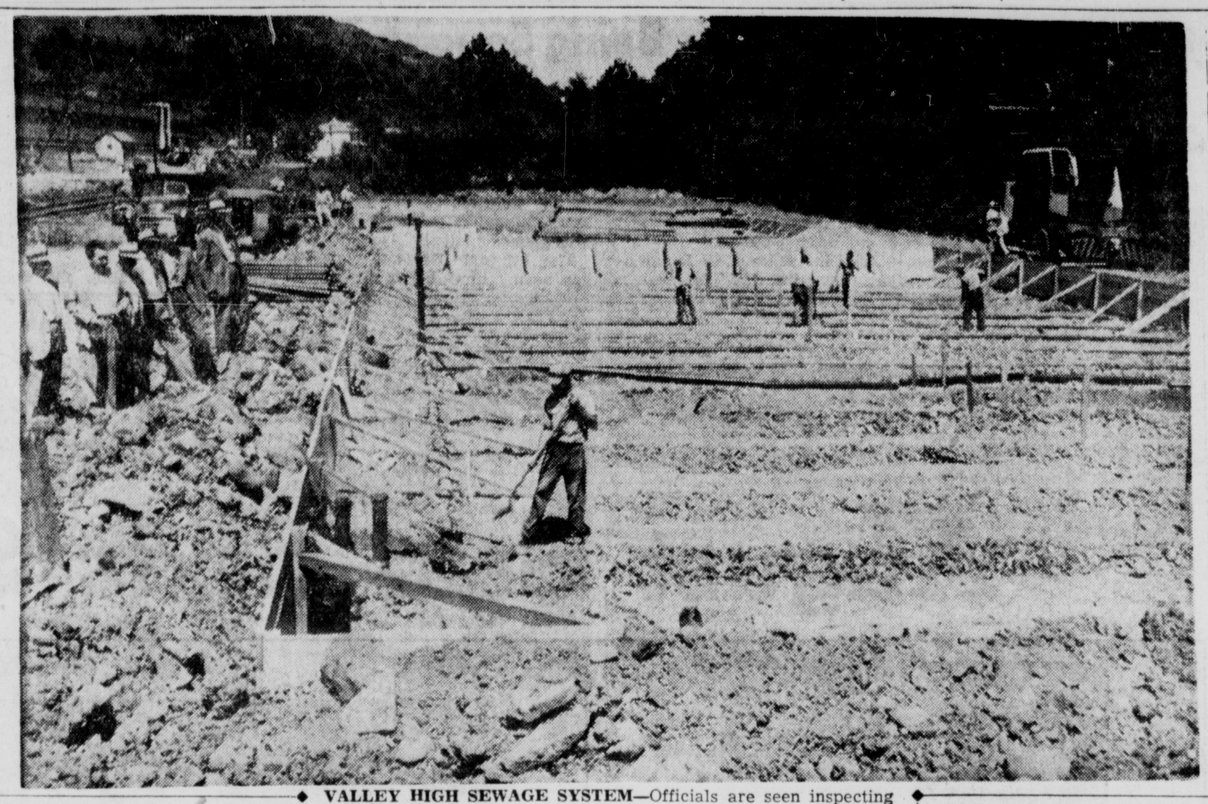
Senator Beall said he has requested information concerning the bridge from H. J. Spelman, division engineer of the federal agency. Spelman has written the county board to ask when the structure would be returned.

The commissioners say they did not know the bridge was on loan and have thought it had been sent here as a piece of surplus war material.

Seeks Road Repairs

William Wolf appeared before the board to seek repairs to the Frog Hollow Road on a section which runs off the Cresap Mill Road. He told the commissioners that if the road is not repaired he would not send his children to school on days when the thoroughfare was impassable. Wolf also conferred with Board of Education officials.

The commissioners informed Wolf the roadway in question is not part of the bona fide county roads system. Almost two years ago the roadway was opened by the county with a grader as an emergency measure, the commissioners said, with the understanding that Wolf would maintain it afterwards.



VALLEY HIGH SEWAGE SYSTEM—Officials are seen inspecting the sewage disposal system for Valley High School, near Lonaconing. They are James Holmes, member of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners; S. Russ Minter, architect for the project; Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools; William H. Lemmert, president of the County Commissioners; George B. Hale, State Roads Commission maintenance engineer, and J. Byron Dowling, state Heealth Department sanitarian. The big sewage plant, which will cost up to $50,000, is about 65 per cent complete and will be in operation when Valley High opens September 8. (Story on back page.)

Will Of Mary Peel Admitted To Probate

The will of Mary Peel, this city, who died August 15 was admitted to probate in Orphans Court yesterday.

Mrs. Annie Peel McAlpine, of Baltimore City, was named executrix and beneficiary in the document.

Increase Is Shown In Banking Debits

Debits to demand deposit accounts in Cumberland increased $3,321,000 during the first six months this year over the same period of 1952.

The Federal Reserve Bank in its district report showed debits of $153,303,000 during that time this year as compared to $149,982 in 1952. Figures for June also show a gain. This year, June debits amounted to $28,349,000 compared to $27,924,000 the same month a year ago.

Building permits also made sizeable gains during the six month period. Bank figures reveal a hike of $191,000 this year. For the first six months permits valued at $370,215 were issued compared to $179,124 the same period a year ago. In June permit valuations totaled $78,815 compared to $50,249 the same month of 1952.

Three Permits Granted By Board

Three permits were granted yesterday by the Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County.

Edgar Reynolds, Earl F. Schmutz, and Frank A. Wolfhope, officers of the Cumberland Fair Association were given a license for the period between August 24 and 29 during the fair. It is for beer alone.

Daniel L. Walker was given a license to sell beer on a Class D permit for premises at 60 Bowery Street in Frostburg. James E. Rickard and Velma C. Rickard were granted a beer license for Bortz Esso Station, 1039 Bedford Street. It was formerly held by the late Milton S. Bortz.

Prize Palomino Is Entry In Lions Club Horse Show

A beautiful Palomino which has defeated last year's interstate champion three times will be among entries in the Western Parade and Palomino Parade classes at the Lions Club-sponsored seventh annual Horse Show at Fairgo next month.

The Palomino, "Pal of Gold" is ridden by Harry J. Baier, of the Gateway Realty Company Stable, Pittsburgh. The horse has a completely-matched silver outfit valued at $15,000 according to William R. Carscaden, show secretary and steward.

Carscaden said the horse has been a consistent winner, numbering among his triumphs those at Waynesburg, Uniontown, Butler, Johnstown and Washington in Pennsylvania.

Dates of the show are September 4, 5, 6 and 7 with six sessions scheduled beginning Friday evening at 7 p. m. (DST) and continuing afternoon and evening each day through Monday afternoon.

Proceeds will be for the benefit of the Cumberland Lions Club underprivileged blind and crippled children's program.

Ribbons will be awarded in all classes. Cash awards are also offered in most classes.

Among trophies to be presented is the Senator J. Glenn Beall Challenge Trophy for hunters which an owner may retain permanently if won three times, not necessarily in succession. Another is the Western Pennsylvania Professional Horseman's Challenge Trophy.

Two Counties' Assessments To Be Checked This Week

The assessing procedures of Allegany and Garrett counties are being checked by a team of three chief assessors from other counties to determine if Allegany and Garrett follow the uniformity required by the state.

Somerville Nicholson, chief assessor for Allegany County, left for Garrett County yesterday with Steve Kahoe, chief assessor of Harford County, and Wilton T. Allen, chief assessor of Montgomery County, to check the assessing department of that area.

Tomorrow, Louis Kutsch, chief assessor of Prince Georges County, will come here to assist Kahoe and Allen in checking Allegany County's assessment program.

Make Recommendations

Nicholson has been busy for the past few weeks checking the assessments in various Maryland counties for the State Tax Commission. The assessment officials make recommendations following these inspection trips.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will open bids Friday at 10:30 a. m. on hardsurfacing of the road into the County Infirmary, County Home and Sylvan Retreat.

Several hundred yards of roadway will be surfaced and improved from Furnace Street to the section which was paved around the infirmary last year.

It was also announced by the commissioners that next week they will meet Thursday, August 27 because of their trip to Ocean City for the meeting of the County Commissioners Association of Maryland.

A letter was received from U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall relative to the request of the Bureau of Public Roads to the county to return a Bailey bridge which was "loaned" to the county in 1949 for use across Wills Creek near Corriganville.

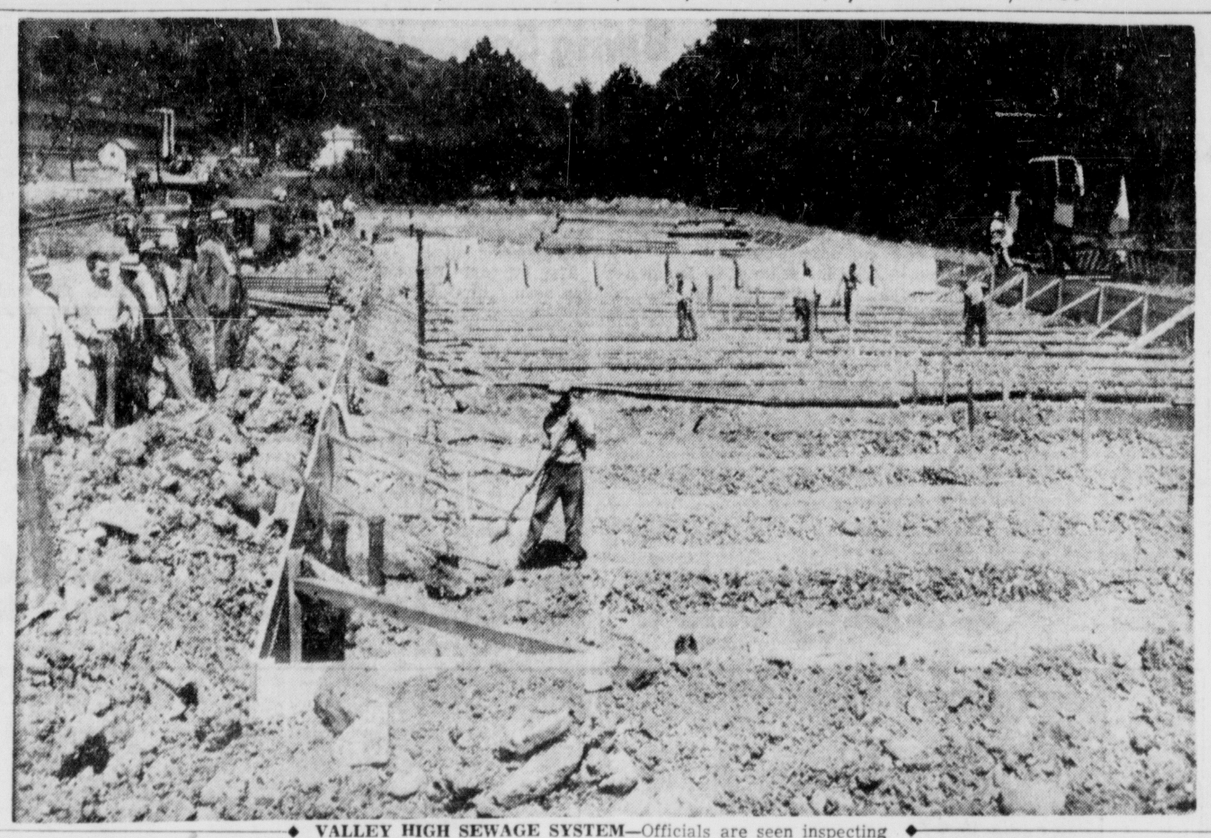
Senator Beall said he has requested information concerning the bridge from H. J. Spelman, division engineer of the federal agency. Spelman has written the county board to ask when the structure would be returned.

The commissioners say they did not know the bridge was on loan and have thought it had been sent here as a piece of surplus war material.

Seeks Road Repairs

William Wolf appeared before the board to seek repairs to the Frog Hollow Road on a section which runs off the Cresap Mill Road. He told the commissioners that if the road is not repaired he would not send his children to school on days when the thoroughfare was impassable. Wolf also conferred with Board of Education officials.

The commissioners informed Wolf the roadway in question is not part of the bona fide county roads system. Almost two years ago the roadway was opened by the county with a grader as an emergency measure, the commissioners said, with the understanding that Wolf would maintain it afterwards.



VALLEY HIGH SEWAGE SYSTEM—Officials are seen inspecting the sewage disposal system for Valley High School, near Lonaconing. They are James Holmes, member of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners; S. Russ Minter, architect for the project; Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools; William H. Lemmert, president of the County Commissioners; George B. Hale, State Roads Commission maintenance engineer, and J. Byron Dowling, state Heealth Department sanitarian. The big sewage plant, which will cost up to $50,000, is about 65 per cent complete and will be in operation when Valley High opens September 8. (Story on back page.)

Will Of Mary Peel Admitted To Probate

Mrs. Annie Peel McAlpine, of Baltimore City, was named executrix and beneficiary in the document.

State Roads Commission Marks 78 Construction Jobs 'Urgent'

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission is about to get a 24-million dollar running start on Maryland's mammoth new highway building program.

It has designated 78 projects—at least one in each county—for "urgent and immediate action."

It hopes to be able to ask contractors to bid on the first of them in the next few weeks.

It hopes many of them will be under contract by the first of the year, the work at least under way on some of them, and perhaps a few completed.

"Time is of the essence," said William F. Childs, Jr., the commission's chief engineer, when he issued instructions for quick handling of the 78 projects.

He asked his seven division engineers to report which of the 78 could be tackled first, and then work on the ones that require more complicated preliminaries — blueprints and right-of-way buying.

Some Bids Advertised

Then, Childs instructed his subordinates, the projects will be put up for bids in a sequence that will start highway work humming in all sections of the state as soon as possible.

The 78 "urgent" projects contemplate the overhauling of about 190 miles of road, at an expected cost of about 22 million dollars.

The Roads Commission already is at the "advertised for bids" stage or beyond on another 17 projects in which another 45 miles of highway will be built or rebuilt for almost two millions.

The first actual construction work began recently on the 12-year, 568-million dollar program which the General Assembly authorized in its last, yawning moments one morning last April.

The first job actually to get underway was the resurfacing and widening of Ritchie Highway from the north edge of Glen Burnie down to the Mountain Road intersection.

Contracts have been awarded on two other projects, with the work scheduled to start almost any day. One is the resurfacing of U. S. 40 in Allegany County from Frostburg west to the Garrett County line. The other is on North Point Road in Baltimore County, from the city line toward Sparrows Point.

Early Start Aim

If the Roads Commission can get some of its 78 "urgent" projects going in 1953, it will be months ahead of schedule on the big new highway program.

The first of the 12 program years is commonly designated "1954" around the roads commission. The authorization did not actually take effect until the state's fiscal 1954 began on July 1. The program, when it was put up to the legislature, did not contemplate actual work much before calendar 1954 began.

If most of the 24-million worth of jobs are started or under contract before 1954 rolls around, the commission and its staff will already have taken a long step toward meeting their first-year goal in 1954.

The 12-year program contemplates a construction rate of about 50 million a year in the first four years.

Beyond the "urgent" 78, the commission already is well along on the preliminaries for several major projects such as those on the Washington National Pike from Frederick into Washington and the Baltimore National Pike from Baltimore to Frederick.

Most Are Simple Projects

When it starts letting the contracts on those late this year and early in 1954 the difference between 24 million and 50 million will drop away at a rate of between a half and three quarters of a million dollars a mile.

Most of the "urgent" 78 are relatively simple projects—the resurfacing, the widening, or the re-surfacing and widening of existing roads. They do not require complicated engineering and involve few if any right-of-way problems.

The county-by-county list includes:

ALLEGANY COUNTY

Maryland 51—In Cumberland, build 1.20 miles of dual highway and 1.33 miles of 24-foot roadway for ultimate dual highway, a total of 2.53 to the east city limits, $1,500,000.

Law Library Retention Is Being Sought

The Allegany County Bar Association is making an effort to have the Federal Court library in the Cumberland Post Office Building retained here, Simon F. Reilly, president, announced yesterday.

Reilly has written Federal Judge William A. Coleman of Baltimore for permission to have the sets of valuable legal books kept in Cumberland as federal court quarters are being discontinued in the Cumberland Post Office Building.

The federal court library since the construction of the post office had been in the suite of offices on the second floor occupied by the clerk of the U. S. District Court for Maryland.

Local Branch Closed

After the death of C. Edgar Keller, the clerk, his post was not continued and the Cumberland branch of the Baltimore District was closed.

This suite of rooms is being taken over by the local branch of the U. S. Internal Revenue Bureau and at this time the George Construction Company is making necessary alterations.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has been cramped in quarters on the third floor of the post office.

During these alterations, the Federal Court library has been moved to the Federal Court Room which is not being used.

Another Opposed

Reilly said James A. Avirett, who is a member of the bar association's library committee and who is also U. S. commissioner here, has also written to Judge Coleman asking that the library be kept here.

Avirett said among the books is a complete set of U. S. Reports, all of the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Another valuable set is the Federal Reporter which contains all decisions that have been made by U. S. District Courts and U. S. Circuit Courts of Appeals.

Contains Other Material

The U. S. Code, Annotated, contains all of the federal statutes passed by Congress. There is also Shephard's Citations, an index of Federal and Supreme Court decisions; a set on federal bankruptcy laws, and Hughes' Federal Forms, in addition to a number of miscellaneous books.

Reilly said the books may have to be purchased, but he understands they are destined for storage in Baltimore. He and Avirett are requesting the judge to have the library remain in the vacant court room.

The speed of the ostrich is said to exceed that of any mammal.

State Roads Commission Marks 78 Construction Jobs 'Urgent'

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission is about to get a 24-million dollar running start on Maryland's mammoth new highway building program.

It has designated 78 projects—at least one in each county—for "urgent and immediate action."

It hopes to be able to ask contractors to bid on the first of them in the next few weeks.

It hopes many of them will be under contract by the first of the year, the work at least under way on some of them, and perhaps a few completed.

"Time is of the essence," said William F. Childs, Jr., the commission's chief engineer, when he issued instructions for quick handling of the 78 projects.

He asked his seven division engineers to report which of the 78 could be tackled first, and then work on the ones that require more complicated preliminaries — blueprints and right-of-way buying.

Some Bids Advertised

Then, Childs instructed his subordinates, the projects will be put up for bids in a sequence that will start highway work humming in all sections of the state as soon as possible.

The 78 "urgent" projects contemplate the overhauling of about 190 miles of road, at an expected cost of about 22 million dollars.

The Roads Commission already is at the "advertised for bids" stage or beyond on another 17 projects in which another 45 miles of highway will be built or rebuilt for almost two millions.

The first actual construction work began recently on the 12-year, 568-million dollar program which the General Assembly authorized in its last, yawning moments one morning last April.

The first job actually to get underway was the resurfacing and widening of Ritchie Highway from the north edge of Glen Burnie down to the Mountain Road intersection.

Contracts have been awarded on two other projects, with the work scheduled to start almost any day. One is the resurfacing of U. S. 40 in Allegany County from Frostburg west to the Garrett County line. The other is on North Point Road in Baltimore County, from the city line toward Sparrows Point.

Early Start Aim

If the Roads Commission can get some of its 78 "urgent" projects going in 1953, it will be months ahead of schedule on the big new highway program.

The first of the 12 program years is commonly designated "1954" around the roads commission. The authorization did not actually take effect until the state's fiscal 1954 began on July 1. The program, when it was put up to the legislature, did not contemplate actual work much before calendar 1954 began.

If most of the 24-million worth of jobs are started or under contract before 1954 rolls around, the commission and its staff will already have taken a long step toward meeting their first-year goal in 1954.

The 12-year program contemplates a construction rate of about 50 million a year in the first four years.

Beyond the "urgent" 78, the commission already is well along on the preliminaries for several major projects such as those on the Washington National Pike from Frederick into Washington and the Baltimore National Pike from Baltimore to Frederick.

Most Are Simple Projects

When it starts letting the contracts on those late this year and early in 1954 the difference between 24 million and 50 million will drop away at a rate of between a half and three quarters of a million dollars a mile.

Most of the "urgent" 78 are relatively simple projects—the resurfacing, the widening, or the re-surfacing and widening of existing roads. They do not require complicated engineering and involve few if any right-of-way problems.

Law Library Retention Is Being Sought

The Allegany County Bar Association is making an effort to have the Federal Court library in the Cumberland Post Office Building retained here, Simon F. Reilly, president, announced yesterday.

Reilly has written Federal Judge William A. Coleman of Baltimore for permission to have the sets of valuable legal books kept in Cumberland as federal court quarters are being discontinued in the Cumberland Post Office Building.

The federal court library since the construction of the post office had been in the suite of offices on the second floor occupied by the clerk of the U. S. District Court for Maryland.

Local Branch Closed

After the death of C. Edgar Keller, the clerk, his post was not continued and the Cumberland branch of the Baltimore District was closed.

This suite of rooms is being taken over by the local branch of the U. S. Internal Revenue Bureau and at this time the George Construction Company is making necessary alterations.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has been cramped in quarters on the third floor of the post office.

During these alterations, the Federal Court library has been moved to the Federal Court Room which is not being used.

Another Opposed

Reilly said James A. Avirett, who is a member of the bar association's library committee and who is also U. S. commissioner here, has also written to Judge Coleman asking that the library be kept here.

Avirett said among the books is a complete set of U. S. Reports, all of the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Another valuable set is the Federal Reporter which contains all decisions that have been made by U. S. District Courts and U. S. Circuit Courts of Appeals.

Contains Other Material

The U. S. Code, Annotated, contains all of the federal statutes passed by Congress. There is also Shephard's Citations, an index of Federal and Supreme Court decisions; a set on federal bankruptcy laws, and Hughes' Federal Forms, in addition to a number of miscellaneous books.

Reilly said the books may have to be purchased, but he understands they are destined for storage in Baltimore. He and Avirett are requesting the judge to have the library remain in the vacant court room.

Man Arrested For Pilfering

A transient who identified himself as an ex-policeman was arrested Monday night after authorities found him carrying a sports shirt taken from a ransacked auto.

Kenneth Gray, of Chicago and Baltimore, drew a five-day jail sentence yesterday in Police Court on a misdemeanor charge. He was unable to pay a $5 fine.

Police said he ransacked the car of William LaNeve, 190 North Centre Street, who identified the shirt but refused to prosecute.

Police also are probing the alleged theft of a small red and white tricycle found in the possession of Louis Donius, city, who was given a three-day jail sentence yesterday morning by Magistrate Donald W. Mason. The prisoner pleaded not guilty to a drunk charge.

Mason ordered Donius held "until the owner of the tricycle is determined."

Authorities were advised that a ladies lapel watch and a man's pocket watch were stolen two weeks ago from the home of Mrs. Besta Bowers, Paw Paw.

Washington Beats Yanks, 10-8; White Sox Capture Pair

Senators Get Seven In 9th To Score Win

Eleven Bat During Rally; Busby, Vernon Belt Three-Baggers

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — The Washington Senators erupted for seven runs in the ninth inning tonight to beat the New York Yankees 10-8 before a crowd of 24,599. Triples by Mickey Vernon and Jim Busby were the big blows in the Washington explosion.

Trailing 8-3 going into the ninth the Senators sent 11 men to the plate and knocked out three Yankee pitchers with a six hit attack.

Ed Fiz Gerald opened the big frame with a single and pinch hitter Gil Coan walked before Bob Porterfield, another pinch hitter struck out. Then Eddie Yost singled home the first run and after Mel Horderlain walked Vernon came through with a triple.

Tom Gorman took over from Allie Reynolds who had relieved rookie Bill Miller after the first hit. He walked Jackie Jensen and Clyde Vollmer, who hit two home runs earlier in the game, singled home Vernon with the tieing run.

This brought Johnny Sain to the mound and Busby greeted him with a triple to right center, only to be thrown out when he tried to stretch it into an inside-the-park homer.

Billy Owns 2.19 ERA, Warren's Mark 2.21

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves share the spotlight in the earned run listings today.

Jaycees Reach Finals, Defeat Rotarians, 5-3

Newsies Swamp Lions, 12-0, Tie Up Series

The Jaycees advanced to the finals of the Hot Stove Baseball League playoffs last night by scoring their second straight win of the series over the Rotary Club at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 5-3.

In the opening game of the doubleheader, the Times - News evened up their series with the Lions Club at one-all by winning to the tune of 12-0.

Only five hits were made by the teams in the Jaycees-Rotary tilt and six errors helped pave the way to defeat for the latter team.

The Jaycees scored twice in the first inning by coupling an error and a walk with Eddie Parsons single. Three errors in the second frame gave Manager Sherman Weatherholt's club another tally and two more miscues gave them another tally in the third. In the 7th, a walk and Carl Brown's triple to right concluded the Jaycees' scoring.

Rotary scored in the 4th by grouping two errors with a base hit. In the fifth, a single, error and Kenny Klosterman's two - bagger produced two tallies. Klosterman, however, was tagged out attempting to stretch his hit into a double.

Tommy Dunbar of the winners gave up three hits and fanned 10 while Jesse Markley, Rotary twirler, yielded two safeties and whiffed 15.

Arthur Washington tossed a two-hitter and struck out six as the Newsies blanked the Lions. The Lions hits were credited to Valentine and Dick.

Bill Hanekamp with a homer and single and Washington and Diehl with a two-bagger and triple each sparked the Times-News attack that produced 10 hits. Hanekamp's circuit clout came with two mates aboard.

Ronnie Winters, losing pitcher, fanned six, and Francis Valentine, who replaced him in the fourth, fired the third strike past eight batters. Scores:

Senators Get Seven In 9th To Score Win

Eleven Bat During Rally; Busby, Vernon Belt Three-Baggers

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — The Washington Senators erupted for seven runs in the ninth inning tonight to beat the New York Yankees 10-8 before a crowd of 24,599. Triples by Mickey Vernon and Jim Busby were the big blows in the Washington explosion.

Trailing 8-3 going into the ninth the Senators sent 11 men to the plate and knocked out three Yankee pitchers with a six hit attack.

Ed Fiz Gerald opened the big frame with a single and pinch hitter Gil Coan walked before Bob Porterfield, another pinch hitter struck out. Then Eddie Yost singled home the first run and after Mel Horderlain walked Vernon came through with a triple.

Tom Gorman took over from Allie Reynolds who had relieved rookie Bill Miller after the first hit. He walked Jackie Jensen and Clyde Vollmer, who hit two home runs earlier in the game, singled home Vernon with the tieing run.

This brought Johnny Sain to the mound and Busby greeted him with a triple to right center, only to be thrown out when he tried to stretch it into an inside-the-park homer.

Fiz Gerald kept the rally going with another single but Coan fanned to end the inning.

Pierce, Spahn Pace Hurlers

Billy Owns 2.19 ERA, Warren's Mark 2.21

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves share the spotlight in the earned run listings today.

Figures disclose that Pierce is the American League leader with a 2.19 average. The 26-year-old hurler has allowed 49 earned runs in 201 innings.

Spahn has given up 45 earned runs in 183 innings for a 2.21 ERA, lowest in the National League. Averages include Sunday's games.

Pierce hasn't been scored on in 34 2-3 innings. In posting a 16-7 won-lost record, including six shutouts, Pierce has struck out 142 batters, most in the league.

Spahn has a 16-5 record and is aiming to become a 20-game winner for the fifth time. Always stingy with runs, Spahn won the ERA title in 1947 with a 2.33 mark.

Jaycees Reach Finals, Defeat Rotarians, 5-3

Newsies Swamp Lions, 12-0, Tie Up Series

The Jaycees advanced to the finals of the Hot Stove Baseball League playoffs last night by scoring their second straight win of the series over the Rotary Club at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 5-3.

In the opening game of the doubleheader, the Times - News evened up their series with the Lions Club at one-all by winning to the tune of 12-0.

Only five hits were made by the teams in the Jaycees-Rotary tilt and six errors helped pave the way to defeat for the latter team.

The Jaycees scored twice in the first inning by coupling an error and a walk with Eddie Parsons single. Three errors in the second frame gave Manager Sherman Weatherholt's club another tally and two more miscues gave them another tally in the third. In the 7th, a walk and Carl Brown's triple to right concluded the Jaycees' scoring.

Rotary scored in the 4th by grouping two errors with a base hit. In the fifth, a single, error and Kenny Klosterman's two - bagger produced two tallies. Klosterman, however, was tagged out attempting to stretch his hit into a double.

Tommy Dunbar of the winners gave up three hits and fanned 10 while Jesse Markley, Rotary twirler, yielded two safeties and whiffed 15.

Arthur Washington tossed a two-hitter and struck out six as the Newsies blanked the Lions. The Lions hits were credited to Valentine and Dick.

Bill Hanekamp with a homer and single and Washington and Diehl with a two-bagger and triple each sparked the Times-News attack that produced 10 hits. Hanekamp's circuit clout came with two mates aboard.

Ronnie Winters, losing pitcher, fanned six, and Francis Valentine, who replaced him in the fourth, fired the third strike past eight batters. Scores:

George Hixenbaugh's triple with the bases loaded in the first inning was the big blow in the Outdoor Club's win over the Eagles.

Grimes and Durbin singled and after Vernon Penner, who had hit ten home runs, was purposely passed, Hixenbaugh cleaned the bases. In the 4th Hixenbaugh singled and scored on Sam Brady's two-bagger. Brady tried to score on Van Johnson's hit but was cut down on a nice throw to the plate by Jack Kauffman in left field.

Prospects now were that conditions may be favorable for a start Thursday morning or evening.

Arcaro To Ride Native Dancer In Rich Derby

Will Replace Guerin, Jamie K Is Withdrawn

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro, an old-hand at bringing in winners, will be aboard Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Native Dancer in the $100,000 American Derby at Washington Park Saturday.

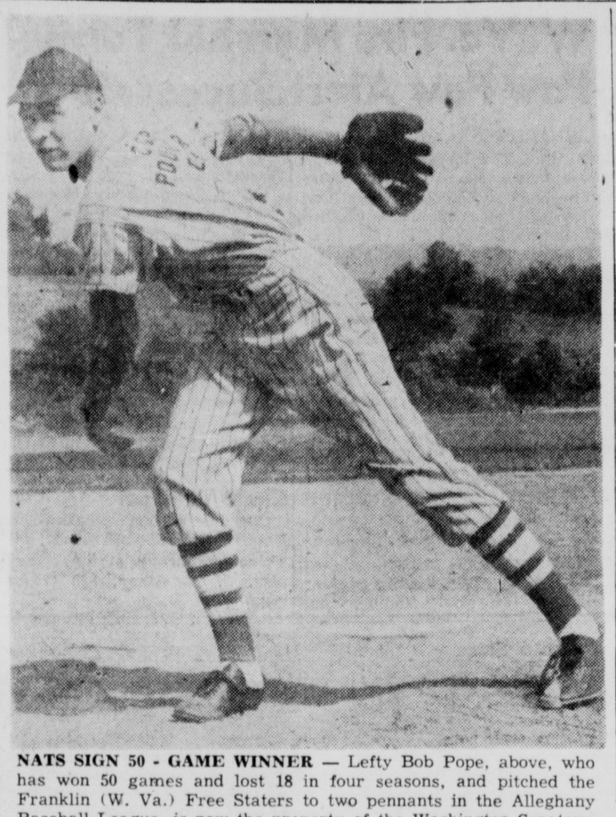
The sensational 3-year-old gray champion, seeking his 18th victory in 19 starts, will be running for the first time without Eric Guerin at the reins. Guerin is serving a 10-day suspension levelled by Saratoga stewards for a foul in last Saturday's Saratoga Special.

Arcaro, leading jockey of the recent Arlington Park meeting, became available for Native Dancer today when he was relieved of a committment to ride Jim Norris' Jamie K.

Norris withdrew Jamie K. from the famed mile and one eighth race "in light of the horse's poor performance" in yesterday's Johns Joy Handicap. In this mile derby prep at Washington Park, Jamie K. finished a badly beaten fourth despite Arcaro's efforts to whip him into a stretch drive.

Native Dancer arrived in Chicago today in a special car hitched to the end of an express train and was moved to Washington Park in a luxurious motor van.

Trainer Bill Winfrey promptly enlisted Arcaro's services in a shot for the $70,000 first prize that would boost Native Dancer's lifetime winnings to $747,420.



NATS SIGN 50 - GAME WINNER — Lefty Bob Pope, above, who has won 50 games and lost 18 in four seasons, and pitched the Franklin (W. Va.) Free Staters to two pennants in the Alleghany Baseball League, is now the property of the Washington Senators, having been signed last week by the major league club. He will report to Charlotte, N. C., Senators' farm team, next spring. Pope, 21, won 13 out of 17 in 1950, posted a 10-5 record in 1951, scored 17 wins against three losses last year and his record for the current season in the South Branch Valley League is 10-6. Leo Skidmore, big righthander, who once pitched for the Cumberland Colts, also in the Blue Ridge and International leagues and American Association, is manager of the Franklin team for which Pope pitches. Bob is married and has two children. He lives at Brandywine, ten miles from Franklin. (Photo by J. G. Ashenfelter).

Seixas, Trabert Win In National Doubles Tourney

Rosewall And Hoad Score At Brookline

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 18 (AP)—Vic Seixas' wrenched right knee, which threatened to blight the U. S. Davis Cup Team's national doubles hopes, stood up remarkably well as he and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, romped through their postponed opening match today at Longwood.

Trabert and Seixas romped through Chancey D. Steele tnd Bob Stewart of Cambridge, Mass., 6-1, 6-1, 6-4, in the last of the first round engagements.

"Trabert was so good in every department that Seixas was not called upon to do much against us," Steel explained.

Wimbledon team champions Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, top-seeded Australian threats, had easy second round assignments ousting San Francisco's Ed Chandler and Gerald Stratford, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2. The Aussie's second ranking pair, Mervyn Rose and Rec Hartwig, brushed aside Longwoodites Arthur Hills and Bob Joslin, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

Veterans Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Bill Talbert of New York, who won the first of their four national team titles back in 1942, upheld their second-seedings by romping over Herbert Browne of Columbia, S. C. and William Cranston of San Moreno, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

North American Trapshoot Title Goes To Ohioan

Fred Waldock Wins Vandalia Shoot-Off

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 18 (AP)—Fred D. Waldock Jr., 23-year-old Ohio State law student from Sandusky, Ohio, today outshot 705 of the country's finest gun pointers to win the North American Clay Target Championship.

Waldock tied at 200 straight with Maynard B. Henry, 38-year-Los Angeles attorney, and then defeated the Westerner 50-49 in a shoot-off for the day's big prize at the 54th Grand American Trapshoot.

The new champion, despite his youth, has been shooting for more than 10 years and said:

"I feel like I was born with a shotgun in my hands."

Earlier today, Iva Pembridge, 27-year-old rural schoolteacher from Phillibsburg, Kan., won her second national championship in two days.

Miss Pembridge broke 195 of 200 targets today from 16 yards to win the women's North American Clay Target Championship. Yesterday she defeated the feminine champions of the other states with 99 of 100 to take the Champion of Champions title.

Roberts Helps Ridzik Turn Back Buccos, 1-0

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 (AP)—Robin Roberts, the major leagues' winningest pitcher, trudged out of the bullpen in the 7th inning tonight to save a shutout for Steve Ridzik as the Philadelphia Phillies squeaked by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1-0.

Ridzik, edging the Pirates' Paul LaPalme up to the seventh, weakened and the Pirates collected two singles and a walk. Preston Ward's single sent Frank Thomas scurrying home from second but Johnny Wyrostek's on-the-line throw cut down the runner.

Ridzik, backing up the play at home plate, twisted his ankle and limped off the field. In came the major leagues' only 20-game winner to date to throttle the Pirates.

DETROIT, Aug. 18 (AP) — Righthander Steve Gromek of the Detroit Tigers tamed his old Cleveland Indian teammates with six hits and drove in the winning run as he beat them 3-2 tonight before 33,848 fans.

Gromek, who has won only four games this season, chalked up his second triumph over the Indians who traded him June 15. He beat them 4-2 on a seven-hitter July 2 and bettered that performance a bit tonight. Mike Garcia, seeking his 15th win, had to settle for his seventh loss as the Tigers put three hits together in the two run seventh to move into a 3-2 lead.

Arcaro To Ride Native Dancer In Rich Derby

Will Replace Guerin, Jamie K Is Withdrawn

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro, an old-hand at bringing in winners, will be aboard Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Native Dancer in the $100,000 American Derby at Washington Park Saturday.

The sensational 3-year-old gray champion, seeking his 18th victory in 19 starts, will be running for the first time without Eric Guerin at the reins. Guerin is serving a 10-day suspension levelled by Saratoga stewards for a foul in last Saturday's Saratoga Special.

Arcaro, leading jockey of the recent Arlington Park meeting, became available for Native Dancer today when he was relieved of a committment to ride Jim Norris' Jamie K.

Norris withdrew Jamie K. from the famed mile and one eighth race "in light of the horse's poor performance" in yesterday's Johns Joy Handicap. In this mile derby prep at Washington Park, Jamie K. finished a badly beaten fourth despite Arcaro's efforts to whip him into a stretch drive.

Native Dancer arrived in Chicago today in a special car hitched to the end of an express train and was moved to Washington Park in a luxurious motor van.

Trainer Bill Winfrey promptly enlisted Arcaro's services in a shot for the $70,000 first prize that would boost Native Dancer's lifetime winnings to $747,420.

NATS SIGN 50 - GAME WINNER — Lefty Bob Pope, above, who has won 50 games and lost 18 in four seasons, and pitched the Franklin (W. Va.) C., Senators' farm team, next spring. Pope, 21, won 13 out of 17 in 1950, posted a 10-5 record in 1951, scored 17 wins against three losses last year and his record for the current season in the South Branch Valley League is 10-6. Leo Skidmore, big righthander, who once pitched for the Cumberland Colts, also in the Blue Ridge and International leagues and American Association, is manager of the Franklin team for which Pope pitches. Bob is married and has two children. He lives at Brandywine, ten miles from Franklin. (Photo by J. G. Ashenfelter).

Roberts Helps Ridzik Turn Back Buccos, 1-0

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 (AP)—Robin Roberts, the major leagues' winningest pitcher, trudged out of the bullpen in the 7th inning tonight to save a shutout for Steve Ridzik as the Philadelphia Phillies squeaked by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1-0.

Ridzik, edging the Pirates' Paul LaPalme up to the seventh, weakened and the Pirates collected two singles and a walk. Preston Ward's single sent Frank Thomas scurrying home from second but Johnny Wyrostek's on-the-line throw cut down the runner.

Ridzik, backing up the play at home plate, twisted his ankle and limped off the field. In came the major leagues' only 20-game winner to date to throttle the Pirates.

Damage Suit Transferred To U. S. Court

A suit brought by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners against a Pennsylvania man whose loaded truck caused the Mt. Pleasant Bridge to collapse has been transferred from Allegany County Circuit Court to U. S. Federal Court for the District of Maryland in Baltimore.

The county commissioners have sued Cletus B. Wertz, of nearby Pennsylvania, for $10,000.

Because of his Pennsylvania citizenship, Wertz' counsel had the trial removed from Allegany County Circuit Court, where legally it could have been heard, to the federal court.

Gorman C. Getty, attorney to the county commissioners, said Wertz is being sued for the amount it would have cost to replace the old Mt. Pleasant Bridge that collapsed when the man's truck loaded with logs started to cross it.

However, the old bridge had a load limit, but the new concrete-steel replacement has no limitation on weight. The new one cost about $37,000 to build.

Getty observed the $10,000 is the figure the county commissioners are seeking as their fair share of the construction cost.

Assisting Getty with the suit are W. Earle Cobey, William A. Carscaden and C. William Gilchrist, all of this city.

Representing Wertz are William C. Walsh, Thomas B. Finan, of this city, and the Baltimore law firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge.

Farmers have voted to make marketing quotas effective on 1954-crop wheat, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. Preliminary returns from the national referendum of wheat growers held Friday show 87.2 percent of the farmers voting in favor of marketing quotas on next year's crop and 12.8 percent opposed.

These preliminary, unofficial returns show a total of 414,644 votes counted. Of these, 361,392 votes were recorded as favoring marketing quotas and 53,252 votes were recorded as against quotas. Although these returns are preliminary and do not include the vote in a few scattered counties, the final official tabulation is not expected to show any significant change from the percentages for and against reported today.

W. Va. Fire Marshal Terms Paw Paw Alert Successful

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 18 (AP)—State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper said that a mock fire emergency movement designed to test Civil Defense preparedness was decidedly successful.

The test emergency involved a supposed fire yesterday at the Tannery Building at Paw Paw, Morgan County. For purpose of the test, the building theoretically contained critical war material.

The movement involved 20 fire departments in eight counties located in Civil Defense Fire Service District No. 6. They were given the alert at 4 p.m. and at 6:30 p.m. the situation was considered under control.

When the alert was given nearby fire companies moved to the scene. The companies were from Ridgley, Short Gap, Fort Ashby, Keyser, Berkeley Springs, Romney and Paw Paw. One ambulance from Keyser was moved to the scene of the disaster.

Departments from Moorefield, Petersburg, Franklin and Keyser moved up as replacements in towns where equipment had moved to the supposed fire scene. This involved moving 10 pieces of fire fighting equipment and one ambulance distances of from one to 40 miles, Raper said.

Counties involved in the test were Pendleton, Hardy, Grant, Hampshire, Mineral, Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson, all in the sixth Civil Defense Fire District.

Wolfe Is President Of AFL Iron Workers

Leo A. Wolfe, Mt. Savage Road, was installed as president of Cumberland Local 568, Iron Workers Union (AFL), recently.

Wolfe, runner-up in the union's annual election, was named to the top post after the Iron Workers International ruled that Robert E. Getz, Bowling Green, was ineligible, due to not being in the local for two years prior to the election June 20.

Getz transferred back to the Cumberland local in May 1951, and was eligible on Local 568 records, officials said, but records of the international set the date of the transfer as July 1.

Wheat Quotas Receive Strong Endorsement

Farmers have voted to make marketing quotas effective on 1954-crop wheat, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. Preliminary returns from the national referendum of wheat growers held Friday show 87.2 percent of the farmers voting in favor of marketing quotas on next year's crop and 12.8 percent opposed.

These preliminary, unofficial returns show a total of 414,644 votes counted. Of these, 361,392 votes were recorded as favoring marketing quotas and 53,252 votes were recorded as against quotas. Although these returns are preliminary and do not include the vote in a few scattered counties, the final official tabulation is not expected to show any significant change from the percentages for and against reported today.

In Maryland, where more than 7,000 were eligible to ballot, only 20 per cent voted. Of that number 1,413 favored quotas and 217 opposed. In this county four favored quotas and five opposed them.

W. Va. Fire Marshal Terms Paw Paw Alert Successful

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 18 (AP)—State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper said that a mock fire emergency movement designed to test Civil Defense preparedness was decidedly successful.

The test emergency involved a supposed fire yesterday at the Tannery Building at Paw Paw, Morgan County. For purpose of the test, the building theoretically contained critical war material.

The movement involved 20 fire departments in eight counties located in Civil Defense Fire Service District No. 6. They were given the alert at 4 p.m. and at 6:30 p.m. the situation was considered under control.

When the alert was given nearby fire companies moved to the scene. The companies were from Ridgley, Short Gap, Fort Ashby, Keyser, Berkeley Springs, Romney and Paw Paw. One ambulance from Keyser was moved to the scene of the disaster.

Departments from Moorefield, Petersburg, Franklin and Keyser moved up as replacements in towns where equipment had moved to the supposed fire scene. This involved moving 10 pieces of fire fighting equipment and one ambulance distances of from one to 40 miles, Raper said.

Counties involved in the test were Pendleton, Hardy, Grant, Hampshire, Mineral, Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson, all in the sixth Civil Defense Fire District.

Circle To Meet

Mad Cow Attacks Ridgeley Woman

Mrs. Ruth Minnicks, wife of Lawrence Minnicks, RD 1, suffered lacerations of the right cheek and left hand, attaches said. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of other possible injuries.

Seven-year-old Thomas Birmingham, 217 Paca Street, escaped injury Monday when his bicycle collided with an auto driven by Charles Waterman, 44, of 501 Greene Street. The mishap occurred at Washington and Lee Streets. No charges were filed.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18 (INS)—A very good prospect to star in "Lisbon" is Susan Hayward. I understand that Paramount is on tip-toe waiting to get Susie's decision. If 20th has nothing for her it's a likely chance that Susan will accept the offer.

This is the story which was originally intended for Joan Crawford and which Nick Ray was to direct, but for some reason Joan and Paramount didn't get together.

By the way, the sneak preview of Joan's MGM picture, "Torch Song," reveals that Crawford is as terrific as she was when she was one of the biggest stars on that lot.

There's no news I would rather print than an up-beat item about Hollywood and the movies. So I'm happy to give you this word on "Moulin Rouge." In its American release the picture already has grossed four and a half million dollars, and a return of many more millions seems certain after its world release.

Elliot Hyman, Harold Mirosch and the others who put up the money to finance "Moulin Rouge" have received their returns from their investment and already have reinvested the money in four other productions, "Beachhead," "Americano," shooting in Brazil, and "Duel in the Jungle" set to start in Africa this month. Fourth on the list is "Moby Dick."

Is there no end to the lavish entertainment offered the public in Las Vegas? Now it's the Ziegfeld Follies, no less, which Jack Entratter is setting up for patrons of his Sands Hotel.

The revue will be in tabloid form, and Frank Sinatra has been signed as the first star. Two presentations are planned for each year.

Entratter bought the rights to the title "Ziegfeld Follies" on his hurry-up trip to New York where he also is lining up some new beauties to add to his chorus of Copa dolls.

I renewed an old friendship with Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, when I met him at Ciro's. He told me he was on his way to Seattle to meet Polly (Mrs. Tunney) to whom he has been married for 25 years, and his son who is in the Army.

Gene and I reminisced about old friends and particularly about William Randolph Hearst, for whom he had great admiration. He recalled a dinner we had both attended given by Mr. Hearst, who, I remember, was astounded by Gene's literary knowledge.

The first prize fight I ever covered was the one in Philadelphia when Gene fought Jack Dempsey, and the second one in Chicago when the two fighters met again.

Donald O'Connor had two straight days of normal temperature, at the hospital, and celebrated by sending out for lobster and cracked crab. Are you listening, doctor!

Olivia De Havilland, radiant in a Paris gown, introduced her future husband, Pierre Galante, to Hollywood at the dinner dance given for Rosemary Clooney and Jose Ferrer.

Tomorrow Maureen O'Sullivan does "Peter and the Wolf" with a symphony orchestra at San Diego. She substitutes for Judy Holliday, who was unable to go.

Mrs. Rufus Le Maire, who has been very lonesome since the death of her husband, has her house up for sale and plans to live in New York. He was casting director at Universal-International at the time of his death.

Insults, Flying Fists Commonplace At Italian Legislature's Sessions

By MELTON S. DAVIS
Central Press Correspondent

ROME, Italy—Now that the newly-elected legislators have taken their seats, Italy's chamber of deputies and senate are once again open for business. Here in two palaces in the heart of Rome are daily displayed the virtues and faults of Italian democracy at work.

Possibly no law-making bodies in the world functions in the same belligerent and boisterous manner. Commonly heard phrases in the past included "Liar," "Rascal," "Scoundrel," "Fascist Criminal" and "Kremlin Stooge."

Right from its first days, the assembly has been the scene of uproarious disputes. Fist fights broke out on all sides. Imprecations and inkwells were hurled with equal abandon. One Roman newspaper suggested that the assembly would soon become a ring providing exhibitions not seen since Nero's days.

A FEW practice swings and then the Leftists cried, "Viva la Republica!" The Monarchists yelled back, "Viva la Monarchia!" and the Center shouted, "Viva l'Italia!", always a safe bet. All of them eventually got in the melee and the hall had to be cleared.

However, after the 1948 elections, paunches continued being punched and faces slapped during hot-tempered debates. Once when about 50 vocal outbursts occurred during a speech, the speaker of the chamber plaintively asked if there was any point in continuing the meeting. "I can understand interruptions every sentence, but at every word—that is too much!"

As political lines strengthened in post-war Italy, the Communists organized in assault squads. Certain groups were to raise parliamentary objectives, others dream up amendments, still others work in committee to delay.

The climax came with Communist obstruction of the government's controversial election reform bill this year.

SHRIEKING insults, Left-Wing deputies physically blocked the way to the box where colored balls are cast as ballots. When pro-government deputies forced their way through to vote, one of the Communists leaped to the voting table and hurled the ballot box, votes and all, in the air.

A Conservative leaped up and down in front of the speaker of the chamber, beating his desk with both palms. Another, trying to calm a colleague hooked his finger into the collar of that worthy's shirt, and dragged him forcibly to his seat. The captive turned purple for a moment, and then retreated to the rear of the hall, where he continued his cries.

This boisterous behaviour has spread a few blocks away to the senate. Meetings are held in the smaller Sixteenth Century Madama palace. Members had previously been appointed by the king and were usually markedly sedate.

However, this year the electoral bill vote was announced while senators slugged each other with broken chairs. The Left-Wing formed a wedge to try and pull the presiding officer out of his seat.

• • •

A COMMUNIST woman legislator walked up to a Christian Democrat, shouted, "You cheated us!" and slapped his face. The white-bearded aristocrat bowed slightly and said, "Thank God you are a woman and I am a gentleman!" and stalked away.

A result was the first chamber and senate remodeling in 30 years. Inkwells were fastened to desks and desks to the floors.

However, it looks as if the forthcoming sessions will be at least as robust. Among the newcomers is a Communist who was in prison awaiting trial for the theft of Mussolini's treasure.

Another, accused of several killings, has returned from three years' refuge in Czechoslovakia to take his seat. Two others are neo-Fascist "heroes" of a bomb-throwing incident in Trieste.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Distributed By INS)

Rebellion in East Germany indicates that Prescott had something when he said the empty stomach was the laboratory of discontent.

More proof was the vacuum in the bowl that made the Chinese strollers retreat from Indochina. It was the drought in China that brought on the Korean hesitation waltz.

If it was further validated by dieted insurgence in the Balkans then riddle me this. Why should we feed the hungered resentment out of Commie-controlled states?

Well, I'll plead present and guilty to the soft spot in the impeachment. But why don't we get as practical as the Commies? Who mark the sparrow's fall by first twisting its neck.

I saw a news reel of a squad of starving East Berliners throwing stones at a Russian tank. That scrimmage was as one-sided as the heels of a bowlegged hobo.

You've got to be good and hungry to reach that stage. You've got to be as hot and hollow as a stove-pipe.

No well-fed burgher is going to heave dornicks at a tank. Hunger will make a rat pull a cat down a drain.

Strand Theater Getting New Type Picture Screen

The installation of one of the nation's first giant curved wall-to-wall motion picture screens is now under way at the Schine Strand Theatre, according to Nick Yost, manager.

Choose your costume's color to highlight and glorify your hair! Follow these suggestions.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

In planning your new fall wardrobe, remember that you must rate color selection as important as style. Why? Because the colors you wear accent what is so very personally you—the attractiveness of skin, hair or eyes.

Of course your color choice should always first be in accord with your complexion. But within the range of colors that flatter your skin, you can select colors that also highlight your hair or your eyes. Let's see, today, what you can choose that will enhance your hair:

Hair Flattery

Blonde hair: The violets, from mauve to purple are top fashion for fall and especially flattering to blonde hair. Another new fall color for you is one of the yellow greens, ranging from citron to bronzine.

Red hair: To accentuate the color, choose green in any of its new fall interpretations but especially consider the darker greens from forest to teal. If you are a fair red head, be sure to note the beautiful blues in for-get-me-not shades from regal to neon hues. The darker red-heads can achieve memorable loveliness in the blued shades of violet.

Brown hair: Blue, purple blues and green blues will all emphasize your hair's coloring. You can also wear brown well, but be sure that it is a grayed brown (low in intensity) so that it does not overshadow your hair's own shade.

Black hair: Blue from light to dark will enhance black hair that has a brown cast. The new rust shades for fall are an excellent choice for those with blue-black hair. The new holly-berry red will flatter either type of black hair.

Gray hair: Holly-berry red, muted violets and a lighter, softer shade of gray than the hair will set it off attractively.

Distinction From Colors

White hair: Black will intensify the whiteness of the hair to the highest degree. A very dark shade of any other color will do so with only slightly less effectiveness.

Although infrequent, a conflict can nevertheless occur between colors that flatter the face and those that flatter the hair. When it happens what can you do? Simply incorporate into your costume your hair-flattering color through your accessories. Next to your skin, wear the color that flatters it. Ever see a red-head wearing a face-flattering costume and carrying a purse that matches or complements her hair? That's when you see color at work for beauty!

Donald O'Connor had two straight days of normal temperature, at the hospital, and celebrated by sending out for lobster and cracked crab. Are you listening, doctor!

Olivia De Havilland, radiant in a Paris gown, introduced her future husband, Pierre Galante, to Hollywood at the dinner dance given for Rosemary Clooney and Jose Ferrer.

Tomorrow Maureen O'Sullivan does "Peter and the Wolf" with a symphony orchestra at San Diego. She substitutes for Judy Holliday, who was unable to go.

Hedy Lamarr has apparently straightened out her complexes by herself. She dismissed the psychiatrist who went with her to Europe, and is starting work on her TV series "Most Famed Romances" in Rome.

Mrs. Rufus Le Maire, who has been very lonesome since the death of her husband, has her house up for sale and plans to live in New York. He was casting director at Universal-International at the time of his death.

Insults, Flying Fists Commonplace At Italian Legislature's Sessions

Central Press Correspondent

ROME, Italy—Now that the newly-elected legislators have taken their seats, Italy's chamber of deputies and senate are once again open for business. Here in two palaces in the heart of Rome are daily displayed the virtues and faults of Italian democracy at work.

Possibly no law-making bodies in the world functions in the same belligerent and boisterous manner. Commonly heard phrases in the past included "Liar," "Rascal," "Scoundrel," "Fascist Criminal" and "Kremlin Stooge."

Right from its first days, the assembly has been the scene of uproarious disputes. Fist fights broke out on all sides. Imprecations and inkwells were hurled with equal abandon. One Roman newspaper suggested that the assembly would soon become a ring providing exhibitions not seen since Nero's days.

The first assembly spent its closing day in a knockdown brawl. The Monarchists swashbuckled from their benches and were met half-way in the hemicycle of the chamber by deputies from the left.

A FEW practice swings and then the Leftists cried, "Viva la Republica!" The Monarchists yelled back, "Viva la Monarchia!" and the Center shouted, "Viva l'Italia!", always a safe bet. All of them eventually got in the melee and the hall had to be cleared.

However, after the 1948 elections, paunches continued being punched and faces slapped during hot-tempered debates. Once when about 50 vocal outbursts occurred during a speech, the speaker of the chamber plaintively asked if there was any point in continuing the meeting. "I can understand interruptions every sentence, but at every word—that is too much!"

As political lines strengthened in post-war Italy, the Communists organized in assault squads. Certain groups were to raise parliamentary objectives, others dream up amendments, still others work in committee to delay.

The climax came with Communist obstruction of the government's controversial election reform bill this year.

SHRIEKING insults, Left-Wing deputies physically blocked the way to the box where colored balls are cast as ballots. When pro-government deputies forced their way through to vote, one of the Communists leaped to the voting table and hurled the ballot box, votes and all, in the air.

A Conservative leaped up and down in front of the speaker of the chamber, beating his desk with both palms. Another, trying to calm a colleague hooked his finger into the collar of that worthy's shirt, and dragged him forcibly to his seat. The captive turned purple for a moment, and then retreated to the rear of the hall, where he continued his cries.

This boisterous behaviour has spread a few blocks away to the senate. Meetings are held in the smaller Sixteenth Century Madama palace. Members had previously been appointed by the king and were usually markedly sedate.

However, this year the electoral bill vote was announced while senators slugged each other with broken chairs. The Left-Wing formed a wedge to try and pull the presiding officer out of his seat.

* * *

A COMMUNIST woman legislator walked up to a Christian Democrat, shouted, "You cheated us!" and slapped his face. The white-bearded aristocrat bowed slightly and said, "Thank God you are a woman and I am a gentleman!" and stalked away.

The president of the senate was hit on the head with a piece of wood thrown by a Communist. He then resigned.

A result was the first chamber and senate remodeling in 30 years. Inkwells were fastened to desks and desks to the floors.

However, it looks as if the forthcoming sessions will be at least as robust. Among the newcomers is a Communist who was in prison awaiting trial for the theft of Mussolini's treasure.

Another, accused of several killings, has returned from three years' refuge in Czechoslovakia to take his seat. Two others are neo-Fascist "heroes" of a bomb-throwing incident in Trieste.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Distributed By INS)

Rebellion in East Germany indicates that Prescott had something when he said the empty stomach was the laboratory of discontent.

More proof was the vacuum in the bowl that made the Chinese strollers retreat from Indochina. It was the drought in China that brought on the Korean hesitation waltz.

If it was further validated by dieted insurgence in the Balkans then riddle me this. Why should we feed the hungered resentment out of Commie-controlled states?

You will probably say I'm cruel-er than a baby-sitter wearing earmuffs.

Well, I'll plead present and guilty to the soft spot in the impeachment. But why don't we get as practical as the Commies? Who mark the sparrow's fall by first twisting its neck.

I saw a news reel of a squad of starving East Berliners throwing stones at a Russian tank. That scrimmage was as one-sided as the heels of a bowlegged hobo.

You've got to be good and hungry to reach that stage. You've got to be as hot and hollow as a stove-pipe.

No well-fed burgher is going to heave dornicks at a tank. Hunger will make a rat pull a cat down a drain.

That's why I claim it's wrong to take the wrinkles out of Europe's vest.

Maybe Prescott had the formula for revolt. Maybe I'm meaner than the man who soaped the steps on the old folks home.

Strand Theater Getting New Type Picture Screen

The installation of one of the nation's first giant curved wall-to-wall motion picture screens is now under way at the Schine Strand Theatre, according to Nick Yost, manager.

The construction of the huge screen took six months. The new screen, Yost pointed out, offers full clarity and greater brillance from any seat in the theatre and gives motion pictures an entirely "new look."

Choose your costume's color to highlight and glorify your hair! Follow these suggestions.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

In planning your new fall wardrobe, remember that you must rate color selection as important as style. Why? Because the colors you wear accent what is so very personally you—the attractiveness of skin, hair or eyes.

Of course your color choice should always first be in accord with your complexion. But within the range of colors that flatter your skin, you can select colors that also highlight your hair or your eyes. Let's see, today, what you can choose that will enhance your hair:

Hair Flattery

Blonde hair: The violets, from mauve to purple are top fashion for fall and especially flattering to blonde hair. Another new fall color for you is one of the yellow greens, ranging from citron to bronzine.

Red hair: To accentuate the color, choose green in any of its new fall interpretations but especially consider the darker greens from forest to teal. If you are a fair red head, be sure to note the beautiful blues in for-get-me-not shades from regal to neon hues. The darker red-heads can achieve memorable loveliness in the blued shades of violet.

Brown hair: Blue, purple blues and green blues will all emphasize your hair's coloring. You can also wear brown well, but be sure that it is a grayed brown (low in intensity) so that it does not overshadow your hair's own shade.

Black hair: Blue from light to dark will enhance black hair that has a brown cast. The new rust shades for fall are an excellent choice for those with blue-black hair. The new holly-berry red will flatter either type of black hair.

Gray hair: Holly-berry red, muted violets and a lighter, softer shade of gray than the hair will set it off attractively.

Distinction From Colors

White hair: Black will intensify the whiteness of the hair to the highest degree. A very dark shade of any other color will do so with only slightly less effectiveness.

Although infrequent, a conflict can nevertheless occur between colors that flatter the face and those that flatter the hair. When it happens what can you do? Simply incorporate into your costume your hair-flattering color through your accessories. Next to your skin, wear the color that flatters it. Ever see a red-head wearing a face-flattering costume and carrying a purse that matches or complements her hair? That's when you see color at work for beauty!

GRIM AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"I thing Otis has a real fabulous philosophy . . . he thinks we should make the best of having parents . . ."

Radio And Television by John Crosby

The Bargain Hunter

Charles O'Malley helps run a perfectly wonderful bookstore at 377 Fourth Avenue. It is a cozy second-story shop lined with thousands of books, most of which have long since been out of print. If the book you're seeking isn't on the shelves — and it probably is — O'Malley will locate one for you somewhere.

John Crosby

I don't know where he finds them but it's almost impossible to stick O'Malley with a title he can't run to earth. If you asked him for the Book of Kell, he'd likely have it in the shop for you in a couple of days. A while ago, the O'Malley Book Store was visited by a large TV tycoon, which is to say a man who has a sponsor in his pocket. This character, who shall be nameless, had literary larceny in mind.

"He softened us," Mr. O'Malley relates, "by talking of the art of TV for awhile. He then broke down —almost sobbing—and admitted he wanted books in English text, published before 1897 (drawing the copyright line as tightly as possible); must be of American origin (since, as you know, Great Britain's copyright law is much kinder to the author and his family): insisted on horror, ghost, or very funny stories, though adventure, love or even family scenes would do. How's your gamut these days?

"We aided the crime by digging out three books he could filch from. He was disappointed in the first—before he had read any of it—as it contained but 12 stories. We pointed out that W. Shakespeare had much less choice; he begot Hamlet from one Danish saga. This man wanted a good five-cent saga.

"Well, we were temporarily good friends again. Until he saw that the books were priced. His disappointment embraced the three books and ourselves. He said he thought he could find his type of material on outside bargain 10 and 25 cent tables. We are on the second floor and long ago decided against outside stands since even Adler couldn't elevate browsers that high.

"Next he wanted to rent the books for one day on a circulating library basis. When we were thinking of getting ourselves some medical care, this sport—his name is one of the biggest in the TV picture — took down the authors' names and the book titles, told us he was going to browse around bargain tables for them, and said he'd be back if he couldn't find them.

"Evidently his browsing hasn't unearthed any stories to milk. He has called up three times to see whether we are having any post-Fourth of July sales on these special books. Said he wouldn't be able to call any more, as he was leaving for California and his writing partner."

This is the most striking story of literary close-fistedness to come my direction. But there is lots of evidence that the writer is getting a poor deal in TV. The way TV burns up material, the writer is going to be the most important guy in the business. Yet, he is widely neglected. Practically everyone and his sister thinks he can write a TV play but he hasn't the faintest idea where to send it once he writes it. I haven't the foggiest idea either.

The amateurs—who are tomorrow's professionals — have a terrible time busting into this exclusive little circle. Once they do bust in, they may well live to wish they'd stayed home in White Bait, Mont. There are little writing cliques that get all the work from, say, one dramatic program. Outsiders, even recognized and experienced writers, have no chance of breaking in.

And that, dear children, is why you get so many shoddy reworkings of the same old tire formulas, so many drama shows that make you think you're seeing the same shows you saw the night before. Honest competition among the writers would end a lot of that and we'd all be a lot happier.

Daily Bridge Lesson by Shepard Barclay

DON'T GET UNBALANCED

EVEN though a slick psychic bidder puts something over on you during one deal—that is no reason for getting so off balance that you are an easy victim for him during the next. Most especially, if he happens to bid your best suit on the next one and you have a good hand, by all means take some kind of action instead of merely being feinted out of the bidding. If you have no other suit worth calling, and lack a No Trump situation, then double, prepared to bid the suit on your next turn—the accepted way of showing you have the suit, whether he has or not.

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

North had been hamstrung on the preceding deal, when West bid a suit he didn't have and as a consequence caused North and South to get into an unprofitable contract. This time North decided he would go smart, when he heard West's bid, and would pass to await developments. Unfortunately, there were no developments, at least not during the auction, as East and South passed.

In the play North and South made an unbid grand slam against West's 1-Club, that rarity of rarities, a defense grand slam. Poor North was chagrined as never before at a bridge table, when he had to write down the insignificant score of 350 points for setting West seven tricks not doubled not vulnerable at 50 a trick.

North's sound action was to double the 1-Club and then be prepared to bid the suit on his next turn, which would tell anybody he had a club suit regardless of whether West had one or not. He probably never would have shown the clubs, as South would have answered the double with his diamonds, whereupon the pair should have reached a high diamond contract, of at least six tricks if at all venturesome, but at the very worst a game.

West did not mean to be psyching at this time. He was merely using a "short club" bid, in the hope that his partner could bid either major in response.

What is West's correct lead if the bidding had been 1-No Trump by South, then two by North and three by South?

Radio And Television
by John Crosby

The Bargain Hunter

Charles O'Malley helps run a perfectly wonderful bookstore at 377 Fourth Avenue. It is a cozy second-story shop lined with thousands of books, most of which have long since been out of print. If the book you're seeking isn't on the shelves — and it probably is—O'Malley will locate one for you somewhere.

John Crosby

I don't know where he finds them but it's almost impossible to stick O'Malley with a title he can't run to earth. If you asked him for the Book of Kell, he'd likely have it in the shop for you in a couple of days. A while ago, the O'Malley Book Store was visited by a large TV tycoon, which is to say a man who has a sponsor in his pocket. This character, who shall be nameless, had literary larceny in mind.

"He softened us," Mr. O'Malley relates, "by talking of the art of TV for awhile. He then broke down —almost sobbing—and admitted he wanted books in English text, published before 1897 (drawing the copyright line as tightly as possible): must be of American origin (since, as you know, Great Britain's copyright law is much kinder to the author and his family): insisted on horror, ghost, or very funny stories, though adventure, love or even family scenes would do. How's your gamut these days?

"We aided the crime by digging out three books he could filch from. He was disappointed in the first—before he had read any of it—as it contained but 12 stories. We pointed out that W. Shakespeare had much less choice; he begot Hamlet from one Danish saga. This man wanted a good five-cent saga.

"Well, we were temporarily good friends again. Until he saw that the books were priced. His disappointment embraced the three books and ourselves. He said he thought he could find his type of material on outside bargain 10 and 25 cent tables. We are on the second floor and long ago decided against outside stands since even Adler couldn't elevate browsers that high.

"Next he wanted to rent the books for one day on a circulating library basis. When we were thinking of getting ourselves some medical care, this sport—his name is one of the biggest in the TV picture — took down the authors' names and the book titles, told us he was going to browse around bargain tables for them, and said he'd be back if he couldn't find them.

"Evidently his browsing hasn't unearthed any stories to milk. He has called up three times to see whether we are having any post-Fourth of July sales on these special books. Said he wouldn't be able to call any more, as he was leaving for California and his writing partner."

This is the most striking story of literary close-fistedness to come my direction. But there is lots of evidence that the writer is getting a poor deal in TV. The way TV burns up material, the writer is going to be the most important guy in the business. Yet, he is widely neglected. Practically everyone and his sister thinks he can write a TV play but he hasn't the faintest idea where to send it once he writes it. I haven't the foggiest idea either.

The amateurs—who are tomorrow's professionals — have a terrible time busting into this exclusive little circle. Once they do bust in, they may well live to wish they'd stayed home in White Bait, Mont. There are little writing cliques that get all the work from, say, one dramatic program. Outsiders, even recognized and experienced writers, have no chance of breaking in.

And that, dear children, is why you get so many shoddy reworkings of the same old tire formulas, so many drama shows that make you think you're seeing the same shows you saw the night before. Honest competition among the writers would end a lot of that and we'd all be a lot happier.

Daily Bridge Lesson
by Shepard Barclay

DON'T GET UNBALANCED

EVEN though a slick psychic bidder puts something over on you during one deal—that is no reason for getting so off balance that you are an easy victim for him during the next. Most especially, if he happens to bid your best suit on the next one and you have a good hand, by all means take some kind of action instead of merely being feinted out of the bidding. If you have no other suit worth calling, and lack a No Trump situation, then double, prepared to bid the suit on your next turn—the accepted way of showing you have the suit, whether he has or not.

	♠ None ♥ A K ♦ 8 6 4 3 ♣ A K J 9 8 3 2
♠ A K Q 2 ♥ Q J 9 3 ♦ 9 7 5 ♣ Q 7	N W E S	♠ 10 9 8 6 ♥ 5 3 ♦ 10 8 5 2 ♣ K ♣ 6 5
	♠ J 7 4 ♥ 7 6 4 ♦ A Q J 10 2 ♣ 10 4

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

North had been hamstrung on the preceding deal, when West bid a suit he didn't have and as a consequence caused North and South to get into an unprofitable contract. This time North decided he would go smart, when he heard West's bid, and would pass to await developments. Unfortunately, there were no developments, at least not during the auction, as East and South passed.

In the play North and South made an unbid grand slam against West's 1-Club, that rarity of rarities, a defense grand slam. Poor North was chagrined as never before at a bridge table, when he had to write down the insignificant score of 350 points for setting West seven tricks not doubled not vulnerable at 50 a trick.

North's sound action was to double the 1-Club and then be prepared to bid the suit on his next turn, which would tell anybody he had a club suit regardless of whether West had one or not. He probably never would have shown the clubs, as South would have answered the double with his diamonds, whereupon the pair should have reached a high diamond contract, of at least six tricks if at all venturesome, but at the very worst a game.

West did not mean to be psyching at this time. He was merely using a "short club" bid, in the hope that his partner could bid either major in response.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ Q 9 7 4 ♥ A K J ♦ A K Q ♣ J 7 5

What is West's correct lead if the bidding had been 1-No Trump by South, then two by North and three by South?

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their acts of kindness at the time of the death of our beloved husband and father, Lawrence Kasecamp. We also wish to thank the pallbearers and all those who sent floral tributes, messages of condolence, or donated the use of their automobiles.

His Wife and Daughter.

We take this means of publicly expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our neighbors, friends and relatives who were so kind and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, Fred Meyers. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, the pallbearers and to anyone who in any manner rendered assistance.

MRS. FRED MEYERS and FAMILY

Late Selling Burst Sends Stock Prices Downward

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—A late burst of selling, with recent favorites under pressure, put the entire list down today in the stock market.

Losses went to around 2 points with plus signs smtll for the most part. On average the list was down by a greater margin than at any time in the past three weeks.

The market see-sawed narrowly most of the day, much of the time on the upside. But toward the close selling appeared in such issues as Du Pont off 2⅜ at 100¾, General Electric off 1⅛ at 76⅛, and Chrysler off ⅛ at 69½ after being as high as 70⅜.

Total volume for the day came to 1,030,000 shares. That compares with 910,000 shares trtded yesterday.

However, lest today's total be regarded as high, it must be compared with the daily average of 1,425,000 shares traded so far this year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 70 cents, the most in a little more thtn three weeks. The average stands now at $107.80. The industrial component of the average was hardest hit and lost 90 cents. Railroads were down 80 cents while utilities were down 20 cents.

All of the ten most active issues declined. American Telephone off ⅜ at 155 headed the list with a volume of 15,500 shares. It was followed by U. S. leather off ½ at 14¾, Canadian Pacific off ½ at 25, International Telephone off ¼ at 15½, and U. S. Steel off ⅜ at 37¼.

Trooper Turns Inventor To Aid Law Enforcement

Inspector Felty (right) and another highway patrolman test new scales.

By Central Press

COLUMBUS, O.—A veteran Ohio State Highway Patrol official has come up with an invention which will enable local governments—large or small—to enforce highway weight limits without tying up thousands of dollars in weighing stations or permanent scales layouts.

The official, Inspector U. C. Felty, recently unveiled his invention—a portable weighing station which can be towed along the highway by a patrol car or jeep—and observers were amazed at its simplicity and efficiency.

"It's so simple I don't know why I didn't think of it years ago," said Inspector Felty, who has been with Ohio's patrol since its inception 19 years ago.

Said E. E. Powell, an official of Black & Decker Manufacturing company of Townson, Md., manufacturer of truck-weighing scales:

"I have never seen anything like it in the 27 years I've been in the business. It is the real answer to accurate weighing of tandem axle trucks, which present the biggest problem."

* * *

INSPECTOR FELTY'S scales are really four sets of old-fashioned portable truck-weighing scales rolled up into one. With the old portables, which weighed 87 pounds apiece, highway patrolmen had to stop trucks, haul out the portables, place a scale under each wheel to be weighed before the load could be registered.

Felty's invention eliminates all this tugging and pulling (and possible injury for patrolmen). His unit, operated by a hydraulic lift which lowers it to the pavement from the jeep-pulled trailer and raises it again, can weigh all four wheels of a big tandem axle at once.

Felty said many small communities, previously unable to enforce weight limits because of the cost of permanent scales was prohibitive, had expressed interest in his invention.

* * *

LARGER POPULATION centers apparently are interested, too, for New York's state patrol sent two of its officials to Columbus to look over the invention of Inspector Felty, who has been with Ohio's patrol since its formation some 20 years ago.

The reason for New York's interest was apparent. That state currently has been building a series of weighing stations to help enforce a weight-distance tax on heavy trucks. These stations cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 apiece and require long strips of right-of-way to accommodate the vehicles and a host of other space-consuming and expensive requirements.

Inspector Felty's scales, which can do the job just as efficiently as a permanent layout, will cost less than $1,500.

Trucking company officials who witnessed the unveiling also expressed interest, pointing out that often they desire to weigh loads at various points along their routes.

Late Selling Burst Sends Stock Prices Downward

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—A late burst of selling, with recent favorites under pressure, put the entire list down today in the stock market.

Losses went to around 2 points with plus signs smtll for the most part. On average the list was down by a greater margin than at any time in the past three weeks.

The market see-sawed narrowly most of the day, much of the time on the upside. But toward the close selling appeared in such issues as Du Pont off 2⅜ at 100¾, General Electric off 1⅛ at 76⅛, and Chrysler off ⅛ at 69½ after being as high as 70⅜.

Total volume for the day came to 1,030,000 shares. That compares with 910,000 shares trtded yesterday.

However, lest today's total be regarded as high, it must be compared with the daily average of 1,425,000 shares traded so far this year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 70 cents, the most in a little more thtn three weeks. The average stands now at $107.80. The industrial component of the average was hardest hit and lost 90 cents. Railroads were down 80 cents while utilities were down 20 cents.

All of the ten most active issues declined. American Telephone off ⅜ at 155 headed the list with a volume of 15,500 shares. It was followed by U. S. leather off ½ at 14¾, Canadian Pacific off ½ at 25, International Telephone off ¼ at 15½, and U. S. Steel off ⅜ at 37¼.

Trooper Turns Inventor To Aid Law Enforcement

By Central Press

COLUMBUS, O.—A veteran Ohio State Highway Patrol official has come up with an invention which will enable local governments—large or small—to enforce highway weight limits without tying up thousands of dollars in weighing stations or permanent scales layouts.

The official, Inspector U. C. Felty, recently unveiled his invention—a portable weighing station which can be towed along the highway by a patrol car or jeep—and observers were amazed at its simplicity and efficiency.

"It's so simple I don't know why I didn't think of it years ago," said Inspector Felty, who has been with Ohio's patrol since its inception 19 years ago.

Said E. E. Powell, an official of Black & Decker Manufacturing company of Townson, Md., manufacturer of truck-weighing scales:

"I have never seen anything like it in the 27 years I've been in the business. It is the real answer to accurate weighing of tandem axle trucks, which present the biggest problem."

* * *

INSPECTOR FELTY'S scales are really four sets of old-fashioned portable truck-weighing scales rolled up into one. With the old portables, which weighed 87 pounds apiece, highway patrolmen had to stop trucks, haul out the portables, place a scale under each wheel to be weighed before the load could be registered.

Felty's invention eliminates all this tugging and pulling (and possible injury for patrolmen). His unit, operated by a hydraulic lift which lowers it to the pavement from the jeep-pulled trailer and raises it again, can weigh all four wheels of a big tandem axle at once.

Felty said many small communities, previously unable to enforce weight limits because of the cost of permanent scales was prohibitive, had expressed interest in his invention.

* * *

LARGER POPULATION centers apparently are interested, too, for New York's state patrol sent two of its officials to Columbus to look over the invention of Inspector Felty, who has been with Ohio's patrol since its formation some 20 years ago.

The reason for New York's interest was apparent. That state currently has been building a series of weighing stations to help enforce a weight-distance tax on heavy trucks. These stations cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 apiece and require long strips of right-of-way to accommodate the vehicles and a host of other space-consuming and expensive requirements.

Inspector Felty's scales, which can do the job just as efficiently as a permanent layout, will cost less than $1,500.

Trucking company officials who witnessed the unveiling also expressed interest, pointing out that often they desire to weigh loads at various points along their routes.

Mother Of 7 Disappears In Rugged Woods

Search Party Combs Mountain

A 45-man searching party was combing rugged Pin Oak Mountain in Hampshire County, W. Va., last night for a young mother of seven who vanished into the thickly wooded back country yesterday afternoon.

Missing was Mrs. Marie Allen, about 30, wife of Brady Allen, a sawmill worker in the Paw Paw section.

Note Is Found

Later, neighbors reported having seen Mrs. Allen walking up a sawmill trail along the cliff-studded mountain near her home. She has not been seen since then.

State Police Sgt. R. E. Schnell and Trooper C. W. Austin of the State Police detachment at Romney immediately formed a 30-man search party at Pin Oak Tavern and headed into the woods. Sheriff C. N. Buckbee and his deputies also helped round up volunteers for the search.

Father Died Recently

Fifteen more men gathered at the Paw Paw Volunteer Fire Company hall, summoned by the company's siren, and started searching along another route up the rocky slope.

Relatives said Mrs. Allen, who has been in ill health for several months, had been considerably shaken by the death of her father, Jarry W. Milburn, of Woodrow, who was buried Monday.

State Police Radio Operator P. V. Cunningham at Romney said Trooper Austin, who recently completed training at the South Charleston State Police School, was serving on his first assignment. He had reported to Romney for duty only yesterday.

Henderson Is Appointed To Study Committee

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today appointed a special commission to study laws governing adoptions and the placement of children in Maryland.

He instructed the body to suggest legislation to be presented to the General Assembly.

Judge Herman M. Moser of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore was named chairman of the group.

Judge George Henderson of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, Cumberland; and Dr. Albert A. Pearre, head of the Maryland Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, Frederick.

The McKeldin statement said, in part:

"Several questions have arisen about the present adoption law growing out of various judicial decisions. . . during the past several years. The matter of adoption is such an intimate and personal relationship that the law should be clear and should give to the child, to the parents, and to the adoptive parents all possible legal protection.

"In addition to the matter of adoption, there is the placement of children with non-related individuals for care which in the past has been controlled by various laws."

Alternates appointed are Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Graydon Dunlap, Mary D. Fleton, Thomas B. Finan, Milton Gerson, Anna A. McGraw and William B. Orndorff.

A state executive committee meeting will be held today at Annapolis, at which time final arrangements will be made for the convention.

Five More Teachers Appointed To Posts In Allegany County's School System

DOROTHY M. STAHL

HARVEY J. MASON

Five more persons have been appointed to teach in the Allegany County public school system when classes resume September 8, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

Mrs. Mabel Lyons Thompson of Piedmont, W. Va., has been appointed to teach home economics at Bruce High School in Westernport. A graduate of Western Maryland College, Mrs. Thompson has had teaching experience in both Ridgeley and Keyser high schools.

Another experienced teacher, Harvey J. Mason of Shinnston, W. Va., will teach Latin at Allegany High School begining next month. Mason received his bachelor of arts degree from Fairmont (W. Va.) State Teachers College in 1936 and his master's degree from West Virginia University in 1940. He has taught in West Virginia high schools at Gary, Shinnston and New Martinsville.

Miss Dorothy M. Stahl, who lives at Sito, Pa., has been employed to teach French and English at Bruce High School in Westernport. A graduate of Shippensburg (Pa.) State Teachers College, Miss Stahl taught the past year at the Springfield Township High School, West Springfield, Pa.

Frank R. Munson, Millvale, Pa., will teach instrumental music at Beall High School in Frostburg. This will be his first teaching position as he graduated in June from Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College.

Also appointed is Mrs. Nora C. Troxell, 15 Prospect Square, who will be the first librarian in the new Valley High School at Lonaconing. Mrs. Troxell, who received her bachelor of science degree at Ohio State University also has studied library science at Catholic University. She has been librarian at the Pennsylvania Avenue School Branch of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

There still are a few positions in specialized subjects as home economics and industrial arts yet to be filled, Rizer noted.

Lions Club Plans For Horse Show Are Near Completion

The group, planning a larger, more elaborate event than ever sponsored before by the local Lions, has completed approximately 70 per cent of the program and committee members reported that 47 horses have been entered to date.

Twenty-seven members of the committee met with Bert J. Graham, chairman, at the YMCA and pledged efforts to complete the program by Tuesday, August 25. The Horse Show will be held September 4, 5, 6 and 7 at Fairgo.

This will be the fourth annual show sponsored by the Lions and is expected to be bigger and better than ever. The club has planned a six-session affair encompassing 93 events this year, as compared to four sessions and 56 events last year.

The first session is planned Friday night, Sept. 4. Two sessions will be held Saturday and Sunday and the concluding events will be held on Labor Day.

Graham said invitations have been sent to horse owners and breeders throughout Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, the District of Columbia, and Pennsylvania to participate in the affair. The response of 47 entries to date is far ahead of the anticipated returns, Graham said.

Net proceeds from receipts of the four-day show will be given to the Allegany League for Crippled Children and are used by the Lions Club in connection with their work with underprivileged blind children.

Interim Council Begins Its Visit Of W. Maryland

Sen. Kimble Heads Legislative Group

The Legislative Council of Maryland's General Assembly arrived last night in Cumberland to begin its first official visit to Western Maryland in over four years.

The group was headed by State Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County who met the train in Silver Spring and returned here with the interim body of the state legislature.

Sen. Kimble has arranged a full schedule for the legislators which will get under way this morning and take them on a conducted three-day tour of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Included in the group arriving last night by automobile are State Senators John Turnbull, Stanley Huff, Kenneth McLaughlin, Jacob Ramsberg and Delegate Melvin H. Derr. Aboard the Baltimore and Ohio special train which pulled in at 9:58 p. m. were Sen. Kimble and his wife and members of the delegation. They are Senators Layman Redden, Paul Bailey, John Jewell, George W. Della, president of the Senate and chairman of the legislative delegation, Louis Goldstein, and Delegates Mary L. Nock, John Luber, speaker of the House, Richard Lankford, Thomas Dempsey, Jerome Robinson, C. Ray Barnes, Frederick Lucas, Carroll Lowe, Arthur Green and Miss Jane Sauer, secretary to the council.

The legislators, after their arrival were entertained at a cocktail party at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Former State Attorney General William C. Walsh and William A. Gunter, member of the State Board of Education, were the hosts.

Today's activities will begin at 8:15 a. m. with breakfast at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, followed by a tour of the plant. An inspection of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America will follow.

From Amcelle the group will go to Lover's Leap which overlooks the Narrows to examine the site of a state park on Wills Mountain as recommended by the Maryland State Planning Commission.

Thursday the council will be at Frostburg State Teachers College and will visit Miners Hospital in Frostburg. Following a meeting with hospital directors the body will go to Westernport for luncheon as guests of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at the Devon Club. A tour of the paper mill will be included on the program.

A Maryland State Police escort was provided for the group when they arrived at Queen City Station. The escort was headed by First Sergeant Harry Holsinger of the LaVale barracks and included Troopers R. D. Wolford, C. H. Lewis, Donald R. Wade from LaVale and Sgt. J. N. Ford, Cpl. T. F. Hess and Trooper N. K. Collison from state police headquarters.

Bantam Roosters Travel On All Of Firm's Trucks

E. O. Taylor, who operates the Economy Coal Company in Keyser, W. Va., wants his hitch-hiking bantam roosters and hens treated impartially.

One small rooster and hen were given Associated Press mention Monday in a dispatch from Hagerstown. This brief account said that they hopped off an Economy Coal Company truck immediately after it had completed a non-stop trip from Romney, W. Va. to Hagerstown.

Taylor wants it known bantam roosters and hens can be found under any and all of his dozen or so trucks which are housed at a garage at the corner of Potter Road and Allegheny Street in Keyser. The rooster and hen mentioned in the Hagerstown story must have been on the truck from the time it left Keyser, Taylor assumes.

Valley High Sewage Plant Is Progressing

Area Officials Check Big Disposal System

County and state officials expressed pleasure yesterday with the progress being made toward the sewage disposal system being constructed for Valley High School near Lonaconing.

The inspection found the system, which will cost up to $50,000, about 65 per cent complete, and Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, said the facility will be in operation when Valley High School opens its doors to up to 800 students on September 8.

Also present to check on the progress of the school and the sewage plant were William H. Lemmert, president, and James Holmes, member of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners; S. Russ Minter, architect for the project; George B. Hale, State Roads Commission maintenance engineer, and J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian of the Allegany County Health Department.

The sewage system is typical of a number of large installations scheduled this year in schools and businesses of Allegany County. Total cost of the work, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, will exceed a quarter of a million dollars.

Dowling hailed the project as the first step in a long-range plan to restore the quality of the waters of historic Georges Creek.

The sewage system designed to care for 900 students, is being built by the Baltimore firm of Rummel, Klepper and Kahl, and was designed by Minter after plans were approved by county and state health authorities.

The plant begins with a big septic tank on the school site. From there, sewage is pumped to a distribution box across State Route 36 after the sewage is chlorinated.

The sewage then goes to one of two 130-by-70 foot distribution beds, where it trickles down throughout two feet of sand and three feet of gravel and then is collected by pierced drain pipes and led to Georges Creek.

Rip rap will be laid along the creek side of the filter beds to guard against damage when Georges Creek goes on rampages, and grass will be sown over the beds.

Dowling stressed that the project could not have been built on time without the cooperation of all officials, including the State Roads Commission, which arranged for right of way across the highway and provided grades for the filter beds.

Pipe work is being done by the Walter N. Yoder firm under a subcontract. Max Matthias, Frostburg, is serving as liaison engineer for the sewage job.

During the inspection trip, the officials collected data on the water and sewage plants of the school, which will be featured in a State Health Department publication.

Webster said contractors are completing the final work in the school. A number of minor jobs may be incomplete when school opens, he said, but they will not interfere with classes.

The school's athletic field is being built by the Geoerge F. Hazelwood Construction Company, he added, and grading work will be completed soon.

Rankin Probes Fruitless Try At Jail Break

Mineral County Inmates Foiled

Mineral County (W.Va.) Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. (Pat) Rankin and other county officers are conducting an investigation into what appears to have been a frustated break from the County Jail at Keyser Monday night.

Rankin and Mineral County law enforcement officers discovered that holes had been drilled around the steel window frames and they found also several clubs and window sash weights when they entered the "bull pen" during the night Monday.

Suspicious Noises

A warning that noises of a suspicious nature had been heard prompted the prosecutor and others to make their nocturnal visit to the jail. It is presumed that the sound heard was drilling in the jail walls.

Rankin was accompanied by Sheriff Earl Kemp, State Trooper W. Frank Bowley, Keyser Police Chief Guy F. Clem and Keyser Patrolman Harry Steward.

The investigators believe that some sharp instrument was used to try to pry the steel barred frames from the window opening. It also was presumed that pieces of wood and sash weights found at the scene were to have been used as weapons had the break succeeded. Authorities have not found out where the weights came from.

First Floor Job

Physical facts indicate that the would-be jail breakers had to be those confined on the first floor. There is no way the second-floor inmates could have been involved, authorities say.

Three Mineral County Jail prisoners were removed yesterday and were taken to the West Virginia State Penitentiary at Moundsville, where they will begin serving sentences of from one to 10 years as parole violators. They are Eugene Corbin, Justin Roy and Roy Mathena. Rankin reported that both Roy and Mathena were in second floor cells Monday night.

Swimming Meet, Picnic Planned At Pine Avenue

The City Recreation Department will sponsor a picnic today at Pine Avenue Playground for colored children registered at Pine Avenue and Carver playgrounds.

Up to 300 children are expected to attend the event which will be climaxed by a three-hour swimming meet, according to Robert E. Pence, recreation director.

The program will get under way at 10 a. m. with picnic games and races for four age groups. Events will include sack races, peanut rolls, newspaper races, bubble blowing, balloon races and scrambles for peanuts and candy.

A basket picnic will be held from noon until 12:30 p. m.

Plan Treasure Hunt

The next half hour will be devoted to a treasure hunt for youngsters and mixed volleyball games for the older children.

A full scale swimming meet will be held from 1 to 4 p. m., with competition for non-swimmers, beginners and swimmers. It will be the first full swimming meet offered by the department for colored children.

The activities for non-swimmers, which will take place in the wading pool at Pine Avenue Playground, will include "Sunken treasure" games — scrambles for pennies thrown in the pool, walking races and "O'Grady Says" games.

Full Schedule Set

Swimmers may compete in eight classes of competition. They include a 35-yard free-style race, 130-yard medley relay, free-style breast and back stroke races, distance underwater swimming, breath-holding contest, disrobing relays and diving contests.

The picnic will be in charge of Charles Calhoun, assisted by Jeanetta Beckward, director of Carver Playground, and Margaret Yates, director of Pine Avenue Playground, and Frank Page, director of the Pine Avenue Pool.

Mother Of 7 Disappears In Rugged Woods

Search Party Combs Mountain

A 45-man searching party was combing rugged Pin Oak Mountain in Hampshire County, W. Va., last night for a young mother of seven who vanished into the thickly wooded back country yesterday afternoon.

Missing was Mrs. Marie Allen, about 30, wife of Brady Allen, a sawmill worker in the Paw Paw section.

Note Is Found

A brother, William Milburn of Woodrow, near Paw Paw, said members of the family found a note saying "I can't stand this any longer."

Later, neighbors reported having seen Mrs. Allen walking up a sawmill trail along the cliff-studded mountain near her home. She has not been seen since then.

Her brother, William, reported her missing last night after the family and neighbors had been unable to locate her.

State Police Sgt. R. E. Schnell and Trooper C. W. Austin of the State Police detachment at Romney immediately formed a 30-man search party at Pin Oak Tavern and headed into the woods. Sheriff C. N. Buckbee and his deputies also helped round up volunteers for the search.

Father Died Recently

Fifteen more men gathered at the Paw Paw Volunteer Fire Company hall, summoned by the company's siren, and started searching along another route up the rocky slope.

Relatives said Mrs. Allen, who has been in ill health for several months, had been considerably shaken by the death of her father, Jarry W. Milburn, of Woodrow, who was buried Monday.

State Police Radio Operator P. V. Cunningham at Romney said Trooper Austin, who recently completed training at the South Charleston State Police School, was serving on his first assignment. He had reported to Romney for duty only yesterday.

Rankin Probes Fruitless Try At Jail Break

Mineral County Inmates Foiled

Mineral County (W.Va.) Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. (Pat) Rankin and other county officers are conducting an investigation into what appears to have been a frustated break from the County Jail at Keyser Monday night.

Rankin and Mineral County law enforcement officers discovered that holes had been drilled around the steel window frames and they found also several clubs and window sash weights when they entered the "bull pen" during the night Monday.

Suspicious Noises

A warning that noises of a suspicious nature had been heard prompted the prosecutor and others to make their nocturnal visit to the jail. It is presumed that the sound heard was drilling in the jail walls.

Rankin was accompanied by Sheriff Earl Kemp, State Trooper W. Frank Bowley, Keyser Police Chief Guy F. Clem and Keyser Patrolman Harry Steward.

The investigators believe that some sharp instrument was used to try to pry the steel barred frames from the window opening. It also was presumed that pieces of wood and sash weights found at the scene were to have been used as weapons had the break succeeded. Authorities have not found out where the weights came from.

First Floor Job

Physical facts indicate that the would-be jail breakers had to be those confined on the first floor. There is no way the second-floor inmates could have been involved, authorities say.

Three Mineral County Jail prisoners were removed yesterday and were taken to the West Virginia State Penitentiary at Moundsville, where they will begin serving sentences of from one to 10 years as parole violators. They are Eugene Corbin, Justin Roy and Roy Mathena. Rankin reported that both Roy and Mathena were in second floor cells Monday night.

Swimming Meet, Picnic Planned At Pine Avenue

The City Recreation Department will sponsor a picnic today at Pine Avenue Playground for colored children registered at Pine Avenue and Carver playgrounds.

Up to 300 children are expected to attend the event which will be climaxed by a three-hour swimming meet, according to Robert E. Pence, recreation director.

The next half hour will be devoted to a treasure hunt for youngsters and mixed volleyball games for the older children.

A full scale swimming meet will be held from 1 to 4 p. m., with competition for non-swimmers, beginners and swimmers. It will be the first full swimming meet offered by the department for colored children.

The activities for non-swimmers, which will take place in the wading pool at Pine Avenue Playground, will include "Sunken treasure" games — scrambles for pennies thrown in the pool, walking races and "O'Grady Says" games.

Full Schedule Set

Swimmers may compete in eight classes of competition. They include a 35-yard free-style race, 130-yard medley relay, free-style breast and back stroke races, distance underwater swimming, breath-holding contest, disrobing relays and diving contests.
